INTRODUCTION

1. On March 6, 2017, President Trump signed an Executive Order entitled “Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Entry into the United States” (the “March 6 Order” or “Executive Order”). The March 6 Order, which Plaintiffs challenge in its entirety, was intended and designed to target and discriminate against Muslims, and it does just that in operation.

2. Once effective, the March 6 Order will rescind and replace a similar Executive Order, signed on January 27, 2017 (the “January 27 Order”; together, we refer to the January 27 and March 6 Executive Orders as the “Executive Orders”), that had the same purpose and effect, the implementation of which prompted chaos and widespread civil rights abuses in airports across the country. As a result of legal challenges to the January 27 Order, numerous courts enjoined several key provisions that banned the entry to the United States of both refugees and the nationals of seven predominantly Muslim countries.

3. The major provisions of the March 6 Order are nearly identical to those of the January 27 Order. The new order bans individuals from six of the seven predominantly Muslim countries identified in the January 27 Order—Yemen, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Iran, and Syria—from entering the United States for at least 90 days. Like the previous order, the March 6 Order suspends the entire United States Refugee Admissions Program for at least 120 days and reduces the number of refugees allowed into the United States for the current fiscal year from 110,000 to 50,000. The March 6 Order also contains language that associates Muslims with violence, terrorism, bigotry, and hatred, inflicting stigmatic and dignitary harms. As a result, the March 6 Order will have the same discriminatory and stigmatizing impact on Muslims as the January 27 Order, which was itself a product of the President’s clearly expressed intent to prevent Muslims from entering the United States.

4. While the March 6 Order contains various additions and revisions intended to insulate it from the legal claims that led to the enjoining of the January 27 Order, the Trump Administration has made clear that the March 6 Order is intended to effectuate the same policy outcome as the January 27 Order. The March 6 Order likewise suffers from the same fundamental constitutional and statutory defects as the January 27 Order.

5. The President has been very clear about his desire to prevent Muslims from entering the United States. He specifically promised to do so as a candidate. Presented with early objections to that proposal, he asked advisors how he could implement a Muslim ban indirectly, and they helped him craft the January 27 Order. President Trump further admitted on national television that through the January 27 Order he intended to favor Christian refugees over Muslim refugees. Rarely in American history has governmental intent to discriminate against a particular faith and its adherents been so plain.

6. After key provisions of the January 27 Order were preliminarily enjoined, a Trump Administration spokesperson explained that the revised Executive Order (which was ultimately signed on March 6) would have only minor, technical changes from the original Order, and would thus produce the same basic policy outcome. That basic goal and outcome was, and remains, the exclusion of Muslims from the United States.

7. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order violates two of our most cherished constitutional protections: the guarantee that the government will not establish, favor, discriminate against, or condemn any religion, and the guarantee of equal protection of the laws.

8. The United States was born in part of an effort to escape religious persecution, and the Religion Clauses of the First Amendment reflect the harrowing history of our Founders. More than two centuries later, our nation is one of the most religiously diverse in the world and has become a sanctuary for immigrants and visitors of all faiths and no faith, including refugees fleeing persecution in their homelands.

9. Both the January 27 Order and the March 6 Order fly in the face of our historical commitment to welcoming and protecting people of all faiths, and no faith, and it violates the “clearest command of the Establishment Clause”—“one religious denomination cannot be officially preferred over another.” Larson v. Valente, 456 U.S. 228, 244 (1982).

10. The United States was likewise founded on the principle that all people—regardless of their faith or where they are born—are created equal. The March 6 Order—which, like the January 27 Order, was motivated by animus toward Muslims and expressly discriminates on the basis of national origin—runs afoul of this core constitutional value as well.

11. Plaintiffs challenge the March 6 Order under the Establishment Clause; the equal protection guarantee of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment; the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb et seq.; the anti-discrimination provisions of the INA, 8 U.S.C. § 1152(a)(1)(A); the Refugee Act of 1980, as amended; and the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A)-(D).

12. Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court issue appropriate declaratory relief and preliminarily and permanently enjoin the March 6 Order as a whole.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

13. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1343 over Plaintiffs’ claims under the U.S. Constitution and federal statutes. The Court has additional remedial authority under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201-02.

14. Venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. §1391(e) and Local Rule 501.4.a.ii. Defendants are officers or employees of the United States acting in their official capacities, and agencies of the United States. Plaintiffs HIAS and John Doe #1 reside in the Southern Division of this District. No real property is involved in this action.

PARTIES

15. Plaintiff International Refugee Assistance Project (“IRAP”), a project of the Urban Justice Center, Inc., provides and facilitates free legal services for vulnerable populations around the world, including refugees, who seek to escape persecution and find safety in the United States and other Western countries.

16. Founded in 2008 as a student organization at Yale Law School, IRAP initially served Iraqi refugees who were victims of the Iraq War. In 2010, IRAP became part of the Urban Justice Center and now has offices in New York as well as the Middle East. IRAP has expanded its client base since its inception to assist refugees from Afghanistan, Egypt, Eritrea, Ethiopia, Iran, Jordan, Kuwait, Libya, Pakistan, Palestine, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, Turkey, and Yemen. Through in-house casework, as well as supervision of 1,200 students from 29 law schools in the United States and Canada and pro bono attorneys from over 75 international law firms and multinational corporations, IRAP directly assists thousands of refugees in urgent registration, protection, and resettlement cases every year.

17. IRAP lawyers provide legal assistance to refugees and other immigrants to the United States throughout the resettlement process. IRAP lawyers advise their clients on the resettlement process, write legal briefs and compile physical evidence in advance of clients’ interviews with United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (“USCIS”), prepare them for their oral testimony in their interviews, and then conduct regular follow-up with USCIS until the clients are safely resettled.

18. IRAP assists many individuals in the United States who need assistance filing family reunification petitions for family members overseas. IRAP also assists U.S.-based Iraqi and Syrian citizens and lawful permanent residents in filing petitions in order to get their family members overseas into the Direct Access Program of the United States Refugee Admissions Program. Finally, IRAP also assists countless Iraqi and Afghan citizens who have served the United States government to obtain Special Immigrant Visas, with the support of U.S. citizen veterans of Iraq and Afghanistan.

19. Since its inception, IRAP has helped to resettle over 3,200 individuals to 55 countries, with the majority resettled to the United States. It has provided legal assistance to nearly 20,000 more individuals.

20. The overwhelming majority of IRAP's clients, including clients abroad and those within the United States, identify as Muslim.

21. As set forth in greater detail below, implementation of the Executive Orders has caused substantial harm to IRAP and its clients, and will continue to harm them. IRAP asserts claims on behalf of itself and its clients in the United States and abroad. The rights of its clients that IRAP seeks to vindicate here are inextricably bound up with its organizational mission and purpose, and its clients face numerous hurdles to bringing this suit in their own name.

22. Plaintiff HIAS, the world's oldest refugee resettlement agency, is a faith-based organization that aims to rescue people around the world whose lives are in danger. The organization works toward a world in which refugees find welcome, safety, and freedom. Founded in 1881 to assist Jews fleeing pogroms in Russia and Eastern Europe, HIAS now serves refugees and persecuted people of all faiths and nationalities around the globe. Since HIAS's founding, the organization has helped more than 4.5 million refugees start new lives.

23. HIAS has offices in twelve countries worldwide, including headquarters in Silver Spring, Maryland, which is its principal place of business, and another domestic office in New York City. HIAS also provides resettlement experts in support of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR). Refugee resettlement lies at the heart of HIAS's work in the United States. It is one of nine non-profit organizations designated by the federal government to undertake this humanitarian work through contracts with the Department of State and the Department of Health and Human Services.

24. In 2016, HIAS provided services to more than 350,000 refugees and asylum seekers globally. HIAS's client base includes refugees abroad and in the United States who are from Syria, Iraq, Iran, Sudan, Somalia, Yemen, Ukraine, Bhutan, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Afghanistan, Eritrea, Tanzania, Ethiopia, Burundi, South Sudan, Uganda, Russia, Belarus, and Burma, among other countries. Many of these clients are Muslim.

25. HIAS provides programs and services to refugees, including employment, psychosocial, and legal services. HIAS has also been approved to refer cases of particularly vulnerable refugees directly for third-country resettlement to the United States and other countries. Around the world, HIAS provides legal services to protect the rights of refugees, and to register, document, and secure the status of refugees.

26. HIAS is also assigned clients via the State Department's allocation process, which determines which refugee clients will be resettled by HIAS. For clients who have newly arrived in the United States, HIAS either provides direct resettlement services or partners with other organizations across the country to do so. These services include arranging housing and providing essential furnishings, food, clothing, initial cash assistance, initial health screening, cultural and community orientation, and, through case management services, assistance with enrollment in English language classes and employment services, as well as referrals for health and legal services.

27. HIAS, directly and through affiliated agencies, also provides assistance to refugee and asylee clients in the United States who are seeking to gain entry for family members abroad who still face persecution. As set forth in greater detail below, implementation of the January 27 Order has caused substantial harm to HIAS and its clients, and the March 6 Order will continue to harm them. HIAS asserts claims on behalf of itself and its clients. The rights of its clients that HIAS seeks to vindicate here are inextricably bound up with its organizational mission and purpose, and its clients face numerous hurdles to bringing this suit in their own name.

28. Plaintiff Middle East Studies Association (MESA) is a non-profit learned society that brings together scholars, educators, and those interested in the study of the Middle East from all over the world. From its inception in 1966 with 51 founding members, MESA has increased its membership to more than 2,400 and now serves as an umbrella organization for fifty-five institutional members. MESA's membership includes both graduate students and faculty working in the field of Middle East studies.

29. As set forth in greater detail below, MESA and its members will be harmed in a variety of ways by the Executive Order. MESA asserts claims on behalf of itself and its members.

30. Plaintiff John Doe #1 is a lawful permanent resident and national of Iran who lives in Montgomery County, Maryland. He is a scientist. He came to the United States in 2014 on an exchange visitor visa. In 2016, he obtained his lawful permanent resident status through the National Interest Waiver program for people with extraordinary abilities. His pioneering scholarly works are recognized as cutting edge in the sciences. Both John Doe #1 and his wife, who is not a party, are non-practicing Muslims.

31. Plaintiff John Doe #3 is a lawful permanent resident and national of Iran who lives in Anne Arundel County, Maryland. He came to the United States in 2011 through the Green Card lottery. John Doe #3 worked as a teacher in Iran, and currently works in the engineering field.

32. Plaintiff Jane Doe #2 is a U.S. citizen of Syrian origin who lives in Mecklenburg County, North Carolina. She is from a Muslim family and is enrolled in college where she is studying to become a healthcare technician. She filed a family-based visa petition for her sister who is a Syrian refugee currently living in a refugee-designated area in Saudi Arabia with her husband and two young children.

33. Plaintiff Mohammed Meteab is a lawful permanent resident of the United States who lives in Springfield, Massachusetts. He came to the United States in 2015 as a refugee along with his wife and two children. He now has a third child, a U.S. citizen born in the United States. Plaintiff Meteab is one of five brothers; he, his wife, his two elder children, and all five brothers are Iraqi. One brother came to the United States as a refugee. The other three brothers have been approved as refugees by the United Nations High Commission for Refugees and remain in Jordan, awaiting resettlement. Two of the three are approved to come to the United States but do not yet have travel documents. Mr. Meteab is a Sunni Muslim, as are his brothers.

34. Plaintiff Paul Harrison is a citizen of the United States by birth who lives in Euless, Texas. In November 2015, he met his partner, an Iranian national who lives in Tehran, Iran. In March 2016, Mr. Harrison petitioned for his partner—now his fiancé—to join him in the United States on a K-1 visa. After his November 2016 interview at the U.S. Embassy in Ankara, Turkey, his application was approved and administrative processing complete on January 17, 2017. A visa has not yet been issued, however.

35. Plaintiff Ibrahim Ahmed Mohomed is a United States citizen of Somali origin who lives in Columbus, Ohio. He came to the United States as a refugee in 2009. In 2013, his wife and nine children were approved to come to the United States as refugees but they are still in Ethiopia awaiting authorization to travel to the United States to join Mr. Mohomed. Mr. Mohomed and his family are Muslim.

36. As set forth in greater detail below, implementation of the Executive Orders has caused and will continue to cause harm to Plaintiffs Meteab, Harrison, Mohomed, Jane Doe #2 and John Does #1 and #3 (collectively, the “Individual Plaintiffs”).

37. Defendant Donald Trump is the President of the United States. He is sued in his official capacity. In that capacity, he issued the Executive Orders challenged in this suit.

38. Defendant U.S. Department of Homeland Security (“DHS”) is a cabinet-level department of the United States federal government. Its components include U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (“USCIS”), Customs and Border Protection (“CBP”), and Immigration and Customs Enforcement (“ICE”). CBP’s responsibilities include inspecting and admitting immigrants and nonimmigrants arriving with U.S. visas at international points of entry, including airports and land borders. USCIS’s responsibilities include adjudicating requests for immigration benefits for individuals located within the United States. ICE’s responsibilities include enforcing federal immigration law within the interior of the United States. The Executive Orders assign DHS a variety of responsibilities regarding their enforcement.

39. Defendant U.S. Department of State (“DOS”) is a cabinet-level department of the United States federal government. DOS is responsible for the issuance of immigrant and nonimmigrant visas abroad. The Executive Orders assign DOS a variety of responsibilities regarding their enforcement.

40. Defendant Office of the Director of National Intelligence (“ODNI”) is an independent agency of the United States federal government. The ODNI has specific responsibilities and obligations with respect to implementation of the Executive Orders.

41. Defendant Rex Tillerson is the Secretary of State and has responsibility for overseeing enforcement and implementation of the Executive Orders by all DOS staff. He is sued in his official capacity.

42. Defendant John Kelly is the Secretary of Homeland Security. Secretary Kelly has responsibility for overseeing enforcement and implementation of the Executive Orders by all DHS staff. He is sued in his official capacity.

43. Defendant Michael Dempsey is the Acting Director of National Intelligence, and has responsibility for overseeing enforcement and implementation of the Executive Orders by all ODNI staff. He is sued in his official capacity.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

President Trump's Expressed Intent To Target Muslims and To Favor Christians Seeking to Enter the Country

44. President Trump has repeatedly made clear his intent to enact policies that exclude Muslims from entering the United States and favor Christians seeking to enter the United States.

45. On December 7, 2015, then-Presidential candidate Trump issued a statement on his campaign website. Entitled, "DONALD J. TRUMP STATEMENT ON PREVENTING MUSLIM IMMIGRATION," the statement declared that "Donald J. Trump is calling for a total and complete shutdown of Muslims entering the United States until our country's representatives can figure out what is going on."

46. The statement, which remains on President Trump's campaign website to this day, invokes stereotypes of Muslims, falsely suggesting that all Muslims believe in "murder against non-believers who won't convert" and "unthinkable acts" against women.

47. Defending his proposed Muslim ban the next day, candidate Trump told Good Morning America, "What I'm doing is I'm calling very simply for a shutdown of Muslims entering the United States—and here's a key—until our country's representatives can figure out what is going on."

