

In the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit

ROCHELLE GARZA, AS GUARDIAN AD LITEM TO UNACCOMPANIED
MINOR J.D., ON BEHALF OF J.D. AND OTHERS SIMILARLY SITUATED, Plaintiff-Appellee,

v.

ERIC HARGAN, ACTING SECRETARY OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES, ET AL.,
Defendants-Appellants.

On Appeal from the United States District Court for the District of Columbia

BRIEF FOR THE STATES OF TEXAS, ARKANSAS, LOUISIANA, MICHIGAN, MISSOURI, NEBRASKA, OHIO, OKLAHOMA, AND SOUTH CAROLINA AS AMICI CURIAE IN SUPPORT OF APPELLANTS AND A STAY PENDING APPEAL

KEN PAXTON
Attorney General of Texas

JEFFERY C. MATEER
First Assistant Attorney General

Office of the Attorney General
P.O. Box 12548 (Mail Code 059)
Austin, Texas 78711-2548
scott.keller@oag.texas.gov
Tel.: (512) 936-1700
Fax: (512) 474-2697

SCOTT A. KELLER
Solicitor General

KYLE HAWKINS
Assistant Solicitor General

DAVID J. HACKER
Special Counsel for Civil Litigation

IDENTITY OF PARTIES AND COUNSEL

The identity of the parties and their counsel are correctly identified in the parties' briefs. Counsel for amici curiae are listed on the cover of this brief.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
Identity of Parties and Counsel	i
Table of Contents	ii
Index of Authorities	iii
Interest of Amici Curiae.....	1
Introduction.....	2
Argument.....	3
I. Unlawfully-Present Aliens with No Ties to the United States Have No Constitutional Right to an Abortion on Demand.....	3
II. The District Court’s TRO Harms the Public Interest.	11
Conclusion.....	13
Certificate of Service.....	14
Certificate of Compliance	14

INDEX OF AUTHORITIES

	Page(s)
Cases:
Am. Civil Liberties Union of Northern California v. Burwell , No. 3:16-cv-03539-LB (N.D. Cal.).....	8, 9, 10
Arbelaez v. Newcomb , 1 F. App'x 1 (D.C. Cir. 2001).....	5
Arizona v. United States , 567 U.S. 387 (2012).....	1, 11
Bellotti v. Baird , 443 U.S. 622 (1979).....	7, 8
Causeway Med. Suite v. Ieyoub , 109 F.3d 1096 (1997)	8
In re Doe , 501 S.W.3d 313 (Tex. App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 2016)	8
Gonzales v. Carhart , 550 U.S. 124 (2007)	1
Ibrahim v. Dep't of Homeland Sec. , 669 F.3d 983 (9th Cir. 2012)	4, 5
Landon v. Plasencia , 459 U.S. 21 (1982).....	5–6
McDonald v. City of Chicago , 561 U.S. 742 (2010).....	10
Meachum v. Fano , 427 U.S. 215 (1976)	3
Planned Parenthood of Central Missouri v. Danforth , 428 U.S. 52 (1976)	7

Planned Parenthood of Se. Pa. v. Casey , 505 U.S. 833 (1992).....	7
Plyler v. Doe , 457 U.S. 202 (1982)	4
Sherley v. Sebelius , 644 F.3d 388 (D.C. Cir. 2011)	3
Texas v. United States , 106 F.3d 661 (5th Cir. 1997)	11
Trump v. Int’l Refugee Assistance Project , 137 S. Ct. 2080 (2017) (per curiam)	5
United States v. Carpio–Leon , 701 F.3d 974 (4th Cir. 2012).....	10
United States v. Flores , 663 F.3d 1022 (8th Cir. 2011) (per curiam)	10–11
United States v. Meza-Rodriguez , 798 F.3d 664 (7th Cir. 2015), cert. denied , 136 S. Ct. 1655 (2016)	4, 11
United States v. Portillo–Munoz , 643 F.3d 437 (5th Cir. 2011)	10
United States v. Verdugo–Urquidez , 494 U.S. 259 (1990)	1, 2, 4, 5
Whole Woman’s Health v. Hellerstedt , 136 S. Ct. 2292 (2016).....	7
Zadvydas v. Davis , 533 U.S. 678 (2001).....	4, 5
Constitutional Provisions and Rules
U.S. Const. amend. V	3
45 C.F.R. § 411.92(a)	8

