

- EEOC v. Titanium Metals Corporation d/b/a TIMET

No. S-00-1172 DWH (D. Nev. July 1, 2003)

In this Title VII lawsuit, the Los Angeles District Office alleged that defendant subjected four current and two former female employees at its manufacturing plant in Henderson, Nevada to a sexually hostile working environment and retaliated against some of the women for complaining about the harassment. The harassment included groping and sexual advances by male supervisors and co-workers and the circulation of pornographic pictures, dirty jokes and e-mails. The case was resolved through a settlement agreement which provides for a total payment of $217,500, representing $170,000 to be divided among the six claimants and $47,500 in fees paid to the private attorney of one of the women.