48. When asked the same day on MSNBC how his Muslim ban would be applied by customs officials, candidate Trump said, "That would be probably—they would say, are you Muslim?” A reporter followed up by asking, “And if they said yes, they would not be allowed in the country[?]” Candidate Trump responded, “That’s correct.”

49. Candidate Trump repeatedly reiterated his support for targeting Muslims seeking to enter the United States.

50. On March 9, 2016, candidate Trump stated, “I think Islam hates us. There’s . . . a tremendous hatred there There’s an unbelievable hatred of us We can’t allow people coming into this country who have this hatred of the United States . . . and [of] people that are not Muslim”

51. The next day, during a debate, candidate Trump said he would “stick with exactly” what he had said the night before. When asked if he was referring to all 1.6 billion Muslims worldwide, he explained, “I mean a lot of them.” Candidate Trump stated later in the same debate, “There is tremendous hate. There is tremendous hate. Where large portions of a group of people, Islam, large portions want to use very, very harsh means.”

52. On March 22, 2016, candidate Trump stated that “we’re having problems with the Muslims, and we’re having problems with Muslims coming into the country,” adding, “You need surveillance. You have to deal with the mosques whether we like it or not These attacks aren’t . . . done by Swedish people. That I can tell you.”

53. The same day, candidate Trump stated on Twitter that a Democratic candidate for President, Hillary Clinton, wanted to “let the Muslims flow in.”

54. On June 13, 2016, candidate Trump stated, “I called for a ban after San Bernardino and was met with great scorn and anger. But now many . . . are saying that I was right to do so.”

55. In an interview aired on 60 Minutes on July 17, 2016, when asked about the proposed Muslim ban, candidate Trump replied: “Call it whatever you want. We’ll call it territories, ok?” Asked again whether Muslims would be banned, candidate Trump said that “there’s nothing like” the Constitution “[b]ut it doesn’t necessarily give us the right to commit suicide, as a country, okay?” He again reiterated: “Call it whatever you want.”

56. In a July 24, 2016 interview on Meet the Press, candidate Trump was asked if a plan similar to the now-enacted Executive Order was a “rollback” from “[t]he Muslim Ban.” Candidate Trump responded: “I don’t think so. I actually don’t think it’s a rollback. In fact, you could say it’s an expansion. I’m looking now at territories.”

57. Candidate Trump continued: “People were so upset when I used the word Muslim. Oh, you can’t use the word Muslim. Remember this. And I’m okay with that, because I’m talking territory instead of Muslim.”

58. This explanation that the Muslim ban would use nationality as a proxy was later confirmed by Rudolph Giuliani, an advisor to candidate Trump and later an advisor to him as President. After the Executive Order was signed, Mr. Giuliani explained that “when [candidate Trump] first announced it, he said, ‘Muslim ban.’ He called me up. He said, ‘Put a commission together. Show me the right way to do it legally.’” In response to this edict, according to Mr. Giuliani, the commission decided to focus on territories, rather than explicitly naming Muslims as the subjects of the ban.

The January 27 Order

59. After conducting a campaign in which a ban on Muslim admissions was a key promise, President Trump took action to carry out that promise by issuing the January 27 Order one week after being inaugurated.

60. Statements made by President Trump and his advisors around the time of the signing of the January 27 Order confirm President Trump’s intent to discriminate against Muslims. In an interview with the Christian Broadcasting Network released the same day that he signed the January 27 Order, President Trump stated that the Order was designed to give Christians priority when applying for refugee status. “If you were a Muslim you could come in [to the United States], but if you were a Christian, it was almost impossible,” he said. “[T]hey were chopping off the heads of everybody but more so the Christians. And I thought it was very, very unfair. So we are going to help them.”

61. Consistent with this expressed religious animus towards Muslims and preference for Christians, the January 27 Order disfavors Muslims while giving special treatment to non-Muslims.

62. Section 3, for example, bans any entry for 90 days for individuals from seven countries, each of which is more than ninety percent Muslim: Syria, Sudan, Iraq, Iran, Libya, Somalia, and Yemen.

63. The January 27 Order does not single out any countries for disfavored treatment that are not majority-Muslim.

64. The January 27 Order provides a mechanism for the government to extend and/or expand the 90-day ban at the end of the 90 day period. Sections 3 of the Order directs the Secretary of Homeland Security to “immediately conduct a review to determine the information needed from any country to adjudicate any visa, admission, or other benefit under the INA (adjudications) in order to determine that the individual seeking the benefit is who the individual claims to be and is not a security or public-safety threat,” and to “submit to the President a report on the results of the review ... within 30 days of the date of this order.” At that point, the “Secretary of State shall request all foreign governments that do not supply such information to start providing such information,” and 60 days after that—precisely at the end of the initial 90 day ban period—the January 27 Order provides for the President to issue a proclamation indefinitely banning travelers from a list of countries deemed to be non-compliant “until compliance occurs.” On information and belief, the 30-day review to be conducted by the Secretary of Homeland Security has not yet resulted in a report to the President.

65. Section 5 of the January 27 Order prohibits refugee admissions for 120 days, except for Syrian refugees, who are banned indefinitely.

66. The January 27 Order discriminates between persons of majority and minority faiths in their country of origin. Section 5(b) requires the government to “prioritize refugee claims made by individuals on the basis of religious-based persecution, provided that the religion of the individual is a minority religion in the individual’s country of nationality” once the 120-day ban on refugee admissions is complete.

67. During those 120 days, moreover, Section 5(e) allows the admission of certain refugees on a discretionary case-by-case basis, “only so long as [the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security] determine that the admission of such individuals as refugees is in the national interest—including when the person is a religious minority in his country of nationality facing religious persecution.”

68. As the President conceded, these provisions are intended to allow Christian refugees to enter the United States, even while Muslim refugees from the same countries are prohibited from doing so. And indeed, Muslims would be severely disadvantaged under the minority-faith preferences set forth in Sections 5(b) and 5(e). During the past three fiscal years, only 12% of Muslim refugees hailed from a country where Islam is a minority faith.

69. There is no statutory, regulatory, or constitutional basis for favoring refugees from minority faiths over refugees from majority faiths. There is no basis in the Refugee Act of 1980, as amended—which governs the admission of refugees to the United States and their resettlement herein—to prioritize refugees fleeing persecution on the basis of religion, as opposed to the other congressionally-recognized bases. See 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(42) (defining “refugee”).

70. Section 5(d) reduces, by more than half, the annual refugee admissions allotment that was set prior to the current fiscal year by President Obama (reducing from 110,000 to 50,000).

71. Upon information and belief, as of February 2017, approximately 41,000 refugees had already been resettled in the United States. Upon information and belief, the number of refugees already somewhere in the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program pipeline—well over 50,000—would put the U.S. refugee resettlement total above Section 5(d)'s reduced admissions allotment of 50,000.

72. As a result, upon information and belief, Defendants have already undertaken various actions to bring to a halt the U.S. refugee resettlement process as a result of Section 5(d)'s reduction in this fiscal year's figure.

73. For example, upon information and belief, shortly after the January 27 Order was signed, USCIS, a component of Defendant Department of Homeland Security, cancelled nearly all refugee processing interviews abroad.

74. Additionally, upon information and belief, Defendant Department of State has suspended security checks for refugees, a process that typically takes between 18-24 months.

75. Upon information and belief, Section 5(d)'s reduction in the annual refugee admissions allotment has all but ground to a halt the United States' refugee resettlement process.

76. Furthermore, Section 5(g) seeks to expand the limited role State and local governments have in the refugee resettlement process beyond that envisioned by Congress in order to authorize and facilitate the recently-stated desire and intent of some states and localities in the United States to discriminate against lawfully-admitted refugees on the basis of their nationality and/or religion. See, e.g., Exodus Refugee Immigration, Inc. v. Pence, 838 F.3d 902 (7th Cir. 2016) (affirming preliminary injunction on equal protection grounds of state executive order issued by then-

Governor of Indiana, Mike Pence, that sought to prevent the resettlement in the State of refugees from Syria).

77. In addition to Sections 3 and 5, other sections of the January 27 Order reinforce stereotypes about Muslims and discriminate against them. Multiple sections, for example, associate Muslims with violence, bigotry, and hatred, inflicting stigmatic and dignitary harms, among other types of injury. These include Sections 1 and 2, which portray the ban as protecting citizens from foreign nationals “who would place violent ideologies over American law” and “who intend to commit terrorist attacks in the United States”; and Section 10, which requires the Secretary of Homeland Security to periodically publish information about the number of “foreign nationals” involved in, among other things, terrorism-related activities, radicalization, and “gender-based violence against women, including honor killings”—direct echoes of then-candidate Trump’s broad statements denigrating Islam and Muslims.

78. Further, on information and belief, since the January 27 Order was signed, CBP has questioned foreign nationals entering from certain countries about their religious beliefs to determine whether or not they are Muslim, and has subjected Muslim travelers from countries other than the seven designation nations to disproportionate and unwarranted scrutiny and interrogation.

79. There is no sound basis for concluding that Muslims generally, or Muslims from particular countries, are more likely to commit violent acts of terror.

80. A previous program to track certain foreign nationals predominantly from Muslim-majority countries, the National Security Entry-Exit Registration System (“NSEERS”), did not lead to the conviction or even identification of a single terrorist, even though it subjected tens of thousands of people to additional screening and investigation.

81. Many alternatives exist that do not involve targeting individuals based on their faith or using nationality as a proxy for faith, are less restrictive than the January 27 Order, and are more closely tailored to legitimate national security concerns.

82. The January 27 Order remains in effect until March 16, 2017, when the March 6 Order becomes effective and rescinds and replaces the January 27 Order.

The Chaotic and Irregular Implementation of the January 27 Order

83. The preparation and implementation of the January 27 Order were extremely unusual and chaotic. Upon information and belief, the White House bypassed regular channels for input and cooperation with other components of the Executive Branch, including the Secretaries of Homeland Security, Defense, and State. Moreover, upon information and belief, CBP was not given clear operational guidance during critical times in the implementation of the January 27 Order.

84. The January 27 Order was signed without final review or legal analysis from DHS, which—along with the DOS—is principally charged with implementing the Order.

85. Secretary of Homeland Security Kelly was reportedly in the midst of a conference call to discuss the January 27 Order when someone on the call learned from watching television that the Order they were discussing had been signed.

86. Similarly, Secretary of Defense Mattis, who had publicly criticized President Trump's proposal to ban Muslims from the United States, reportedly did not see a final version of the January 27 Order until the day it was signed and was not consulted during its preparation.

87. The January 27 Order did not arise out of the usual process of consulting with the relevant cabinet-level officials and agencies before issuing an Executive Order. Instead, the January 27 Order was primarily drafted by a small team of Presidential aides, overseen by chief White House strategist Stephen K. Bannon.

88. Mr. Bannon has previously made anti-Muslim comments. He criticized former President George W. Bush for referring to Islam as “a religion of peace,” calling President Bush “one of the dumbest presidents in the history of these United States.”

89. Congressional staff who worked on the January 27 Order reportedly were required to sign nondisclosure agreements, and not even the members of Congress they served were allowed to know of their work on the January 27 Order. On information and belief, this arrangement was also highly unusual.

90. During the days leading up to and following the signing of the January 27 Order, its scope and provisions were changed without any rational relationship to the purported reasons for the January Order.

91. For example, the night before the January 27 Order was signed, the Department of Homeland Security issued guidance interpreting § 3(c) of the January 27 Order as not applying to lawful permanent residents. Overnight, the White House overruled that guidance, applying the January 27 Order to lawful permanent residents subject to a case-by-case exception process, in a decision closely associated with Mr. Bannon.

92. After the detention at airports of many individuals, including lawful permanent residents, led to chaos nationwide, Secretary Kelly issued a statement “deem[ing] the entry of lawful permanent residents to be in the national interest.” Secretary Kelly’s statement was made pursuant to Section 3(g) of the order, which requires such a decision to be made jointly with the Secretary of State and “on a case-by-case basis.”

93. Finally, on February 1, the Counsel to the President purported to interpret the January 27 Order as exempting lawful permanent residents from the ban entirely.

94. Similarly, initial guidance from the Department of State indicated that individuals with dual citizenship, with one country of citizenship subject to the ban, would be banned from entering the United States. Word of a change in that policy spread irregularly, with notice being given to airlines and foreign nations but contradicted in official U.S. government communications.

95. Finally, CBP announced a changed policy, explaining, in response to the question “Does ‘from one of the seven countries’ mean citizen, national or born in?” that “Travelers are being treated according to the travel document they present.” According to this policy, currently in place, the very same individual both is and is not subject to the travel ban depending only on the travel document she presents.

96. The government also reversed itself on its policy toward holders of Special Immigrant Visas from Iraq. Holders of these visas are clearly banned under the terms of the January 27 Order, and they were refused entry when it went into effect. However, on February 2, 2017, the government changed course and allowed them to enter the United States despite the January 27 Order.

97. Still other aspects of the January 27 Order and its implementation demonstrate utter disregard for the individuals affected by it. For example, the Administration knew that the January 27 Order would bar the entry of individuals who were literally mid-air when the order was issued. Nonetheless, and absent any exigency that would justify it, the order was signed late on a Friday afternoon. That decision had a number of predictable consequences, including: making it more difficult for the federal employees tasked with enforcing the order to obtain instruction on how to interpret and enforce the order’s sloppily-written provisions; prolonging the detentions at airports of those affected, and leading many to be wrongfully deported; and increasing the difficulty advocates had in accessing their clients and the courts.

98. In a tweet on January 30, 2017, President Trump appeared to justify the rushed implementation of the January 27 Order by claiming that “[i]f the ban were announced with a one week notice, the ‘bad’ would rush into our country during that week. A lot of bad ‘dudes’ out there!”

99. Even once advocates were able to access the courts and obtain temporary injunctive relief against aspects of the Executive Order, DHS officials frequently refused or otherwise failed to comply with the court orders, undermining bedrock constitutional principles and inflicting further unlawful injury on the affected individuals.

100. Other actions taken by DHS and DOS to enforce the January 27 Order exhibit a zealous desire to go beyond even the draconian measures the order actually requires.

101. Notwithstanding that Section 3 of the January 27 Order only bars “entry into the United States of aliens from” one of the aforementioned seven Muslim-majority countries, DHS interpreted it to prohibit the granting of any immigration-related benefit to anyone from those countries—including to individuals who are already in the United States. That decision would have wide-ranging consequences, including: delaying naturalization of lawful permanent residents (“LPRs”) from those countries who wish to become U.S. citizens; rendering asylees from those countries unable to be lawfully employed once their Employment Authorization Documents expire; and either expelling or making undocumented any individuals here on nonimmigrant visas (including student, employment, and tourist) that otherwise would have been renewed.

102. DOS, at the request of DHS, issued a letter purporting to provisionally revoke all immigrant and nonimmigrant visas of nationals of the seven designated countries on a categorical basis. The letter is dated January 27, 2017, but only came to light on January 31, 2017, when Department of Justice lawyers filed it in pending litigation. DOS has stated that this action was taken to “implement[.]” the Executive Order.

103. Upon information and belief, DOS has never before revoked a broad swath of valid visas in this manner. Nor, on information and belief, is visa revocation ordinarily undertaken in secret, with no notice to the visa holder and no individualized consideration of whether any particular visa should be revoked.