INTEREST OF AMICI CURIAE

Amici curiae are the States of Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma, and South Carolina. The States have “a legitimate and substantial interest in preserving and promoting fetal life,” as well as an “interest in promoting respect for human life at all stages in the pregnancy.” Gonzales v. Carhart, 550 U.S. 124, 145, 163 (2007). The States further have an interest in cooperating with the federal government to establish a consistent and correct understanding of the rights of aliens unlawfully present in the United States, as the States “bear[] many of the consequences of unlawful immigration.” Arizona v. United States, 567 U.S. 387, 397 (2012).

In this case, the district court has entered a TRO effectively declaring that the U.S. Constitution confers on unlawfully-present aliens the absolute right to an abortion on demand even when they have no ties to this country other than the fact of their arrest while attempting to cross the border unlawfully. As far as amici can ascertain, no court has ever before issued such a sweeping order—and with good reason. Under the district court’s reasoning, there will be no meaningful limit on the constitutional rights an unlawfully-present alien can invoke simply by attempting to enter this country. Such relief also contradicts longstanding Supreme Court precedent that full Fifth Amendment rights vest only in those aliens who “have come within the territory of the United States and developed substantial connections with this country.” United States v. Verdugo-Urquidez, 494 U.S. 259, 271 (1990) (emphasis added).

Amici thus urge the Court to stay and reverse the district court’s order.¹

INTRODUCTION

The TRO and injunction Plaintiff seeks are unprecedented. Until now, no federal court has ever declared that unlawfully-present aliens with no ties to this country have a constitutional right to abortion on demand. The district court broke new ground, and this Court should stay this order and ultimately reverse. It should hold that Doe is not entitled to a TRO because she cannot prevail on the merits: The Constitution does not confer on Jane Doe the right to an abortion.

Furthermore, granting a TRO and preliminary injunction would harm the public interest. Plaintiff argues that the public is better off if Doe can get an abortion. The amici States strongly disagree. Doe openly concedes that she has “no legal immigration status.” Dkt. 3-2 at 3.² The district court’s order effectively creates a right to abortion for anyone on Earth who entered the United States illegally, no matter how briefly. If Doe has a right to an abortion, it is difficult to imagine what other constitutional protections she would not have by extension. This perverse incentive will burden the public at large as well as the governmental entities that will be tasked with honoring these new-found rights.

¹ Neither amici nor counsel received any monetary contributions intended to fund preparing or submitting this brief. No party’s counsel authored this brief in whole or in part.

² Docket numbers refer to filings in this case before the district court.

ARGUMENT

I. Unlawfully-Present Aliens with No Ties to the United States Have No Constitutional Right to an Abortion on Demand.

The Court should stay and reverse the district court’s order because the right Plaintiff asserts does not exist. She therefore cannot show a likelihood of success on the merits, and so the district court necessarily erred in granting a TRO. See Sherley v. Sebelius, 644 F.3d 388, 392–93 (D.C. Cir. 2011) (Winter is properly read “at least to suggest if not to hold” that the plaintiff’s “likelihood of success is an independent, freestanding requirement for a preliminary injunction,” which is not weighed against the other factors) (quotation marks omitted)).

1. The “initial inquiry” in assessing any due process claim is whether the Constitution protects the right the plaintiff asserts. See Meachum v. Fano, 427 U.S. 215, 223–24 (1976). Only after confirming that the right at issue exists should a court move on to whether the government has violated that right. Thus, in this case, the Court should begin with a threshold question: do the Fifth Amendment’s substantive due process guarantees apply to unlawfully-present aliens with no connection to this country who were apprehended while attempting to cross the border? The answer is no.³

The Constitution provides that “[n]o person shall be . . . deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law.” U.S. CONST. amend. V. While the Supreme Court has held that unlawfully-present aliens are “persons” protected by the Fifth Amendment, Plyler v. Doe, 457 U.S. 202, 210 (1982), the full scope of the Fifth Amendment’s protections that apply to citizens do not cover everyone who merely attempts to enter this country. As the Supreme Court clarified in United States v. Verdugo-Urquidez, 494 U.S. 259, 270 (1990), Plyler’s Fifth Amendment analysis “establish[es] only that aliens receive constitutional protections when they have come within the territory of the United States and developed substantial connections with this country.” Id. at 271 (emphasis added).

