07/13/2007	158	SUMMARY ORDER signed by Judge Gregory G. Hollows on 07/13/07 ORDERING that with respect to all electronic discovery concerning requests for production,including privilege logs, except for "office tech" computer searches, the deadline for production is August 11, 2007. Within ten days of August 11, 2007, plaintiffs' counsel shall conduct a cursory review of produced electronic discovery, and either agree with defendants' counsel that a search for "office tech" discovery is not necessary, or make an emergency request which will be placed on the court's next law and motion calendar. The court takes under submission the appropriate remedies for the belated commencement of electronic discovery searches by defendants. Defendants represented in court that previously propounded interrogatories and requests for production have been finally answered/responded to. Should plaintiffs have a motion to make regarding completed discovery, they may file it forthwith. (Duong, D) (Entered: 07/13/2007)

01/05/2009	474	FIRST REPORT OF THE SPECIAL MASTER ON THE STATUS OF CONDITIONS OF THE STIPULATED ORDER by Chase Riveland on 11/25/08 In Summary: Both parties should be commended, first for achieving a settlement and secondly for their continued dogged pursuit through "meet and confers" to come to agreement on policies and procedures and the issues in dispute. The Defendants have worked aggressively in a difficult governmental environment to make significant changes in the juvenile justice parole system. Continued efforts to effect that change will be necessary as governmental agencies typically tend to lean toward retaining the status quo. As many persons from both parties are intimately acquainted with the Valdivia v. Schwarzenegger lawsuit, many of the "lessons learned" in the adult parole system can assist in retooling the juvenile parole system. However, the persons "on the ground," who must functionally implement the new policies and procedures, typically do not have that experiential base and will require explicit training and thoughtful leadership at all levels of the organization to successfully implement the required processes. The Special Master's team intends during the next term to concentrate on evaluating the Defendants' implementation of the agreed upon processes and activities and to attempt to assist the parties in resolving those issues in dispute. The Defendants have made important progress and are laying a solid foundation for the needed changes. The Special Master makes no recommendation to the Court at this time. (Becknal, R) .