104. Still further evidence of discriminatory intent and effect is reflected in the statements by President Trump and his Administration seeking to defend and justify the January 27 Order after it was issued.

105. President Trump, for example, falsely stated that only 109 people were detained over the weekend following the issuance of the January 27 Order, even though he knew or should have known that the number was far higher.

106. Indeed, pursuant to a federal district court order, the federal government has since revealed that at least 746 individuals were detained over a period of just 27 hours during the weekend after the January 27 Order was signed. This 27-hour period did not begin until a day after the January 27 Order went into effect.

107. These chaotic, irregular, and irrational policies, policy changes, and statements indicate that the purported justifications for the January 27 Order are pretextual and that it was at least substantially motivated by an intent to discriminate against Muslims.

The Nationwide Preliminary Injunction Enjoining the January 27 Order

108. A February 3, 2017, order issued by the District Court for the Western District of Washington currently prohibits the government from enforcing Sections 3(c), 5(a), 5(b), and 5(e) of the January 27 Order. Upon issuance of this Order, which the District Court described as a temporary restraining order, the government appealed to the Ninth Circuit and sought a stay pending appeal.

109. After hearing oral argument, the Ninth Circuit declined to stay the Order, noting that “although courts owe considerable deference with respect to immigration and national security, it is beyond question that the federal judiciary retains the authority to adjudicate constitutional challenges to executive action.” Washington v. Trump, 847 F.3d 1151, 1164 (9th Cir. 2017).

110. In reaching its holding, the Court noted that “[t]he government has pointed to no evidence that any alien from any of the countries named in the order has perpetrated a terrorist attack in the United States.” Id. at 1168.

111. The Court also acknowledged “evidence of numerous statements by the President about his intent to implement a ‘Muslim ban’” and observed that “[i]t is well established that evidence of purpose beyond the face of the challenged law may be considered in evaluating Establishment and Equal Protection Clause claims.” Id. at 1167.

112. The Court also found that the February 3 Order, although styled a TRO, should be treated as a preliminary injunction.

113. Shortly after the Ninth Circuit’s opinion issued, President Trump tweeted, “SEE YOU IN COURT, THE SECURITY OF OUR NATION IS AT STAKE!” He subsequently denounced the opinion as “a political decision” and stated, “[W]e’re going to see them in court, and I look forward to doing that. It’s a decision that we’ll win, in my opinion, very easily.”

114. On March 7, 2017, the government withdrew its appeal of the February 3 Order, leaving in place the preliminary injunction of Sections 3(c), 5(a), 5(b), and 5(e) of the January 27 Order.

The March 6 Order

115. In the weeks preceding the issuance of the March 6 Order, Stephen Miller, a senior advisor to President Trump, explained that the administration was preparing a new executive order “to be responsive to the judicial ruling” of the Ninth Circuit. He explained that the changes would be “mostly minor, technical differences. Fundamentally, you are still going to have the same, basic policy outcome for the country.”

116. Consistent with Mr. Miller's statement, the March 6 Order, explicitly referring to the Ninth Circuit's ruling, exempts certain categories of noncitizens that have "prompted judicial concerns" from the ban, and alters the original order's "approach to certain other issues or categories of affected aliens" "in order to avoid spending additional time pursuing litigation" over the constitutionality of the January 27 Order.

117. Indeed, notwithstanding an expanded "Policy and Purpose" section and certain other changes discussed more fully below, the March 6 Order is extremely similar to the January 27 Order in most important respects.

118. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order bans entry for a new 90 day period for individuals from the six of the same seven predominantly Muslim countries identified in the January 27 Order: Syria, Sudan, Iran, Libya, Somalia, and Yemen (Section 2(c)).

119. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order also provides a mechanism for the government to extend and/or expand the 90-day ban at the end of the 90 day period. Section 2 of the Order directs the Secretary of Homeland Security to "conduct a worldwide review to identify whether, and if so what, additional information will be needed from each foreign country to adjudicate an application by a national of that country for a visa, admission, or other benefit under the INA (adjudications) in order to determine that the individual is not a security or public-safety threat." In addition, the March 6 Order explicitly provides that the review need not be conducted in a consistent matter between countries: "The Secretary of Homeland Security may conclude that certain information is needed from particular countries even if it is not needed from every country." Again, the order provides for the submission of a report on this review within 30 days of the date of the order, a period (50 days rather than 60) for countries to respond to the order, and a provision for the President to thereafter issue a proclamation indefinitely banning travelers from a list of countries deemed to be non-compliant.

120. The corresponding provisions of the January 27 Order were never suspended and remain in effect.

121. The country-by-country report required by the January 27, 2017 Order was due on February 26, 2017, eight days before the March 6 Order was issued. On information and belief, this report was not produced.

122. The March 6 Order states that “Iraq presents a special case” because of the “close cooperative relationship between the United States and the democratically elected Iraqi government” and because the “Iraqi government has expressly undertaken steps to enhance travel documentation, information sharing, and the return of Iraqi nationals subject to final orders of removal” (Section 4). With this justification, the March 6 Order exempts foreign nationals of Iraq from the categorical ban on entry applicable to other countries originally targeted by the January 27 Order. Instead, Iraqis are subject to “thorough review” and “consideration of whether the applicant has connections with ISIS or other terrorist organizations.”

123. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order allows for waivers to this ban on a discretionary case-by-case basis (Section 3(c)). In contrast to the January 27 Order, which simply stated that visas and other immigration benefits may be issued “when in the national interest,” the March 6 Order provides nine examples of situations in which a waiver would be appropriate, such as when “the foreign national is an infant, a young child or adoptee” or “an individual needing urgent medical care” (Sections 3(c)(i)-(ix)). These and other similar circumstances enumerated in the March 6 Order reflect specific examples of individuals whose denial of entry pursuant to the January 27 Order resulted in the filing of lawsuits and widespread public outcry.

124. The March 6 Order also contains exceptions to this ban for, among others, lawful permanent residents and dual nationals traveling on passports issued by a non-designated country (Section 3(b)).

125. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order cuts the number of refugees admissible to the United States for fiscal year 2017 from 110,000 to 50,000 and prohibits refugee admissions for 120 days, with an exception for discretionary case-by-case admissions (Sections 6(a), 6(b)). The March 6 Order also expressly suspends decisions on applications for refugee status for 120 days (Section 6(a)).

126. Defendant Department of State has informed Plaintiff HIAS that only refugees who are already booked for travel to the United States arriving at their port of entry through the end of March 15, 2017, i.e., before the March 6 Order's effective date of March 16, 2017 at 12:01 am, will be permitted to enter the United States. Defendant Department of State has indicated that no further bookings may be made.

127. Defendant Department of State has informed Plaintiff HIAS that all DHS screening interviews will continue to be suspended until further notice, unless exceptions are arranged on an individual basis.

128. Defendant Department of State has informed Plaintiff HIAS that no new Interagency Checks (IAC) and Security Advisory Opinion (SAO) security checks may be requested. Upon information and belief, all refugees must undergo both IAC and SAO security checks before traveling and being admitted to the US.

129. In addition to the provisions discussed above, the March 6 Order contains near-verbatim reproductions of all the other substantive provisions of the January 27 Order, including:

- Former Section 4(a), now Section 5(a), which requires the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security, the Attorney General, and the Director of National Intelligence to implement uniform screening standards to identify individuals “who seek to enter the United States on a fraudulent basis, who support terrorism, violent extremism, acts of violence toward any group or class of people within the United States, or who present a risk of causing harm subsequent to their entry.”

- Former Section 5(g), now Section 6(d), which seeks to expand the limited role State and local governments have in the refugee resettlement process, potentially facilitating the stated desire and intent of some states and localities in the United States to discriminate against lawfully-admitted refugees on the basis of their nationality and/or religion. See, e.g., Exodus Refugee Immigration, 838 F.3d 902.
- Former Section 6, now Section 7, which directs the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security to consider rescinding certain waivers of terrorism-related inadmissibility grounds (“TRIG waivers”) authorized by previous administrations. TRIG waivers have historically been used to facilitate the admission to the United States of certain individuals or groups of individuals—often refugees fleeing persecution—who have been forced to give aid to terrorist organizations under duress.
- Former Section 8, now Section 9, which suspends the Visa Interview Waiver Program.
- Former Section 10, now Section 11, which requires the Secretary of Homeland Security to periodically publish information about the number of “foreign nationals” involved in, among other things, terrorism-related activities, radicalization, and “gender-based violence against women, including so-called ‘honor killings.’”

130. The signing and implementation of the March 6 Order was reportedly delayed because of the positive media reviews President Trump received after his address to a joint session of Congress on February 28, 2017. Although the Trump Administration had previously intended on releasing the revised executive order the following day, on March 1, 2017, White House officials stated that they delayed the release of the revised Executive Order so that President Trump’s speech could continue to receive positive press attention.

131. Upon information and belief, the delay following President Trump's congressional address marked the third time the administration put off the issuance of the revised Executive Order.

132. Before signing the March 6 Order, President Trump ordered the Department of Homeland Security and the Department of Justice to produce an intelligence report to demonstrate that the seven Muslim-majority countries originally identified in the January 27 Order present a substantial security threat and have exported terrorism to the United States.

133. Upon information and belief, such an attempt to reverse-engineer a national security justification for an executive action is not common practice.

134. In response, analysts at the Department of Homeland Security prepared a draft report, released to the press on February 24, 2017, indicating that there was insufficient evidence that the nationals of the seven Muslim-majority countries included in in the January 27 Order pose a terror threat to the United States.

135. The draft report found that citizenship is an "unlikely indicator" of terrorism threats to the United States, and that few people from the countries identified in the January 27 Order have carried out attacks or been involved in terrorism-related activities in the United States since Syria's civil war started in 2011.

136. A second Department of Homeland Security report, dated March 1, 2017, found that of the limited number of the foreign-born, U.S.-based violent extremists, most become radicalized after living in the U.S. for a number of years.

137. The Executive Order does not acknowledge or rely on either of these recent, specific security appraisals from the Department of Homeland Security. Instead, it relies on the State Department's Country Reports on Terrorism 2015 (June 2016). In relying on those reports, however, the Order disregards other countries that the State Department describes as safe havens for terrorists, and that pose a similar if not larger threat. For example, the State Department noted in its 2015 chapter on Terrorist Safe Havens that Venezuela has become a haven for terrorist groups, explaining that the country's "porous border with Colombia has made [it] attractive to the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia and the National Liberation Army." Similarly, the State Department concluded that "[t]here are ungoverned, under-governed, and ill-governed areas of Mali that terrorist groups have used to organize, plan, raise funds, communicate, recruit, train and operative in relative security."

138. The Secretary of Homeland Security also said in an interview that many other countries not banned in the Executive Order raise similar security concerns. "There's probably thirteen or fourteen other countries—not all of them Muslim countries, not all of them in the Middle East—that have very questionable vetting procedures that we can rely on."

139. The Order also states that "more than 300 persons who entered the United States as refugees are currently subjects of counterterrorism investigations by the Federal Bureau of Investigation." The Order does not note that very few F.B.I. initial assessments of terrorism threats become intensive investigations: for example, in the four months from December 2008 to March 2009, the F.B.I. began 11,667 "assessments" related to terrorism, only 427 of which—less than 4%—led to more intensive investigations.

140. Over 970,000 individuals have been admitted to the United States as refugees between 2001 and the present.

141. The March 6 Order was motivated by the same anti-Muslim purpose that motivated the January 27 Order. In replicating much of the substance of the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order seeks to prevent the entry of Muslims into the United States and reinforces stereotypes about Muslims by associating them with terrorism, violence, bigotry, and hatred. .

142. White House spokesperson Sean Spicer echoed these comments on March 6, explaining, after President Trump signed the revised Order, “The principles of the executive order remain the same.”

The Grave Harm to Plaintiffs and Their Clients

143. Implementation and enforcement of the January 27 Order has already caused Plaintiffs and their clients substantial, concrete, and particularized injury. Implementation of the March 6 Order threatens them with continued irreparable harm if not permanently enjoined.

144. Both Executive Orders suspend refugee resettlement and intentionally discriminate against Muslims. Both Executive Orders therefore frustrate IRAP’s mission and impose a significant burden on IRAP’s work. As a direct result of the imposition and enforcement of the January 27 Order, IRAP and its clients have suffered substantial, concrete injuries. Because the March 6 Order is substantively the same, these injuries will continue once the March 6 Order takes effect.

145. IRAP serves refugees and displaced persons of all faiths, but the vast majority of its clients are Muslim. IRAP counsels persecuted individuals on various legal avenues to safe countries and represents them throughout these processes, with a majority of its clients resettling in the United States.

146. The January 27 Order has already severely restricted IRAP’s ability to carry out its work and mission. In the ten days immediately following the issuance of the January 27 Order, IRAP provided assistance to more than forty individuals from Iraq, Iran, Sudan, Libya, Syria, Somalia, and Yemen who, despite being vetted and given permission to enter the United States, had been prevented by the Order from doing so.

147. Of IRAP’s 599 open cases, 402 families are from Syria, Iran, Sudan, Somalia, Libya, or Yemen or are refugees from other countries and therefore potentially affected by the new March

6 Order. IRAP has already used a significant portion of its financial resources and time to represent these 402 families through legal adjudications and to provide counseling through the demanding vetting process. Restricting issuance of visas wastes that investment of resources and time.

148. Furthermore, the March 6 Order will create a significant backlog in the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program, delaying the processing of many of IRAP's clients' cases. This delay forces IRAP to exhaust more of its resources, as the average lifespan of a case now grows significantly.

149. IRAP attorneys are not providing only limited representation in certain new cases, which, prior to the Executive Order would have received full representation, as a result of the exorbitant delays in USRAP processing that the Executive Order will cause.

150. IRAP relies on volunteers from its law school chapters and pro bono firms to meet the needs of their vast client base. With the increased demands of their caseload resulting from the Executive Order, IRAP now has very limited capacity to open new law school chapters or begin new relationships with law firms to place cases for direct representation.

151. Under the Executive Order's freeze of the USRAP, IRAP may also be unable to place new cases with existing chapters or law firms because there is no movement on any refugee cases. IRAP risks losing hundreds of volunteers, and relationships with numerous law firms, because they are unable to provide them with a way to partner with them on cases.

152. IRAP's law firm partners also provide financial support to IRAP. If IRAP no longer has cases to place at law firms, and thus have to decrease our number of law firm partners, it will significantly cut into the corporate funding IRAP receives.

153. As a result of the Executive Order, IRAP's Resettlement Deployment Scheme with UNHCR, which allows IRAP resettlement experts since early 2016 to be deployed to UNHCR for assisting with their resettlement operations, may be terminated due to the drastic decrease in resettlement slots available in the United States and worldwide. This would lead to the termination of three IRAP staff as well as a revenue loss of approximately $260,000.

154. The delay also endangers the lives of IRAP's clients, because the longer it takes for their cases to be decided, the longer they are in life-threatening environments. In addition, some of the IRAP clients abroad have family ties to IRAP clients already in the United States, and those U.S. clients are suffering harm as a result of the ongoing delay in reunification with their family members, as well as the risk that their family members may suffer persecution or death in the meantime.