The Supreme Court reiterated in 2001 that “once an alien enters the country, the legal circumstance changes, for the Due Process Clause applies to all ‘persons’ within the United States, including aliens, whether their presence here is lawful, unlawful, temporary, or permanent.” Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 693 (2001). But Zadvydas said nothing to alter or undermine Verdugo-Urquidez’s pronouncement that to invoke the full scope of Fifth ³ The district court’s order granting the TRO overlooks this analysis entirely. At no point does the order address the threshold question of whether the Fifth Amendment’s substantive due process guarantees apply to Doe.

Amendment rights, an unlawfully-present alien must demonstrate “substantial connections.” See Ibrahim v. Dep’t of Homeland Sec., 669 F.3d 983, 997 (9th Cir. 2012) (applying “significant voluntary connection” test from Verdugo-Urquidez); United States v. Meza-Rodriguez, 798 F.3d 664, 670 (7th Cir. 2015), cert. denied, 136 S. Ct. 1655 (2016) (same). Indeed, Zadvydas expressly limited its analysis to “aliens who were admitted to the United States but subsequently ordered removed.” 533 U.S. at 682 (emphasis added). By contrast, “[a]liens who have not yet gained initial admission to this country would present a very different question.” Id.

This Court has recognized and applied this framework. Citing Verdugo-Urquidez’s “substantial connection” rule, the Court has held that “foreign nationals without a substantial connection to the United States” lack standing to raise constitutional challenges. Arbelaez v. Newcomb, 1 F. App’x 1, 1 (D.C. Cir. 2001) (per curiam) (citing Verdugo-Urquidez, 494 U.S. at 271). This Court has not explained exactly what constitutes a “substantial connection” under Verdugo-Urquidez, but one sister circuit has held that studying for four years at Stanford University was sufficient to establish a “‘significant voluntary connection’ with the United States.” Ibrahim, 669 F.3d at 997. The Ninth Circuit has left unresolved the question whether certain lawfully admitted aliens—such as “tourists, business visitors, and all student visa holders”—could avail themselves of the Fifth Amendment’s protections. Id.

Summed up, an unlawfully-present alien must at a minimum demonstrate a “previous significant voluntary connection with the United States” sufficient to prove a “substantial connection with our country” in order to assert the full scope of Fifth Amendment rights. Verdugo-Urquidez, 494 U.S. at 271; Trump v. Int’l Refugee Assistance Project, 137 S. Ct. 2080, 2087 (2017) (per curiam) (staying injunction of immigration order for aliens “who lack any bona fide relationship with a person or entity in the United States”); Landon v. Plasencia, 459 U.S. 21, 32 (1982) (alien’s “constitutional status changes” only after he “gains admission to our country and begins to develop the ties that go with permanent residence”).

2. The Complaint (Dkt. 1) never alleges any facts that would establish that Doe has significant ties to this country. To the contrary, the paragraphs that state facts pertinent to Doe establish no connection to the United States at all:

- Paragraphs 4 and 5 summarize Doe’s current situation but offer no allegations establishing a connection to the United States other than her current unlawful presence.
- Paragraph 13 alleges: “J.D. was detained by the federal government and placed in a federally funded shelter in Texas. J.D. is years [sic] old, pregnant, and told the staff at the shelter where she is currently housed that she wanted an abortion.” This paragraph admits that Doe entered the United States unlawfully but offers no allegations establishing a connection to the United States.

- Paragraphs 14 and 15 discuss Doe’s recent efforts to obtain an abortion during her time in custody.
- Paragraphs 33, 34, 35, 36, and 43 allege that the defendants have restricted Doe’s ability to receive an abortion in the United States.

In short, there are 69 paragraphs in the Complaint, and not one of them attempts to meet the Plaintiff’s burden under Verdugo-Urquidez.

Moreover, the declaration that Doe submitted in support of her motion for a temporary restraining order confirms that she has no substantial ties to this country because Doe explicitly admits that she was “detained upon arrival.” Dkt. 3-3 ¶ 4. Doe repeats that she “came to the United States from [her] home country without [her] parents,” and that she is 17 years old. Id. ¶¶ 2, 3. But she never offers any fact establishing a connection to this country. See id. ¶¶ 5-18.

