

United States v. Fleet Mortgage Company (E.D.N.Y.)

On May 6, 1996, the United States filed a complaint against Fleet Mortgage Company claimed that the company charged African American and Hispanic borrowers higher prices for home mortgage loans than whites. Under the agreement, which was filed along with the complaint and entered on June 7, 1996, the company agreed to pay damages of $3,800,000 to 599 victims of discrimination and to contribute $200,000 to a fair lending outreach campaign.