155. Both the January 27 Order and the March 6 Order, moreover, marginalize IRAP's Muslim clients, subject them to suspicion, scrutiny, and social isolation on the basis of religion and national origin, and inflict stigmatic and dignitary injuries. IRAP clients who are already inside the U.S. are afraid and fear they are not welcome. Some IRAP clients have been subjected to harassment by law enforcement agencies allegedly conducting "new" security checks. Others have been detained at airports, or rejected from flights multiple times even though they are presenting valid visas.

156. Both the January 27 Order and the March 6 Order, furthermore, have forced IRAP to devote substantial resources to addressing the order's effects on IRAP's clients and those similarly situated. Following the signing of the January 27 Order on January 27, 2017 at 4:42 P.M. EST, two IRAP clients, Mr. Hameed Khalid Darweesh and Mr. Haider Sameer Abdulkhaleq Alshawi, were detained at John F. Kennedy Airport ("JFK") despite having valid entry documents. As a result, IRAP attorneys were present at JFK from 2 am to 6:30 pm on January 28, 2017 attempting to secure their lawful release. Furthermore, together with co-counsel, IRAP filed a habeas petition on behalf of those two clients, together with a motion for class certification (Darweesh et al. v. Trump et al., No. 1:17-cv-480 (E.D.N.Y. filed Jan. 28, 2017)). That litigation is ongoing. These actions are not in the scope of normal IRAP legal assistance, as previous IRAP clients were allowed to enter at U.S. Ports of Entry after receiving final approval to travel.

157. Both the January 27 Order and the March 6 Order have further caused IRAP to divert its resources as IRAP has become the focal point organization for volunteer attorneys all across the country who have gone to airports to attempt to secure the release of individuals detained pursuant to both Executive Orders. In addition to being the first organization to put out a call to volunteer attorneys, IRAP created and maintains a unique hotline email address (airport@refugeerights.org) to advise attorneys and affected individuals. Since the creation of this email address on January 28, 2017, IRAP has received and responded to over a thousand email messages. IRAP has also developed templates and informational materials for attorneys, affected family members in the United States, and individuals overseas who have been denied travel pursuant to the Order.

158. IRAP also provides safe housing for clients whose lives are in immediate danger while they await the outcomes of USRAP. Clients in urgent situations who face additional four-month delays on their applications (at a minimum) will require IRAP to expend significant funding to ensure continued safe housing.

159. HIAS and its clients have likewise been significantly harmed by the January 27 and March 6 Orders. HIAS's refugee resettlement work is grounded in, and an expression of, the organization's sincere Jewish beliefs. The Torah, Judaism's central and most holy text, commands followers to welcome, love, and protect the stranger. The Jewish obligation to the stranger is repeated throughout the Torah, more than any other teaching or commandment. HIAS believes that this religious commandment demands concern for and protection of persecuted people of all faiths. The Torah also teaches that the Jewish people are to welcome, protect, and love the stranger because "we were strangers in the land of Egypt" (Leviticus 19:34). Throughout their history, violence and persecution have made the Jewish people a refugee people. Thus, both history and values lead HIAS to welcome refugees in need of protection. A refusal to aid persecuted people of any one faith, because of stigma attached to that faith, violates HIAS's deeply held religious convictions.

160. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order severely impedes HIAS's religious mission and work by intentionally discriminating against Muslims and prohibiting the entry of all refugees into the United States for 120 days.

161. Before the January 27 and March 6 Orders were signed, arrangements had been made for many of HIAS's refugee clients to arrive in the United State in January, February, and the coming months. Despite having been previously vetted and granted refugee status, however, clients from Iran, Sudan, Somalia, Ukraine, Bhutan, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Afghanistan, Eritrea, Tanzania, Ethiopia, Uganda, Russia, Belarus, and Burma were delayed in or prevented from entering the country because of the January 27 Order. If the Temporary Restraining Order barring enforcement of the January 27 Order is lifted, or if the March 6 Order goes into effect, HIAS's clients will continue to face significant delays or be denied entry into the United States altogether.

162. Specifically, HIAS has identified nearly 1,400 clients worldwide who were allocated through the Department of State process, have been vetted, and have been approved for refugee status. These refugees have already been allocated and assured to one of HIAS's resettlement sites. Of these clients, less than 60 have been scheduled for travel following the signing of the March 6 Order. That means that any travel for the remaining approved refugees will be significantly delayed, and many will be unable to come at all in this Fiscal Year.

163. Under the Executive Order, the earliest that refugee resettlement could resume would be early July 2017. This would leave Resettlement Agencies, at most, with only two-and-a-half months before the end of the fiscal year to resettle hundreds or thousands of refugees who were supposed to be resettled over a much longer period of time. Refugee processing would be impacted by the 120-day ban since security checks and processing would be suspended during that time. Because security and medical clearances have expiration dates, it is likely that some refugees would lose their readiness for travel during the suspension period and lengthy checks would need to be repeated.

164. In addition, after the January 27 Order was issued, the U.S. Department of State notified HIAS that its resettlement commitment will be cut by 39 percent for the remainder of FFY 2017 due to the Order's drastic reduction in the planned level of refugee admission from 110,000 to 50,000. Thus, some of HIAS's clients who have been vetted and approved as refugees will simply not be able to enter the country in FFY 2017.

165. Of the nearly 1,400 HIAS clients worldwide who were allocated through the Department of State process, have been vetted, and have been approved for refugee status, 500 are nationals of one of the six banned countries. The overwhelmingly majority of these individuals are Muslim. Because they are national of the six banned countries, they will likely be ineligible for the case-by-case exception to the 120-day ban on for refugee applicants set forth in Section 6(c) of the March 6 Executive Order.

166. Every day that HIAS clients' entry is delayed, they remain in precarious situations.

167. Many of HIAS's clients abroad, whose refugee status has been approved but have yet to be scheduled for travel, including clients from the six banned countries, have family members in the United States, also HIAS clients, who will suffer as a result of the delay in reuniting with their family members. Some of these U.S. ties are, in fact, individuals who petitioned for refugee status (often through HIAS) for their family members.

168. In addition, more than 1,300 refugee applications initiated through HIAS by family members residing in the United States remain pending for HIAS clients abroad. The adjudication of these applications has been or will be substantially delayed because of the March 6 Order. In fact, since the Orders were signed, consideration of most refugee applicant cases in need of security checks have been suspended. This means that, for many refugees in the pipeline, security checks that typically lasted 18-24 months will now be paused and restarted, potentially adding years to their wait for stable resettlement. The delay in processing of these applications will subject these clients to further risk of persecution and abuse in their current situations, and their family members who petitioned for them to come to the United States will remain in limbo as to whether they will ever be reunited.

169. The Executive Orders convey an official message of disapproval and hostility toward HIAS's Muslim clients, making clear that the government deems them outsiders, not full members of the political community. HIAS's Muslim clients in the United States have been marginalized as a result of this anti-Muslim message, have been subjected to baseless suspicion, scrutiny, and social and political isolation on the basis of religion and national origin, and have suffered other dignitary and stigmatic injuries.

170. Additionally, as a result of the January 27 Order, at least one of HIAS's Muslim clients in the United States was detained at an airport for an extended period, handcuffed and separated from his family, and many other clients have otherwise had their travel significantly delayed.

171. Because HIAS is a non-profit resettlement organization that has a cooperative agreement with the federal government on a per-capita basis for each refugee served, and because the Department of State asked HIAS to increase its capacity from the 3,884 refugees resettled in federal fiscal year ("FFY") 2016 to 4,794 refugees in FFY 2017, HIAS would be denied crucial funding as a result of the March 6 Order, which bans all refugees for 120 days, bars all entry for the six Muslim-majority countries for 90 days, and limits the number of refugees to be admitted in the current fiscal year at 50,000, which is less than half the number the Department of State told the resettlement agencies to collectively plan to resettle.

172. After the January 27 Order was issued, the U.S. State Department notified HIAS that its resettlement obligation for FFY 2017 would be slashed from nearly 4,800 to just over 2900 refugees. The financial losses to HIAS and its affiliate network—up to $2.2 million—will be crippling, especially for many of HIAS’s affiliates, which are heavily dependent on funding that flows through HIAS. These losses will translate to irreparable harm to HIAS, its affiliates, and its clients because they will cause (and have already caused) a substantial reduction in program services and closure of resettlement sites. When this happens, the local expertise, relationships, and good will—developed by affiliate staff, often over years and years—are lost entirely or substantially diminished. Building a new resettlement site can take months or years of relationship-building, including cooperation with local government and elected officials, businesses who would be potential employers, landlords, volunteers, and the refugee communities themselves. In addition, fewer resettlement sites may limit the type of specialized assistance and services (e.g., for LGBT refugees) that clients can receive.

173. The January 27 and March 6 Orders would also result in the waste of HIAS resources. For example, in the past year, HIAS has devoted substantial private resources to developing a program with several congregations in Westchester, New York, to welcome Syrian refugee families. Because of the 90-day and 120-day bans, as well as the unexpected and dramatic lowering of the refugee admissions level, both the January 27 Order and the March 6 Order would put those resources to waste. Congregations and family members of HIAS clients have extended resources to prepare for anticipated refugees, by renting apartments and purchasing furnishings. In addition, some refugees who were anticipating resettlement through HIAS left jobs or travelled through other countries and now face precarious situations as a direct result of the January 27 Order and March 6 Order.

174. In the weeks and months prior to the order, HIAS concluded a formal plan with the Department of State to increase HIAS's national resettlement capacity by 23.4% from 3,884 refugees in federal fiscal year 2016 to 4,794 refugees in federal fiscal year 2017. This plan caused HIAS to invest substantial resources into expanding existing resettlement sites and opening new refugee resettlement sites in Wisconsin, Delaware, New York, Illinois, and Massachusetts, as approved by the Department of State. These resources will be wasted, at least in part, because of the January 27 Order and the March 6 Order.

175. In addition, HIAS has been forced to divert substantial resources, and will continue to do so, to dealing with the fallout from both executive orders and their effect on HIAS's clients, including devoting staff time to working with clients, and their families in the United States, who were denied entry and face precarious situations overseas.

176. Plaintiff MESA and its members will also be harmed by the March 6 Order. MESA has members from the six designated countries who are outside the United States and lack U.S. visas. Because of the March 6 Order, these members will not be able to travel to the United States to attend academic conferences, including an annual meeting sponsored by MESA. Participation in academic conferences is crucial to the professional success of both graduate students and professors, and to their ability to fully engage with the ideas and scholarship of the broader Middle Eastern studies community. Many important conferences, including the MESA annual meeting, take place in the United States

177. Graduate students who are MESA members or are studying under MESA members in the United States often leave the country to complete field work for advanced degrees. Because of the Executive Order, many such students from the six designated countries fear exclusion from the United States if they leave the country. The inability to leave the United States with an assurance they will be permitted to reenter will impair their ability to engage in research and participate in academic conferences. Such students will also lose their ability to visit family and friends abroad with an assurance they will be permitted to reenter. For example, Iranian students affiliated with MESA have cancelled plans to return home for Persian New Year, an important holiday that will occur on March 21, because of the Executive Order.

178. MESA members who are U.S.-based faculty will be impacted by the Executive Order because potential students from the designated countries will be unable to obtain visas to study with them in the United States. Similarly, their current U.S.-based students from the designated countries will not be able to travel abroad for field work with an assurance they will be permitted to reenter, impacting faculty members' ability to facilitate quality research and educational opportunities. Likewise, U.S.-based MESA faculty members will forego opportunities to travel abroad for research and academic conferences for fear that they will not be readmitted, or will be subjected to harassment or discrimination upon application for reentry to the United States. MESA members will also be precluded from traveling to the designated countries for research or academic conferences when those countries institute reciprocal actions in response to the Executive Order, as Iran has done.

179. A large number of MESA members are Muslim or are institutional members whose officers, employees, or members are Muslim. The Executive Orders convey an official message of disapproval and hostility toward these Muslim members, making clear that the government deems them outsiders, not full members of the political community. This marginalizes them, subjects them to suspicion, scrutiny, and social and political isolation on the basis of religion and national origin, and inflicts other stigmatic and dignitary injuries.

180. MESA itself will also be harmed by the Executive Order. As part of its goal to advance learning, facilitate communication, and promote cooperation, MESA sponsors an annual meeting that is a leading international forum for scholarship, intellectual exchange, and pedagogical innovation. Approximately thirty percent of MESA members are based outside of the United States and must travel to the United States to attend MESA's annual conference. At least 46 citizens of the six designated countries traveled to the United States to attend the last annual meeting. MESA expects that a substantial number of scholars will be unable to attend this year's meeting because of the restrictions imposed by the Executive Order. Moreover, in part because of the stigmatic message of the Executive Order, many members based in Europe and the Middle East are likely to heed international calls to boycott academic conferences in the United States in protest of the Executive Order, including the MESA annual conference. The absence of these scholars, attributable to the Executive Order, will have a substantial negative effect on the meeting. These and other impacts of the Executive Order will negatively impact MESA's mission of fostering the study and public understanding of the Middle East.

181. In addition, the Executive Order will cause serious financial harms to MESA. A large portion of MESA's annual budget is funded through annual membership dues and registration fees to attend the annual meeting. For each individual who cannot or will not attend the annual meeting, MESA will lose $90-250 in registration fees. MESA will also suffer other financial injuries related to its annual meeting as a result of the executive order. Some individuals who cannot or will not attend the meeting will allow their MESA membership to lapse as a result. For each such lapsed membership, MESA will lose $25-300 in membership dues.

182. Plaintiff John Doe #1, a lawful permanent resident, has suffered and will continue to suffer harm because of the Executive Order. In August 2016, while John Doe #1's application to become a lawful permanent resident was pending, he married an Iranian national who lives in Iran.

She applied for a visa as John Doe #1's dependent and her application was approved on November 3, 2016. As of January 9, 2017 John Doe #1 and his wife had submitted all of the requisite documentation and paid immigrant visa processing fees, and were waiting for notification that an interview was scheduled. At the time the Executive Order went into effect, John Doe #1 expected his wife's interview to be scheduled within no more than six weeks based on information published by the National Visa Center. Under the Executive Order, John Doe #1's wife will not be interviewed or granted a visa.

183. The Executive Order's travel ban on Iranian nationals has created significant fear, anxiety and insecurity for John Doe #1 and his wife regarding their future. After her mother's unexpected death in 2013, John Doe #1's wife has been alone in Tehran. The Executive Order's ban forces John Doe to choose between his career and being together with his wife, who remains in Tehran.

184. Plaintiff John Doe #3, a lawful permanent resident, has suffered and will continue to suffer harm because of the Executive Order. John Doe #3 recently applied to become a naturalized citizen, and that petition remains pending with USCIS.

185. In the summer of 2014, John Doe #3 married a national of Iran. In October 2014, John Doe #3 applied for an immigration visa on her behalf. Approximately 19 months later, in May 2016, she had her interview at the U.S. Embassy. At that time, she was informed that her documentation was complete and she needed to wait for administrative processing, but that she should be able to join her husband in two to three months. She therefore resigned from her job and began preparing to join her husband in the United States. The Executive Order, however, puts the couple's plans in peril, as it has at least delayed, and could prevent, John Doe #3's wife from obtaining her visa and joining her husband in United States.