3. Not only are Plaintiff’s factual assertions inadequate, but she further offers no case or authority establishing the right she asked the district court to recognize.

Plaintiff relies on Roe, Casey, and Whole Woman’s Health v. Hellerstedt for the proposition that “the government may not prohibit any woman from making the ultimate decision to terminate her pregnancy before viability.” Dkt. 3-2 at 9 (citing Planned Parenthood of Se. Pa. v. Casey, 505 U.S. 833, 871 (1992) (plurality op.); Whole Woman’s Health v. Hellerstedt, 136 S. Ct. 2292 (2016)). But those cases never say or imply that the substantive due process right to an abortion recognized by the Supreme Court extends to unlawfully-present aliens—especially not those who, like Doe, have no ties to this country and were merely apprehended at the border.

Plaintiff relies further on Planned Parenthood of Central Missouri v. Danforth, 428 U.S. 52, 74 (1976), and Bellotti v. Baird, 443 U.S. 622, 633 n.12 (1979), for the proposition that the principles of Roe and Casey extend to minors. Dkt. 3-2 at 10-11. Those cases, too, did not involve unlawfully-present aliens. Plus, those cases simply confer on minors the right to bypass parental-consent requirements by initiating a judicial proceeding to establish that an abortion is in their best interests. See Bellotti, 443 U.S. at 651. As Plaintiff admits, “if Bellotti means anything, ‘it surely means that States seeking to regulate minors’ access to abortion must offer a credible bypass procedure, independent of parents or legal guardians.” Dkt. 3-2 at 11 (quoting Causeway Med. Suite v. Ieyoub, 109 F.3d 1096, 1112 (1997)). But Doe concedes that she already has received a judicial bypass in Texas state court. See Dkt. 3-3 ¶ 6. That ends the relevance of Bellotti and Planned Parenthood of Central Missouri.⁴

Lacking case support, Plaintiff turns to 45 C.F.R. § 411.92(a) for the proposition that unlawfully-present, unaccompanied minors such as Doe are entitled to reproductive care. Dkt. 1 ¶ 29. But she mischaracterizes § 411.92(a), which merely requires certain medical services, including emergency contraception, to minors who are “victims of sexual abuse.” Doe has not alleged that she is the victim of sexual abuse. See Dkt 3-3.

⁴ A judicial bypass order does not confer on a minor the right to obtain an abortion. See In re Doe, 501 S.W.3d 313, 315-16 (Tex. App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 2016). It simply relieves Doe’s abortion provider of any duty to consult her parents.

4. Before the district court, Plaintiff wrongly cited the recent order in American Civil Liberties Union of Northern California v. Burwell, No. 3:16-cv-03539-LB, (N.D. Cal.) (Dkt. 102)—a case involving this same Jane Doe—to support her motion for a TRO. That court held that the preexisting plaintiff in that case could not permissibly amend its complaint to add Doe and her claims to that lawsuit, an Establishment Clause case that had been pending for over a year. However, that court went on to note that Doe would be entitled to a TRO if she had brought her claims in a different lawsuit in a proper venue. Id. at 2. This Court should disregard that dicta because it is incorrect.

The Northern District of California never even asked—much less analyzed—the threshold question this case presents of whether unlawfully-present aliens with no ties to this country have a Fifth Amendment right to an abortion on demand while unlawfully present in the United States. Instead, the court put the cart before the horse and stated that the federal government has “no justification” for refusing to allow Doe to receive an abortion. Id. But the question of the government’s justification matters only if the right Doe presses exists—and in this case, it does not, as set out above. Had the Northern District of California properly begun with that threshold analysis, instead of assuming without discussion that Doe has a right to an abortion, it would have been forced to reach the opposite conclusion.

At any rate, even on its own terms, the Northern District of California’s analysis is incorrect. That court accused the federal government of “actively preventing a woman from getting an abortion.” Id. Plaintiff echoes that point, arguing that the government is “prohibit[ing] her from exercising her rights at all.” Dkt. 3-2 at 2. But both the Plaintiff and the Northern District of California mischaracterize this case. Doe concedes that her presence in this country is unlawful. Dkt. 3-2 at 3 (Doe has “no legal immigration status”). The federal government has explained that Doe is free to voluntarily depart this country. Her “continued custodial status is due mainly to her decision not to file for voluntary departure.” Am. Civil Liberties Union of N. Cal., No. 3:16-cv-03539-LB (Dkt. 94 at 6-7). Neither Plaintiff nor the Northern District of California has offered any citation or explanation to support their view that the government blocks access to abortion even when it tells an unlawfully-present alien that she is free to leave.