186. Since moving to the United States, John Doe #3 has returned to Iran on several occasions to visit his wife, but is now fearful of leaving the United States. He had planned to visit her in February 2017, but put his plans on hold in light of the Executive Order. John Doe #3 is afraid that if he leaves the United States to see his wife, he will not be permitted to reenter the United States or could be detained by immigration officials at the airport upon his return. As a result, if John Doe #3 must leave the United States to visit Iran for an urgent family member, he feels he must make plans for his apartment, car, savings account, and other aspects of his personal life in the United States in order to prepare for the possibility that he may not be allowed to return.

187. Their continued separation has placed extraordinary stress on John Doe #3 and his wife, and their relationship. John Doe #3 and his wife are young and feel as though they've been unable to start their lives together because of the delays and uncertainty caused by the Executive Order.

188. Plaintiff Jane Doe #2, a U.S. citizen, has suffered and will continue to suffer harm because of the Executive Order. She is enrolled in a local college where she is studying to become a healthcare technician. She filed a family-based visa petition for her sister who is a Syrian refugee currently living in Saudi Arabia on the border with Yemen. The petition is currently pending a decision. Approval of the petition would allow Jane Doe #2's sister to access the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP).

189. Jane Doe #2's sister, who is Muslim, was born in Damascus, Syria, where she grew up and spent most of her life. She worked as a French teacher and her husband was a sales manager at a local business. They have two young children. In 2012, continuous bombing of her neighborhood forced her and her family to move to her parent-in-laws with nothing more than their passports and the clothes on their backs. The bombing of her neighborhood continued and she was never able to re-enter her home.

190. While internally displaced in Syria, Jane Doe #2's sister and husband learned that the Syrian government's selective service might be expanded to include men over the age of 30, which would include her husband. After some of her husband's friends were conscripted for the selective service, they determined that he should flee immediately to Yemen. Because Jane Doe #2's sister was a government employee, she was required to apply for government approval before stopping work and could not flee with him immediately. As a result, she and her oldest child remained in Syria—at the time she was pregnant with their youngest child. When, in 2013, she finally received government approval to discontinue work, she and her child fled to join her husband in Yemen. In Yemen, she registered with the U.N High Commissioner for Refugees, which provided her with a temporary protection certificate explaining that she should be protected from forcible return to Syria.

191. As a result of the war in Yemen, Jane Doe #2's sister and her family had to flee again, this time to Saudi Arabia, where they now live in a refugee hotel close to the border of Yemen. They remain under constant threat from nearby rocket fire and military conflict. The shelling where they currently live is so constant that the local school is only open one to two days per week, if at all. Jane Doe #2's children are unable to go to school and are receiving no formal education.

192. The building where Jane Doe #2's family is living is infested with bugs and human refuse from the bathroom in the unit above theirs leaks into their room. Jane Doe #2 and her family, are constantly sick and her children regularly vomit. The Saudi Arabian government is also regularly turning off the power to the building there they live with other refugees in order to make life so intolerable that they will leave.

193. Jane Doe #2's sister and her family also face severe discrimination in Saudi Arabia on account of their status as Syrian refugees. Her husband has had a very difficult time finding work and even when he can work, he is often cheated out of his wages and otherwise exploited. Jane

Doe #2's sister is unable to leave the apartment where they are staying in the daytime because without being accompanied by her husband, the risk that she would be abducted as a Syrian refugee woman is too high. As a result, her children did not believe that the sun rose and set in Saudi Arabia because the room that they are staying in does not have any windows and they only left the room at night when Jane Doe #2's husband could accompany them.

194. As Syrian refugees, Jane Doe #2's sister and her family are eligible and qualify for the Priority-2 Direct Access Program for Iraqi and Syrian Beneficiaries of Form I-130 Petition for Alien Relatives. If the Executive Order remains in effect, Jane Doe #2's sister will not be interviewed or granted a visa. Moreover, she will have little chance of traveling to the United States as a refugee given the suspension of USRAP, the high likelihood that Syrian refugees will continued to be barred from entry to the United States, and the lowered refugee admissions cap of 50,000.

195. Plaintiff Meteab, a lawful permanent resident, has also suffered and will continue to suffer harm because of the Executive Order. After the U.S. invasion of Iraq in 2003, Mr. Meteab and his four brothers all cooperated with the U.S. military in helping to establish the transitional government, in the wake of the conflict in Najaf, Iraq. Because of their cooperation with the U.S. government, they were targeted and threatened by armed militia groups in Iraq.

196. Mr. Meteab is a Sunni Muslim, as are his brothers. In Iraq, they lived together in a Shi'a neighborhood. In 2013, Mr. Meteab and his family were warned by neighbors and community members that if they failed to leave the area, their family would be killed. In 2013, Mr. Meteab's nephew Mosad was shot in the leg. After this, on December 25, 2013, Plaintiff Meteab's older brother fled to Jordan with his children and two of his nephews, including Mosad. Plaintiff Meteab and his wife and children joined them in Jordan on January 5, 2014. Plaintiff Meteab's three other brothers also fled to Jordan in 2014. All of them applied for and received recognition as refugees from the United Nations High Commission for Refugees.

197. In August 2015, after being approved as a refugee, Plaintiff Meteab came to the United States with his wife and children. His three other brothers, Ali, Abdulateef, and Ahmed, have been approved as refugees but remain in Jordan awaiting resettlement,. Abdulateef was approved for resettlement in Canada but is awaiting final clearance. Mr. Meteab's brothers Ali and Ahmed, were approved for resettlement in the United States.

198. In November 2016, Plaintiff Meteab's brothers Ali and Ahmed were told by the International Organization for Migration that while their refugee applications had been approved, they still did not have travel documents to come to the United States. Jewish Family Services notified Plaintiff Meteab's family of this update at the same time. When Mr. Meteab's brothers learned about the Executive Order from the news in January 2017, they realized the travel ban would prevent them from joining him in the United States.

199. Since the January 27th Executive Order was released, Mr. Meteab and his wife have experienced anti-Muslim sentiment and felt very uncomfortable and insecure in their community, causing them acute mental stress. They have experienced hostility in public, with people staring at Mr. Meteab's wife, who wears a hijab, and refusing to stop for them at crosswalks. Their nieces, who also came to the United States as refugees, have been harassed in school.

200. Plaintiff Harrison has suffered and will continue to suffer harm as a result of the Executive Order. Mr. Harrison is a citizen of the United States and lives in Eules, Texas. His fiancé is a citizen and resident of Iran and is Muslim. They have been together since November 2015.

201. In March 2016, Plaintiff Harrison petitioned for a K-1 (fiancé) visa for his partner (now-fiancé) . After the petition was approved, Plaintiff Harrison's partner was interviewed at the U.S. Embassy in Ankara, Turkey on November 7, 2016. His K-1 visa application was approved and administrative processing completed on January 17, 2017. The U.S. Embassy in Ankara informed Mr. Harrison's partner that he needed to submit his passport for the visa to be issued.

202. On January 30, 2017, after the January 27 Order was signed, the U.S. Embassy in Turkey emailed Plaintiff Harrison's fiancé and explained that his visa process was on hold and that he should contact them again when the travel ban had been lifted to continue the processing of his visa.

203. Subsequently on on February 7, 2017, the U.S. Embassy in Turkey sent a follow-up email to Plaintiff Harrison's fiancé, stating that the embassy had been informed of the ruling in Washington v. Trump and that he should send in his passport to the U.S. Embassy in Ankara, Turkey.

204. On March 3, 2017, Plaintiff Harrison and his fiancé traveled again to Turkey to submit the passport and to see one another. On March 6, 2017, the new executive order was announced. As the embassy has not provided additional information or told Plaintiff Harrison's fiancé that they are no longer processing visas, they submitted his passport on March 8, 2017. They fear the U.S. Embassy in Ankara will not issue the visa before March 16. Even if there is a waiver process might apply to his fiancé, Mr. Harrison is concerned he may not receive the waiver and/or that his fiancé may be required to start the entire process over, resulting in prolonged separation and anxiety for both of them.

205. If the Executive Order remains in effect, Plaintiff Harrison and his partner will remain separated. Mr. Harrison cannot currently travel to Iran, which has put in place a reciprocal ban on U.S. citizen visitors, and the travel to Turkey to see one another is a significant financial burden for Mr. Harrison. Moreover, Plaintiff Harrison's partner has had some negative interactions with the morality police in Iran, leading to harassment and, in one instance, an assault on Mr. Harrison's partner.

206. Plaintiff Ibrahim Ahmed Mohomed has suffered and will continue to suffer harm as a result of the Executive Order. Mr. Mohomed is a United States citizen of Somali origin who lives in Columbus, Ohio. He came to the United States as a refugee in 2009. He is Muslim.

207. Mr. Mohomed's wife and nine children have been approved to come to the United States as refugees. They are all in Ethiopia waiting for authorization to travel to the United States.

208. Plaintiff Mohomed is a member of a minority clan in Somalia. When he and his family were living in Mogadishu, Mr. Mohomed was targeted and threatened by members of the majority clans in Mogadishu, who knew he did not have protection. He came to the United States as a refugee in March 2009.

209. With the rise of insurgents from al-Shabaab and increased fighting in Mogadishu, after Mr. Mohomed's departure, his wife and children fled first to Yemen and then, in 2011, to Ethiopia, where Mr. Mohomed was able to visit them. He applied for them to join him in the United States, and in 2013, they were approved for resettlement in the United States. However, they were still waiting for travel documents when the January 27 order was issued.

210. After the January 27 order was signed, Mr. Mohomed and his family learned from the news that under the new Executive Order, his family would not be able to come to the United States. They remain in Ethiopia waiting to join Mr. Mohomed.

211. The Executive Orders conveys an official message of disapproval and hostility toward the individual Muslim Plaintiffs and their families, making clear that the government deems them outsiders or second-class citizens who are not full members of the political community. This marginalizes them, subjects them to suspicion, scrutiny, and social and political isolation on the basis of religion and national origin, and inflicts other stigmatic and dignitary injuries.

Class Allegations

212. Individual Plaintiffs bring this action as a class action pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b) (1) and (b) (2), on behalf of themselves and all other persons in the United States for whom the Executive Order either interferes with family reunification or the ability to travel internationally and return to the United States. This class includes:

- a. Individuals in the United States who currently have an approved or pending petition to the United States government to be reunited with family members who are nationals of Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria or Yemen (the “Designated Countries”), or who will soon file such petition;
- b. Refugees in the United States who have currently pending, or will soon file, a petition to the United States government to be reunited with family members; and
- c. Nationals of the Designated Countries who reside in the United States and who wish to travel abroad and return to United States or who, prior to issuance of the Executive Order, did travel abroad with the intent to return and are currently abroad.

213. The Plaintiff Class is so numerous that joinder is impracticable. According to the Annual Report of the Visa Office, in 2015, the last year for which data are available, the United States issued approximately 70,000 immigrant and non-immigrant visas to nationals from the six Designated Countries. The U.S. government previously estimated that between 60,000 and 100,000 people were affected by Section 3(c) of the January 27 Order.

214. The claims of the Plaintiff Class members share common issues of law, including but not limited to whether the Executive Order violates their associational, religious exercise and due process rights under the First and Fifth Amendments, the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, the Immigration and Nationality Act and the Administrative Procedure Act.

215. The claims of the Plaintiff Class members share common issues of fact, including but not limited to whether the Executive Order is being or will be enforced so as to prevent them or their family members from entering the United States from abroad or from re-entering the United States should they choose to leave the United States briefly, even though they would otherwise be admissible.

216. The claims or defenses of the named Plaintiffs are typical of the claims or defenses of members of the Plaintiff Class.

217. The named Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Plaintiff class. The named Plaintiffs have no interest that is now or may be potentially antagonistic to the interests of the Plaintiff class. The attorneys representing the named Plaintiffs include experienced civil rights attorneys who are considered able practitioners in federal constitutional litigation. These attorneys should be appointed as class counsel.

218. Defendants have acted, have threatened to act, and will act on grounds generally applicable to the Plaintiff Class, thereby making final injunctive and declaratory relief appropriate to the class as a whole. The Plaintiff Class may therefore be properly certified under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b) (2).

219. Prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Plaintiff Class would create the risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications and would establish incompatible standards of conduct for individual members of the Plaintiff Class. The Plaintiff Class may therefore be properly certified under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(1).

CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF (Establishment Clause, First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution)

220. The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth herein.

221. The Executive Order violates the Establishment Clause by singling out Muslims for disfavored treatment. It has the purpose and effect of inhibiting religion, and it is neither justified by, nor closely fitted to, any compelling governmental interest.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Equal Protection, Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution)

222. The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth herein.

223. The Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution provides that “No person shall . . . be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law.” The Clause contains an equal protection component.

224. The Executive Order discriminates on the basis of religion and national origin, each a suspect classification, and is not narrowly tailored to serve a compelling governmental interest, and thereby violates the equal protection component of the Due Process Clause.

225. Additionally, the Executive Order was substantially motivated by an intent to discriminate against Muslims, on whom it has a disparate effect, in further violation of the equal protection component of the Due Process Clause.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Immigration and Nationality Act & Administrative Procedure Act)

226. The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth herein.

227. The Immigration and Nationality Act provides, with certain exceptions not applicable here, that “no person shall receive any preference or priority or be discriminated against in the issuance of an immigrant visa because of the person’s race, sex, nationality, place of birth, or place of residence.” 8 U.S.C. § 1152(a)(1)(A).

228. Several clients of IRAP are otherwise eligible and approved for refugee status, but pursuant to the Executive Order, their entry to the United States will be denied or delayed. The Executive Order on its face purports to deny entry to these clients of IRAP because of their nationality, place of birth, and/or place of residence, in violation of § 1152(a)(1)(A).

229. Plaintiffs Harrison, Mohomed, Jane Doe #2 and John Does #1 and #3 have filed petitions for immigrant visas for members of their families, some of whom have subsequently received visas. Plaintiff Mohomed's wife and nine children's refugee visa applications have been approved, but they have not received travel documents or had their travel scheduled. Plaintiff Harrison's fiancé's visa has been approved and the processing complete but he still does not have a visa issued. Pursuant to the Executive Order, the processing of those petitions and/or the subsequent issuance of visas and travel documents will be delayed or denied, and/or their family members will be denied entry. The Executive Order on its face purports to deny or delay applications because Plaintiffs' family members' nationality, place of birth, and/or place of residence, in violation of § 1152(a)(1)(A).

230. The Executive Order on its face mandates discrimination against those who apply for and/or hold immigrant visas on the basis of their nationality, place of birth, and/or place of residence, in violation of § 1152(a)(1)(A).

231. The actions of Defendants, as set forth above, constitute final agency action and are arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law; contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity; in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right; and without observance of procedure required by law, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. §§ 706(2)(A)-(D).

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb et seq.)

232. The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth herein.

233. The Executive Order will have the effect of imposing a special disability on the basis of religious views or religious status, by denying or impeding Muslim Plaintiffs, on account of their religion, from accessing benefits relating to their own or their family members' immigration status. In doing so, the Executive Order places a substantial burden on Muslims' exercise of religion in a way that is not the least restrictive means of furthering a compelling governmental interest.

234. This substantial burden is not imposed in furtherance of a compelling governmental interest, and is not the least restrictive means of furthering a compelling governmental interest, in violation of the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb et seq.

FIFTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Refugee Act & Administrative Procedure Act)

235. The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth herein.

236. Pursuant to the President's congressionally delegated authority under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f), the Executive Order purports to limit the number of refugees who may be admitted in fiscal year 2017 to 50,000, despite an earlier proclamation setting a limit of 110,000, in violation of the Refugee Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1157(a)(2).

237. President Trump did not engage in "appropriate consultation" prior to altering the number and allocation of refugee admissions for fiscal year 2017, in violation of the Refugee Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1157.

238. The Executive Order makes other alterations to the refugee admission process that are not authorized by the Refugee Act and are in violation of the Refugee Act.

239. The actions of Defendants that have been undertaken pursuant to Section 6 of the Executive Order, as set forth above, constitute final agency action and are arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law; contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity; in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right; and without observance of procedure required by law, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. §§ 706(2)(A)-(D).

SIXTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Administrative Procedure Act)

240. The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth herein.

241. The actions of Defendants that are required or permitted by the Executive Order, as set forth above, are arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A).

242. The actions of Defendants that are required or permitted by the Executive Order, as set forth above, are contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity, including rights protected by the First and Fifth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(B).

243. The actions of Defendants that are required or permitted by the Executive Order, as set forth above, are in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(C).

244. The actions of Defendants that are required or permitted by the Executive Order, as set forth above, were without observance of procedure required by law, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(D).

B. A declaration pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2201 that the entire Executive Order is unlawful and invalid;

C. An order awarding Plaintiffs costs of suit, and reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses pursuant to any applicable law;

D. Such other and further relief as the Court deems equitable, just, and proper.

Respectfully submitted,

2 1. On ~~January 27~~ March 6, 2017, ~~the~~ President Trump signed an Executive Order entitled
3 “Protecting the Nation from Terrorist Entry into the United States.” ~~The~~ (the “March 6 Order”
4 or “Executive Order”). The March 6 Order, which Plaintiffs challenge in its entirety, was intended
5 and designed to target and discriminate against Muslims, and it does just that in operation.

6 2. Once effective, the March 6 Order will rescind and replace a similar Executive Order,
7 signed on January 27, 2017 (the “January 27 Order”; together, we refer to the January 27 and 8 March 6 Executive Orders as the “Executive Orders”), that had the same purpose and effect, the 9 implementation of which prompted chaos and widespread civil rights abuses in airports across the 10 country. As a result of legal challenges to the January 27 Order, numerous courts enjoined several 11 key provisions that banned the entry to the United States of both refugees and the nationals of 12 seven predominantly Muslim countries.

13 3. The major provisions of the March 6 Order are nearly identical to those of the January
14 27 Order. The new order bans individuals from six of the seven predominantly Muslim countries
15 identified in the January 27 Order—Yemen, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Iran, and Syria—from 16 entering the United States for at least 90 days. Like the previous order, the March 6 Order suspends
17 the entire United States Refugee Admissions Program for at least 120 days and reduces the number
18 of refugees allowed into the United States for the current fiscal year from 110,000 to 50,000. The 19 March 6 Order also contains language that associates Muslims with violence, terrorism, bigotry,
20 and hatred, inflicting stigmatic and dignitary harms. As a result, the March 6 Order will have the 21 same discriminatory and stigmatizing impact on Muslims as the January 27 Order, which was itself
22 a product of the President’s clearly expressed intent to prevent Muslims from entering the United 23 States.

1 1.4. While the March 6 Order contains various additions and revisions intended to insulate
2 it from the legal claims that led to the enjoining of the January 27 Order, the Trump Administration
3 has made clear that the March 6 Order is intended to effectuate the same policy outcome as the 4 January 27 Order. The March 6 Order likewise suffers from the same fundamental constitutional
5 and statutory defects as the January 27 Order.

6 2.5. The President has been very clear about his desire to prevent Muslims from entering
7 the United States. He specifically promised to do so as a candidate. Presented with early
8 objections to that proposal, he asked advisors how he could implement a Muslim ban indirectly,
9 and they helped him craft the Executive January 27 Order ~~challenged here.~~ President Trump
10 further admitted on national television that through the January 27 Order he intended to favor
11 Christian refugees over Muslim refugees. Rarely in American history has governmental intent to 12 discriminate against a particular faith and its adherents been so plain.

13 6. ~~The Executive~~ After key provisions of the January 27 Order were preliminarily
14 enjoined, a Trump Administration spokesperson explained that the revised Executive Order (which 15 was ultimately signed on March 6) would have only minor, technical changes from the original 16 Order, and would thus produce the same basic policy outcome. That basic goal and outcome was,
17 and remains, the exclusion of Muslims from the United States.

18 3.7. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order violates two of our most cherished
19 constitutional protections: the guarantee that the government will not establish, favor, discriminate
20 against, or condemn any religion, and the guarantee of equal protection of the laws.

21 4.8. The United States was born in part of an effort to escape religious persecution, and the 22 Religion Clauses of the First Amendment reflect the harrowing history of our Founders. More 23 than two centuries later, our nation is one of the most religiously diverse in the world and has
26
27
28

1 become a sanctuary for immigrants and visitors of all faiths and no faith, including refugees fleeing
2 persecution in their homelands.

3 ~~5.9.~~ The Executive ~~Both the January 27~~ Order ~~flies~~ and the March 6 Order fly in the face of 4 our historical commitment to welcoming and protecting people of all faiths, and no faith, and it
5 violates the “clearest command of the Establishment Clause”—“one religious denomination
6 cannot be officially preferred over another.” Larson v. Valente, 456 U.S. 228, 244 (1982).

8 ~~6.10.~~ The United States was likewise founded on the principle that all people—regardless of 9 their faith or where they are born—are created equal. ~~Like the Religion Clauses, the equal~~
10 ~~protection guarantee of the Fifth Amendment reflects this country’s rejection of official~~
11 ~~preferences on the basis of race, color, creed, or national origin. The Executive Order—which~~ The 12 March 6 Order—which, like the January 27 Order, was motivated by animus toward Muslims and 13 expressly discriminates on the basis of national origin—runs afoul of this core constitutional value
14 as well.

16 ~~7.11.~~ Plaintiffs challenge the ~~Executive~~ March 6 Order under the Establishment Clause; the 17 equal protection guarantee of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment; the Religious 18 Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb et seq.; the anti-discrimination provisions of the 19 INA, 8 U.S.C. § 1152(a)(1)(A); the Refugee Act of 1980, as amended; and the Administrative 20 Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A)-(D).

21 ~~8.12.~~ Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court issue appropriate declaratory relief and 22 preliminarily and permanently enjoin the ~~Executive~~ March 6 Order as a whole.

23 24 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

25 ~~9.13.~~ This Court has subject matter jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1343 over 26 Plaintiffs’ claims under the U.S. Constitution and federal statutes. The Court has additional 27 remedial authority under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201-02.

1 ~~10.14.~~ Venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. §1391(e) and Local Rule 501.4.a.ii. Defendants are
2 officers or employees of the United States acting in their official capacities, and agencies of the 3 United States. Plaintiffs HIAS, ~~Allan Hakky, Samaneh Takaloo,~~ and John Doe #1 reside in the 4 Southern Division of this District. No real property is involved in this action.

5 PARTIES

6 ~~11.15.~~ Plaintiff International Refugee Assistance Project (“IRAP”), a project of the Urban
7 Justice Center, Inc., provides and facilitates free legal services for vulnerable populations around
8 the world, including refugees, who seek to escape persecution and find safety in the United States
9 and other Western countries.

10 ~~12.16.~~ Founded in 2008 as a student organization at Yale Law School, IRAP initially served
11 Iraqi refugees who were victims of the Iraq War. In 2010, IRAP became part of the Urban Justice
12 Center and now has offices in New York as well as the Middle East. IRAP has expanded its client
13 base since its inception to assist refugees from Afghanistan, Egypt, Eritrea, Ethiopia, Iran, Jordan,
14 Kuwait, Libya, Pakistan, Palestine, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, Turkey, and Yemen. Through in-house
15 casework, as well as supervision of 1,200 students from 29 law schools in the United States and 16 Canada and pro bono attorneys from over 75 international law firms and multinational
17 corporations, IRAP directly assists thousands of refugees in urgent registration, protection, and 18 resettlement cases every year.

19 ~~13.17.~~ IRAP lawyers provide legal assistance to refugees and other immigrants to the United
20 States throughout the resettlement process. IRAP lawyers advise their clients on the resettlement 21 process, write legal briefs and compile physical evidence in advance of clients’ interviews with 22 United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (“USCIS”), prepare them for their oral
23 testimony in their interviews, and then conduct regular follow-up with USCIS until the ~~client~~
24 is clients are safely resettled.
26
27
28

1 14.18. IRAP assists many individuals in the United States who need assistance filing family
2 reunification petitions for family members overseas. IRAP also assists U.S.-based Iraqi and Syrian
3 citizens and lawful permanent residents in filing petitions in order to get their family members
4 overseas into the Direct Access Program of the United States Refugee Admissions Program.
5 Finally, IRAP also assists countless Iraqi and Afghan citizens who have served the United States
6 government to obtain Special Immigrant Visas, with the support of U.S. citizen veterans of Iraq
7 and Afghanistan.

9 15.19. Since its inception, IRAP has helped to resettle over 3,200 individuals to 55 countries,
10 with the majority resettled to the United States. It has provided legal assistance to nearly 20,000
11 more individuals.

12 16.20. The overwhelming majority of IRAP's clients, including clients abroad and those 13 within the United States, identify as Muslim.

14 17.21. As set forth in greater detail below, implementation of the Executive ~~Order~~Orders has 15 caused substantial harm to IRAP and its clients, and will continue to harm them. IRAP asserts
16 claims on behalf of itself and its clients in the United States and abroad. The rights of its clients
17 that IRAP seeks to vindicate here are inextricably bound up with its organizational mission and 18 purpose, and its clients face numerous hurdles to bringing this suit in their own name.

20 18.22. Plaintiff HIAS, the world's oldest refugee resettlement agency, is a faith-based 21 organization that aims to rescue people around the world whose lives are in danger. The 22 organization works toward a world in which refugees find welcome, safety, and freedom. Founded
23 in 1881 to assist Jews fleeing pogroms in Russia and Eastern Europe, HIAS now serves refugees
24 and persecuted people of all faiths and nationalities around the globe. Since HIAS's founding, the 25 organization has helped more than 4.5 million refugees start new lives.
26
28

1 19-23. HIAS has offices in twelve countries worldwide, including headquarters in Silver
2 Spring, Maryland, which is its principal place of business, and another domestic office in New
3 York City. HIAS also provides resettlement experts in support of the United Nations High
4 Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR). Refugee resettlement lies at the heart of HIAS's work in
5 the United States. It is one of nine non-profit organizations designated by the federal government
6 to undertake this humanitarian work through contracts with the Department of State and the 7 Department of Health and Human Services.

9 20-24. In 2016, HIAS provided services to more than 350,000 refugees and asylum seekers
10 globally. HIAS's client base includes refugees abroad and in the United States who are from Syria,
11 Iraq, Iran, Sudan, Somalia, Yemen, Ukraine, Bhutan, the Democratic Republic of Congo, 12 Afghanistan, Eritrea, Tanzania, Ethiopia, Burundi, South Sudan, Uganda, Russia, Belarus, and 13 Burma, among other countries. Many of these clients are Muslim.

14 21-25. HIAS provides programs and services to refugees, including employment, 15 psychosocial, and legal services. HIAS has also been approved to refer cases of particularly 16 vulnerable refugees directly for third-country resettlement to the United States and other countries.
17 Around the world, HIAS provides legal services to protect the rights of refugees, and to register, 18 document, and secure the status of refugees.

20 22-26. HIAS is also assigned clients via the State Department's allocation process, which 21 determines which refugee clients will be resettled by HIAS. For clients who have newly arrived
22 in the United States, HIAS either provides direct resettlement services or partners with other
23 organizations across the country to do so. These services include arranging housing and providing 24 essential furnishings, food, clothing, initial cash assistance, initial health screening, cultural and 25 community orientation, and, through case management services, assistance with enrollment in
28

1 English language classes and employment services, as well as referrals for health and legal 2 services.

3 ~~23-27.~~ HIAS, directly and through affiliated agencies, also provides assistance to refugee and
4 asylee clients in the United States who are seeking to gain entry for family members abroad who
5 still face persecution. As set forth in greater detail below, implementation of the ~~Executive~~January
6 27 Order has caused substantial harm to HIAS and its clients, and the March 6 Order will continue
7 to harm them. HIAS asserts claims on behalf of itself and its clients. The rights of its clients that 8 HIAS seeks to vindicate here are inextricably bound up with its organizational mission and 9 purpose, and its clients face numerous hurdles to bringing this suit in their own name.

10 ~~28. Plaintiff Allan Hakky is a United States citizen of Iraqi Kurdish origin who lives in~~
11 ~~Potomac, Maryland with his wife, also a U.S. citizen~~Plaintiff Middle East Studies
12 Association (MESA) is a non-profit learned society that brings together scholars, educators, and 13 those interested in the study of the Middle East from all over the world. From its inception in 1966
14 with 51 founding members, MESA has increased its membership to more than 2,400 and now
15 serves as an umbrella organization for fifty-five institutional members. MESA's membership
16 includes both graduate students and faculty working in the field of Middle East studies.

17 ~~29. As set forth in greater detail below, MESA and its members will be harmed in a variety~~
18 ~~of ways by the Executive Order. MESA asserts claims on behalf of itself and its members.~~

19 ~~24. Mr. Hakky is a Shia Muslim. He has been in the United States since 1991, when he~~
20 ~~immigrated from the United Kingdom with his mother and three siblings. He has been a U.S.~~
21 ~~citizen since 1996.~~

22 ~~25. Plaintiff Samaneh Takaloo is a U.S. citizen of Iranian origin who lives in Chevy Chase,~~
23 ~~Maryland. She is from a Muslim family. Ms. Takaloo came to the United States from Iran in May~~

1 ~~2010 on a K-1 fiancée visa and has been a U.S. citizen since June 2015. She works in Washington,~~
2 ~~D.C. as a sales associate.~~

3 26-30. Plaintiff John Doe #1 is a lawful permanent resident and national of Iran who lives in 4 Montgomery County, Maryland. He is a scientist. He came to the United States in 2014 on an 5 exchange visitor visa. In 2016, he obtained his lawful permanent resident status through the 6 National Interest Waiver program for people with extraordinary abilities. His pioneering scholarly 7 works are recognized as cutting edge in the sciences. Both John Doe #1 and his wife, who is not
8 a party, are non-practicing Muslims.

10 ~~27.~~ Plaintiff John Doe #2 is a U.S. citizen from Iraq who lives in Baltimore County,
11 Maryland. John Doe #2 came to the United States in 2009, along with his wife and two daughters,
12 as a refugee. All four are now U.S. citizens, as is John Doe #2's third daughter, who was born in 13 the United States. John Doe #2 is a Shiite Muslim, as is his father, whereas his mother is a Sunni
14 Muslim.