5. If the district court’s TRO stands, it will have far-reaching and dire consequences throughout constitutional law and undermine settled precedents.

If on the facts of this case Doe has a Fifth Amendment right to an abortion, it is hard to imagine why she could be denied any other constitutional rights—such as the Second Amendment right to keep and bear arms. See McDonald v. City of Chicago, 561 U.S. 742, 778 (2010) (the “right to keep and bear arms” lies among the “fundamental rights necessary to our system of ordered liberty”). Yet courts have consistently rejected the notion that unlawfully-present aliens with no substantial connections to this country are protected by the Second Amendment. See United States v. Portillo–Munoz, 643 F.3d 437, 442 (5th Cir. 2011) (“the phrase ‘the people’ in the Second Amendment of the Constitution does not include aliens illegally in the United States”); United States v. Carpio–Leon, 701 F.3d 974, 979 (4th Cir. 2012) (“illegal aliens do not belong to the class of law-abiding members of the political community to whom the Second Amendment gives protection”); United States v. Flores, 663 F.3d 1022, 1023 (8th Cir. 2011) (per curiam) (“the protections of the Second Amendment do not extend to aliens illegally present in this country”); cf. Meza-Rodriguez, 798 F.3d at 669-672 (unlawfully-present alien has Second Amendment rights only because he arrived in the U.S. at a young age and lived here for 20 years).

To hold that Doe has a constitutional right to an abortion in this case would undermine these and others cases holding that individuals in Doe’s circumstances possess only narrow constitutional protections.

II. The District Court’s TRO Harms the Public Interest.

If allowed to stand, the TRO will harm the public interest. As the Supreme Court has recognized, the States already “bear[] many of the consequences of unlawful immigration.” Arizona, 567 U.S. at 397. See Texas v. United States, 106 F.3d 661, 664 (5th Cir. 1997) (Texas’ “educational, medical, and criminal justice expenditures on undocumented aliens” are over a billion dollars annually).

The district court’s order effectively announces that anyone on Earth has any number of constitutional rights simply by being apprehended while trying to cross the United States border. That dramatic expansion of rights available to unlawfully-present aliens with no substantial connection to this country will incentivize even more unlawful entries and further consume public resources at the State and local level.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, amici urge the Court to stay and reverse the district court's order granting Plaintiff's motion for a temporary restraining order.

Respectfully submitted.

LESLIE RUTLEDGE
Attorney General of Arkansas

KEN PAXTON
Attorney General of Texas

JEFF LANDRY
Attorney General of Louisiana

JEFFERY C. MATEER
First Assistant Attorney General

BILL SCHUETTE
Attorney General of Michigan

/s/ Scott A. Keller
SCOTT A. KELLER
Solicitor General

JOSH HAWLEY
Attorney General of Missouri

KYLE HAWKINS
Assistant Solicitor General

DOUG PETERSON
Attorney General of Nebraska

DAVID J. HACKER
Special Counsel for Civil Litigation

MICHAEL DEWINE
Attorney General of Ohio

Office of the Attorney General
P.O. Box 12548, Mail Code 059
Austin, Texas 78711-2548
(512) 936-1700
scott.keller@oag.texas.gov

MIKE HUNTER
Attorney General of Oklahoma

ALAN WILSON
Attorney General of
South Carolina

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on October 19, 2017 the foregoing document was served via electronic filing on all counsel of record in this case.

/s/ Scott A. Keller
SCOTT A. KELLER
Solicitor General

CERTIFICATE OF COMPLIANCE

This brief complies with: (1) the type-volume limitation of Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 32(g)(1) because it contains 2,790 words, excluding the parts of the brief exempted by Rule 32(a)(7)(B)(iii); and (2) the typeface requirements of Rule 32(a)(5) and the type style requirements of Rule 32(a)(6) because it has been prepared in a proportionally spaced typeface (14-point Equity) using Microsoft Word (the same program used to calculate the word count).

/s/ Scott A. Keller
SCOTT A. KELLER