16 28-31. Plaintiff John Doe #3 is a lawful permanent resident and national of Iran who lives in 17 Anne Arundel County, Maryland. He came to the United States in 2011 through the Green Card
18 lottery. John Doe #3 worked as a teacher in Iran, and currently works in the engineering field.

19 32. ~~John Doe #4 and Plaintiff Jane Doe #1,2 is a married couple, are U.S. citizens~~ citizen of 20 ~~Iraqi descent~~ Syrian origin who lives in Alabama.[†] ~~John Doe #1 was born in Mosul,~~

22 where she is studying to become a healthcare technician. She filed a family-based visa petition for 23 her sister who is a Syrian refugee currently living in a refugee-designated area in Saudi Arabia
24 with her husband and immigrated to two young children.

27
28 [†] ~~A motion for leave of the Court for John Does #1-4 and Jane Doe to proceed under pseudonyms is filed contemporaneously herewith.~~

1 29:33. Plaintiff Mohammed Meteab is a lawful permanent resident of the United States at the 2 age of three; he is now a physician. Jane Doe #1 arrived in 2009 who lives in Springfield,
3 Massachusetts. He came to the United States in 2015 as a refugee along with his wife and two
4 children. He now has a third child, a U.S. citizen born in the United States. Plaintiff Meteab is
5 one of five brothers; he, his wife, his two elder children, and all five brothers are Iraqi. One brother
6 came to the United States as a refugee. The other three brothers have been approved as refugees
7 by the United Nations High Commission for Refugees and remain in Jordan, awaiting resettlement.
8 Two of the three are approved to come to the United States but do not yet have travel documents.
9 Mr. Meteab is a Sunni Muslim, as are his brothers.

11 34. Plaintiff Paul Harrison is a citizen of the United States by birth who lives in Euless, 12 Texas. In November 2015, he met his partner, an Iranian national who lives in Tehran, Iran. In 13 March 2016, Mr. Harrison petitioned for his partner—now his fiancé—to join him in the United 14 States on a K-1 visa. After his November 2016 interview at the U.S. Embassy in Ankara, Turkey,
15 his application was approved and administrative processing complete on January 17, 2017. A visa 16 has not yet been issued, however.

18 35. Plaintiff Ibrahim Ahmed Mohomed is a United States citizen of Somali origin who 19 lives in Columbus, Ohio. He came to the United States as a refugee in 2009. In 2013, his wife and 20 nine children were approved to come to the United States as refugees but they are still in Ethiopia
21 awaiting authorization to travel to the United States to join Mr. Mohomed. Mr. Mohomed and his 22 family are Muslim.

24 30:36. As set forth in greater detail below, implementation of the Executive Order Orders has
25 caused and will continue to cause harm to Plaintiffs Allan Hakky, Samaneh Takaloo, Meteab,
26 Harrison, Mohomed, Jane Doe #2 and John Does #1 through #4, and Jane Doe #1#3 (collectively, 27 the “Individual Plaintiffs”).

1 31-37. Defendant Donald Trump is the President of the United States. He is sued in his official
2 capacity. In that capacity, he issued the Executive ~~Order~~Orders challenged in this suit.

3 32-38. Defendant U.S. Department of Homeland Security (“DHS”) is a cabinet-level
4 department of the United States federal government. Its components include U.S. Citizenship and 5 Immigration Services (“USCIS”), Customs and Border Protection (“CBP”), and Immigration and 6 Customs Enforcement (“ICE”). CBP’s responsibilities include inspecting and admitting 7 immigrants and nonimmigrants arriving with U.S. visas at international points of entry, including
8 airports and land borders. USCIS’s responsibilities include adjudicating requests for immigration
9 benefits for individuals located within the United States. ICE’s responsibilities include enforcing
10 federal immigration law within the interior of the United States. The Executive ~~Order~~
11 ~~assigns~~Orders assign DHS a variety of responsibilities regarding ~~its~~their enforcement.

13 33-39. Defendant U.S. Department of State (“DOS”) is a cabinet-level department of the 14 United States federal government. DOS is responsible for the issuance of immigrant and 15 nonimmigrant visas abroad. The Executive ~~Order~~~~assigns~~Orders assign DOS a variety of 16 responsibilities regarding ~~its~~their enforcement.

18 34-40. Defendant Office of the Director of National Intelligence (“ODNI”) is an independent 19 agency of the United States federal government. The ODNI has specific responsibilities and 20 obligations with respect to implementation of the ~~Order~~Executive Orders.

21 35-41. Defendant Rex Tillerson is the Secretary of State and has responsibility for overseeing 22 enforcement and implementation of the Executive ~~Order~~Orders by all DOS staff. He is sued in his 23 official capacity.

3 all ODNI staff. He is sued in his official capacity.

5 President Trump’s Expressed Intent To Target Muslims and 6 To Favor Christians Seeking to Enter the Country

7 38-44. President Trump has repeatedly made clear his intent to enact policies that exclude 8 Muslims from entering the United States and favor Christians seeking to enter the United States.

9 39-45. On December 7, 2015, then-Presidential candidate Trump issued a statement on his 10 campaign website. Entitled, “DONALD J. TRUMP STATEMENT ON PREVENTING MUSLIM
11 IMMIGRATION,” the statement declared that “Donald J. Trump is calling for a total and complete
12 shutdown of Muslims entering the United States until our country’s representatives can figure out 13 what is going on.”

14 40-46. The statement, which remains on President Trump’s campaign website to this day, 15 invokes stereotypes of Muslims, falsely suggesting that all Muslims believe in “murder against 16 non-believers who won’t convert” and “unthinkable acts” against women.

17 41-47. Defending his proposed Muslim ban the next day, candidate Trump told Good Morning
18 America, “What I’m doing is I’m calling very simply for a shutdown of Muslims entering the 19 United States—and here’s a key—until our country’s representatives can figure out what is going 20 on.”

21 42-48. When asked the same day on MSNBC how his Muslim ban would be applied by 22 customs officials, candidate Trump said, “That would be probably—they would say, are you
23 Muslim?” A reporter followed up by asking, “And if they said yes, they would not be allowed in 24 the country[?]” Candidate Trump responded, “That’s correct.”
26
27
28

1 43-49. Candidate Trump repeatedly reiterated his support for targeting Muslims seeking to
2 enter the United States.

3 44-50. On March 9, 2016, candidate Trump stated, “I think Islam hates us. There’s . . . a
4 tremendous hatred there There’s an unbelievable hatred of us We can’t allow people
5 coming into this country who have this hatred of the United States . . . and [of] people that are not
6 Muslim”

7 45-51. The next day, during a debate, candidate Trump said he would “stick with exactly”
8 what he had said the night before. When asked if he was referring to all 1.6 billion Muslims
9 worldwide, he explained, “I mean a lot of them.” Candidate Trump stated later in the same debate,
10 “There is tremendous hate. There is tremendous hate. Where large portions of a group of people,
11 Islam, large portions want to use very, very harsh means.”

12 46-52. On March 22, 2016, candidate Trump stated that “we’re having problems with the 13 Muslims, and we’re having problems with Muslims coming into the country,” adding, “You need
14 surveillance. You have to deal with the mosques whether we like it or not These attacks
15 aren’t . . . done by Swedish people. That I can tell you.”

16 47-53. The same day, candidate Trump stated on Twitter that a Democratic candidate for
17 President, Hillary Clinton, wanted to “let the Muslims flow in.”

18 48-54. On June 13, 2016, candidate Trump stated, “I called for a ban after San Bernardino and 19 was met with great scorn and anger. But now many . . . are saying that I was right to do so.”

1 49-56. In a July 24, 2016 interview on Meet the Press, candidate Trump was asked if a plan
2 similar to the now-enacted Executive Order was a “rollback” from “[t]he Muslim Ban.” Candidate
3 Trump responded: “I don’t think so. I actually don’t think it’s a rollback. In fact, you could say
4 it’s an expansion. I’m looking now at territories.”

5 50-57. Candidate Trump continued: “People were so upset when I used the word Muslim. Oh,
6 you can’t use the word Muslim. Remember this. And I’m okay with that, because I’m talking
7 territory instead of Muslim.”

8 51-58. ~~That~~This explanation ~~tracks on~~that the Muslim ban would use nationality as a proxy
9 was later ~~provided~~confirmed by Rudolph Giuliani, an advisor to candidate Trump and later an 10 advisor to him as President. After the Executive Order was signed, Mr. Giuliani explained that 11 “when [candidate Trump] first announced it, he said, ‘Muslim ban.’ He called me up. He said,
12 ‘Put a commission together. Show me the right way to do it legally.’” In response to this edict,
13 according to Mr. Giuliani, the commission decided to focus on territories, rather than explicitly 14 naming Muslims as the subjects of the ban.

17 The ~~Discriminatory Executive~~January 27 Order

18 52-59. After conducting a campaign in which a ban on Muslim admissions was a key promise,
19 President Trump took action to carry out that promise by issuing the ~~challenged Executive~~January
20 27 Order one week after being inaugurated.

21 53. ~~Contemporaneous statements~~Statements made by President Trump and his advisors
22 around the time of the signing of the ~~Executive~~January 27 Order confirm President Trump’s intent
23 to discriminate against Muslims. ~~For instance, during the signing ceremony for the order,~~
24 ~~President Trump made clear that the order was targeted at Muslims, pledging that it would “keep~~ 25 ~~radical Islamic terrorists out of the United States of America.”~~
28

1 54-60. In an interview with the Christian Broadcasting Network released the same day that he
2 signed the Executive January 27 Order, President Trump stated that the Order was designed to give
3 Christians priority when applying for refugee status. “If you were a Muslim you could come in
4 [to the United States], but if you were a Christian, it was almost impossible,” he said. “[T]hey
5 were chopping off the heads of everybody but more so the Christians. And I thought it was very,
6 very unfair. So we are going to help them.”

8 55-61. Consistent with this expressed religious animus towards Muslims and preference for 9 Christians, the Executive January 27 Order ~~will clearly disfavor~~disfavors Muslims while giving 10 special treatment to non-Muslims.

11 56-62. Section 3, for example, bans any entry for 90 days for individuals from seven countries,
12 ~~all~~each of which ~~are predominantly~~is more than ninety percent Muslim: Syria, Sudan, Iraq, Iran,
13 Libya, Somalia, and Yemen.

14 ~~57.—All seven banned countries have overwhelmingly Muslim populations.~~

15 ~~58.—Moreover, 82% percent of all Muslim refugees who entered the United States in fiscal~~
16 ~~years 2014 through 2016 hailed from those seven countries.~~

18 59-63. The Executive January 27 Order does not single out any countries for disfavored
19 treatment that are not majority-Muslim.

20 64. The January 27 Order provides a mechanism for the government to extend and/or 21 expand the 90-day ban at the end of the 90 day period. Sections 3 of the Order directs the Secretary
22 of Homeland Security to “immediately conduct a review to determine the information needed from 23 any country to adjudicate any visa, admission, or other benefit under the INA (adjudications) in 24 order to determine that the individual seeking the benefit is who the individual claims to be and is 25 not a security or public-safety threat,” and to “submit to the President a report on the results of the 26 review ... within 30 days of the date of this order.” At that point, the “Secretary of State shall

1 request all foreign governments that do not supply such information to start providing such
2 information,” and 60 days after that—precisely at the end of the initial 90 day ban period—the
3 January 27 Order provides for the President to issue a proclamation indefinitely banning travelers
4 from a list of countries deemed to be non-compliant “until compliance occurs.” On information
5 and belief, the 30-day review to be conducted by the Secretary of Homeland Security has not yet
6 resulted in a report to the President.

8 60-65. Section 5 of the Executive January 27 Order prohibits refugee admissions for 120 days,
9 except for Syrian refugees, who are banned indefinitely.

10 61-66. The Executive January 27 Order discriminates between persons of majority and 11 minority faiths in their country of origin. Section 5(b) requires the government to “prioritize 12 refugee claims made by individuals on the basis of religious-based persecution, provided that the 13 religion of the individual is a minority religion in the individual’s country of nationality” once the 14 120-day ban on refugee admissions is complete.

16 67. During those 120 days, moreover, Section 5(e) allows the admission of certain refugees
17 on a discretionary case-by-case basis, “only so long as [the Secretaries of State and Homeland
18 Security] determine that the admission of such individuals as refugees is in the national interest—
19 including when the person is a religious minority in his country of nationality facing religious

22 62.—As the President ~~has~~ conceded, these provisions are intended to allow Christian
23 refugees to enter the United States, even while Muslim refugees from the same countries are 24 prohibited from doing so.

25 63.— And indeed, There is no basis in the Refugee Act of 1980, as amended which 26 governs the admission of refugees to the United States and their resettlement herein to prioritize

~~1 refugees fleeing persecution on the basis of religion, as opposed to the other congressionally
2 recognized bases. See 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(42) (defining “refugee”).~~

~~3 64-68. Muslims will/would be severely disadvantaged under the minority-faith preferences set
4 forth in Sections 5(b) and 5(e). During the past three fiscal years, only 12% of Muslim refugees
5 hailed from a country where Islam is a minority faith. Thus, based on recent data, approximately 6 88% of Muslim refugees would be ineligible for the minority faith preference, even if they can
7 assert strong claims of religious persecution.~~

9 65. By contrast, during the past three fiscal years more than half (53%) of non-Muslim 10 refugees hail from countries where they are in the minority faith, and would thus be eligible for 11 the minority faith preference if they are able to assert religious persecution claims.~~

~~12 66-69. There is no statutory, regulatory, or constitutional basis for favoring refugees from 13 minority faiths over refugees from majority faiths. There is no basis in the Refugee Act of 1980,
14 as amended—which governs the admission of refugees to the United States and their resettlement
15 herein—to prioritize refugees fleeing persecution on the basis of religion, as opposed to the other
16 congressionally-recognized bases. See 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(42) (defining “refugee”).~~

18 67. In operation, the Executive Order not only disfavors Muslims while giving preference
19 to non-Muslims, but also entangles the executive branch in questions of religious doctrine and 20 practice. Under these provisions, the government is required to categorize a religion as “minority”
21 or “majority” in each country.~~

~~22 68. Drawing these lines will necessarily entail inquiry into the religious beliefs, practices,
23 and faith identification of billions of people.~~

25 70. The indefinite ban on Syrian Section 5(d) reduces, by more than half, the annual refugee 26 admissions allotment that was set prior to the current fiscal year by President Obama (reducing 27 from 110,000 to 50,000).~~

1 71. Upon information and belief, as of February 2017, approximately 41,000 refugees also
2 effectuates President Trump's intent to limit the entry of Muslims into the had already been
3 resettled in the United States. In fiscal year 2016, Muslim Syrian Upon information and belief,
4 the number of refugees made up 32% already somewhere in the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program
5 pipeline—well over 50,000—would put the U.S. refugee resettlement total above Section 5(d)'s

8 72. As a result, upon information and belief, Defendants have already undertaken various 9 actions to bring to a halt the U.S. refugee resettlement process as a result of Section 5(d)'s 10 reduction in this fiscal year's figure.

11 73. For example, upon information and belief, shortly after the January 27 Order was 12 signed, USCIS, a component of Defendant Department of Homeland Security, cancelled nearly all 13 Muslim refugee processing interviews abroad.

14 74. Additionally, upon information and belief, Defendant Department of State has 15 suspended security checks for refugees who entered, a process that typically takes between 18-24

18 69-75. Upon information and belief, Section 5(d)'s reduction in the annual refugee admissions
19 allotment has all but ground to a halt the United States' refugee resettlement process.

20 70-76. Furthermore, Section 5(g) seeks to expand the limited role State and local governments
21 have in the refugee resettlement process beyond that envisioned by Congress in order to authorize
22 and facilitate the recently-stated desire and intent of some states and localities in the United States
23 to discriminate against lawfully-admitted refugees on the basis of their nationality and/or religion.
24 See, e.g., Exodus Refugee Immigration, Inc. v. Pence, 838 F.3d 902 (7th Cir. 2016) (affirming 25 preliminary injunction on equal protection grounds of state executive order issued by then-
28

1 Governor of Indiana, Mike Pence, that sought to prevent the resettlement in the State of refugees
2 from Syria).

3 71-77. In addition to Sections 3 and 5, other sections of the Executive January 27 Order
4 reinforce stereotypes about Muslims and discriminate against them. Multiple sections, for 5 example, associate Muslims with violence, bigotry, and hatred, inflicting stigmatic and dignitary
6 harms, among other types of injury. These include Sections 1 and 2, which portray the ban as 7 protecting citizens from foreign nationals “who would place violent ideologies over American 8 law” and “who intend to commit terrorist attacks in the United States”; and Section 10, which 9 requires the Secretary of Homeland Security to periodically publish information about the number
10 of “foreign nationals” involved in, among other things, terrorism-related activities, radicalization, 11 and “gender-based violence against women, including honor killings”—direct echoes of then-
12 candidate Trump’s broad statements denigrating Islam and Muslims.

14 72-78. Further, on information and belief, since the January 27 Order was signed, CBP has 15 questioned foreign nationals entering from certain countries about their religious beliefs to 16 determine whether or not they are Muslim, and has subjected Muslim travelers from countries 17 other than the seven designation nations to disproportionate and unwarranted scrutiny and 18 interrogation.

20 73-79. There is no sound basis for concluding that Muslims generally, or Muslims from 21 particular countries, are more likely to commit violent acts of terror.

24 majority countries, NSEERS, the National Security Entry-Exit Registration System \(“NSEERS”\), 25 did not lead to the conviction or even identification of a single terrorist, even though it subjected 26 tens of thousands of people to additional screening and investigation.

1 75-81. Many alternatives exist that do not involve targeting individuals based on their faith or
2 using nationality as a proxy for faith, are less restrictive than the Executive January 27 Order, and
3 are more closely tailored to legitimate national security concerns.

4 82. The January 27 Order remains in effect until March 16, 2017, when the March 6 Order
5 becomes effective and rescinds and replaces the January 27 Order.

6 The Chaotic and Irregular Implementation of the January 27 Order

7 76-83. The preparation and implementation of the Executive January 27 Order were extremely 8 unusual and chaotic. Upon information and belief, the White House bypassed regular channels for 9 input and cooperation with other components of the Executive Branch, including the Secretaries
10 of Homeland Security, Defense, and State. Moreover, upon information and belief, CBP was not 11 given clear operational guidance during critical times in the implementation of the 12 Executive January 27 Order.

14 77-84. The Executive January 27 Order was signed without final review or legal analysis from 15 DHS, which—along with the DOS—is principally charged with implementing the Order.

17 78-85. Secretary of Homeland Security Kelly was reportedly in the midst of a conference call
18 to discuss the January 27 Order when someone on the call learned from watching television that 19 the Order they were discussing had been signed.

20 79-86. Similarly, Secretary of Defense Mattis, who had publicly criticized President Trump's 21 proposal to ban Muslims from the United States, reportedly did not see a final version of the 22 January 27 Order until the day it was signed and was not consulted during its preparation.

24 80-87. ~~This~~ The January 27 Order did not arise out of the usual process of consulting with the 25 relevant cabinet-level officials and agencies before issuing an Executive Order. Instead, the 26 January 27 Order was primarily drafted by a small team of Presidential aides, overseen by chief 27 White House strategist Stephen K. Bannon.
28

1 81-88. Mr. Bannon has previously made anti-Muslim comments. He criticized former
2 President George W. Bush for referring to Islam as “a religion of peace,” calling President Bush
3 “one of the dumbest presidents in the history of these United States.”

4 82-89. Congressional staff who worked on the Executive January 27 Order reportedly were 5 required to sign nondisclosure agreements, and not even the members of Congress they served
6 were allowed to know of their work on the January 27 Order. On information and belief, this 7 arrangement was also highly unusual.

9 83-90. During the days leading up to and following the signing of the Executive January 27
10 Order, its scope and provisions were changed without any rational relationship to the purported
11 reasons for the January Order.

12 84-91. For example, the night before the January 27 Order was signed, the Department of 13 Homeland Security issued guidance interpreting § 3(c) of the January 27 Order as not applying to 14 lawful permanent residents. Overnight, the White House overruled that guidance, applying the 15 January 27 Order to lawful permanent residents subject to a case-by-case exception process, in a 16 decision closely associated with Mr. Bannon.

18 85-92. After the detention at airports of many individuals, including lawful permanent 19 residents, led to chaos nationwide, Secretary Kelly issued a statement “deem[ing] the entry of 20 lawful permanent residents to be in the national interest.” Secretary Kelly’s statement was made
21 pursuant to Section 3(g) of the order, which requires such a decision to be made jointly with the 22 Secretary of State and “on a case-by-case basis.”

24 86-93. Finally, on February 1, the Counsel to the President purported to interpret the January
25 27 Order as exempting Lawfullawful permanent residents from the ban entirely.

26 87-94. Similarly, initial guidance from the Department of State indicated that individuals with 27 dual citizenship, with one country of citizenship subject to the ban, would be banned from entering 28

1 the United States. Word of a change in that policy spread irregularly, with notice being given to
2 airlines and foreign nations but contradicted in official U.S. government communications.

3 88-95. Finally, CBP announced a changed policy, explaining, in response to the question
4 “Does ‘from one of the seven countries’ mean citizen, national or born in?” that “Travelers are 5 being treated according to the travel document they present.” According to this policy, currently 6 in place, the very same individual both is and is not subject to the travel ban depending only on 7 the travel document she presents.

9 89-96. The government also reversed itself on its policy toward holders of Special Immigrant
10 Visas from Iraq. Holders of these visas are clearly banned under the terms of the January 27 Order, 11 and they were refused entry when it went into effect. However, on February 2, 2017, the 12 government changed course and allowed them to enter the United States despite the 13 Executive January 27 Order.

14 90-97. Still other aspects of the Executive January 27 Order and its implementation
15 demonstrate utter disregard for the individuals affected by it. For example, the Administration
16 knew that the Executive January 27 Order would bar the entry of individuals who were literally
17 mid-air when the order was issued. Nonetheless, and absent any exigency that would justify it,
18 the order was signed late on a Friday afternoon. That decision had a number of predictable
19 consequences, including: making it more difficult for the federal employees tasked with enforcing 20 the order to obtain instruction on how to interpret and enforce the order’s sloppily-written 21 provisions; prolonging the detentions at airports of those affected, and leading many to be 22 wrongfully deported; and increasing the difficulty advocates had in accessing their clients and the

26 98. In a tweet on January 30, 2017, President Trump appeared to justify the rushed
27 implementation of the January 27 Order by claiming that “[i]f the ban were announced with a one
28

1 week notice, the ‘bad’ would rush into our country during that week. A lot of bad ‘dudes’ out
2 there!’

3 91-99. Even once advocates were able to access the courts and obtain temporary injunctive
4 relief against aspects of the Executive Order, DHS officials frequently refused or otherwise failed
5 to comply with the court orders, undermining bedrock constitutional principles and inflicting
6 further unlawful injury on the affected individuals.

7 92-100. Other actions taken by DHS and DOS to enforce the Executive January 27 Order exhibit
8 a zealous desire to go beyond even the draconian measures the order actually requires.

9 93-101. Notwithstanding that Section 3 of the Executive January 27 Order only bars “entry into 10 the United States of aliens from” one of the aforementioned seven Muslim-majority countries,
11 DHS interpreted it to prohibit the granting of any immigration-related benefit to anyone from those 12 countries—including to individuals who are already in the United States. That decision would 13 have wide-ranging consequences, including: delaying naturalization of lawful permanent residents
14 (“LPRs”) from those countries who wish to become U.S. citizens; rendering asylees from those 15 countries unable to be lawfully employed once their Employment Authorization Documents
16 expire; and either expelling or making undocumented any individuals here on nonimmigrant visas
17 (including student, employment, and tourist) that otherwise ~~could~~would have been renewed.

18 94-102. DOS, at the request of DHS, issued a letter purporting to provisionally revoke all
19 immigrant and nonimmigrant visas of nationals of the seven designated countries on a categorical
20 basis. The letter is dated January 27, 2017, but only came to light on January 31, 2017, when 21 Department of Justice lawyers filed it in pending litigation. DOS has stated that this action was 22 taken to “implement[.]” the Executive Order.

23 95-103. ~~On~~Upon information and belief, DOS has never before revoked a broad swath of valid
24 visas in this manner. Nor, on information and belief, is visa revocation ordinarily undertaken in

1 secret, with no notice to the visa holder and no individualized consideration of whether any
2 particular visa should be revoked.

3 96.104. Still further evidence of discriminatory intent and effect is reflected in the statements
4 by President Trump and his Administration seeking to defend and justify the Executive January 27
5 Order after it was issued.

6 97.105. President Trump, for example, falsely stated that only 109 people were detained over
7 the weekend following the issuance of the Executive January 27 Order, even though he knew or 8 should have known that the number was far higher.

10 ~~98. — Following the issuance on February 3 of a temporary restraining order of various parts~~
11 ~~of the Executive Order, President Trump personally attacked the Honorable James Robart, who~~ 12 ~~issued the order. President Trump referred to Judge Robart as a “so-called judge,” calling his~~
13 ~~opinion “outrageous,” “ridiculous,” and “terrible.” President Trump falsely claimed that one~~
14 ~~consequence of Judge Robart’s order is that now “anyone, even with bad intentions” must be~~
15 ~~allowed to enter the country, saying that the judge had “open[ed] up our country to potential~~
16 ~~terrorists” and put it in “such peril.” President Trump advised the public to “blame him and the~~
17 ~~court system” if “something happens.” Comments like this by a President about a sitting judge~~
18 ~~are extremely unusual, if not unprecedented, and further underline the extent to which the ordinary~~
19 ~~norms and processes of government have been cast aside with respect to this Order.~~

21 106. Indeed, pursuant to a federal district court order, the federal government has since 22 revealed that at least 746 individuals were detained over a period of just 27 hours during the 23 weekend after the January 27 Order was signed. This 27-hour period did not begin until a day
24 after the January 27 Order went into effect.
27
28

1 ~~99-107.~~ These chaotic, irregular, and irrational policies, policy changes, and statements
2 indicate that the purported justifications for the Executive January 27 Order are pretextual and that
3 it was at least substantially motivated by an intent to discriminate against Muslims.

4 The Nationwide ~~Temporary Restraining~~ Preliminary Injunction Enjoining the January 27
5 Order

6 108. The February 3, 2017, ~~temporary restraining order (“TRO”)~~ issued by Judge
7 ~~Robert~~ the District Court for the Western District of Washington currently prohibits the 8 government from enforcing Sections 3(c), 5(a), 5(b), and 5(e) of the Executive January 27 Order.
9 ~~The government has~~ Upon issuance of this Order, which the District Court described as a
10 temporary restraining order, the government appealed to the Ninth Circuit and sought a stay
11 pending appeal. ~~That~~

13 ~~100-109.~~ After hearing oral argument, the Ninth Circuit declined to stay motion was fully 14 briefed by 3:00 pm Pacific Standard Time on February 6, 2017 the Order, noting that “although 15 courts owe considerable deference with respect to immigration and national security, it is beyond 16 question that the federal judiciary retains the authority to adjudicate constitutional challenges to 17 executive action.” Washington v. Trump, 847 F.3d 1151, 1164 (9th Cir. 2017).

19 110. In response to reaching its holding, the TRO, the Court noted that “[t]he government
20 issued assurances that, while the TRO remained in place, entry procedures would revert to those 21 in place before the Order was signed; visas purportedly revoked by the DOS letter would be 22 reinstated; airlines would be informed has pointed to no evidence that they could fly individuals any 23 alien from any of the banned countries to the named in the order has perpetrated a terrorist attack
24 in the United States;” Id. at 1168.

26 ~~101-111.~~ The Court also acknowledged “evidence of numerous statements by the 27 President about his intent to implement a ‘Muslim ban’” and visa processing observed that “[i]t is 28 well established that evidence of purpose beyond the face of the challenged law may be considered

1 in evaluating Establishment and interviews overseas would resume Equal Protection Clause
2 claims.” Id. at 1167.

3 112. Presumably, The Court also found that the February 3 Order, although styled a TRO,
4 should the TRO be dissolved, the government will also unwind all of these changes, and thereby
5 reinstate be treated as a preliminary injunction.

6 113. Shortly after the Ninth Circuit’s opinion issued, President Trump tweeted, “SEE YOU
7 IN COURT, THE SECURITY OF OUR NATION IS AT STAKE!” He subsequently denounced 8 the Executive Order in its entirety (except as limited by other Executive Branch decisions, like
9 the opinion as “a political decision to allow Special Immigrant Visa holders” and stated, “[W]e’re
10 going to see them in court, and I look forward to doing that. It’s a decision that we’ll win, in my 11 opinion, very easily.”

12 114. On March 7, 2017, the government withdrew its appeal of the February 3 Order, leaving 13 in place the preliminary injunction of Sections 3(c), 5(a), 5(b), and 5(e) of the January 27 Order.

14 The March 6 Order

15 115. In the weeks preceding the issuance of the March 6 Order, Stephen Miller, a senior
16 advisor to President Trump, explained that the administration was preparing a new executive order
17 “to be responsive to the judicial ruling” of the Ninth Circuit. He explained that the changes would 18 be “mostly minor, technical differences. Fundamentally, you are still going to have the same, basic 19 policy outcome for the country.”

22 116. Consistent with Mr. Miller’s statement, the March 6 Order, explicitly referring to the 23 Ninth Circuit’s ruling, exempts certain categories of noncitizens that have “prompted judicial 24 concerns” from the ban, and alters the original order’s “approach to certain other issues or 25 categories of affected aliens” “in order to avoid spending additional time pursuing litigation” over 26 the constitutionality of the January 27 Order.

1 117. Indeed, notwithstanding an expanded “Policy and Purpose” section and certain other
2 changes discussed more fully below, the March 6 Order is extremely similar to the January 27
3 Order in most important respects.

4 118. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order bans entry for a new 90 day period for 5 individuals from the six of the same seven predominantly Muslim countries identified in the 6 January 27 Order: Syria, Sudan, Iran, Libya, Somalia, and Yemen (Section 2(c)).

7 119. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order also provides a mechanism for the 8 government to extend and/or expand the 90-day ban at the end of the 90 day period. Section 2 of 9 the Order directs the Secretary of Homeland Security to “conduct a worldwide review to identify 10 whether, and if so what, additional information will be needed from each foreign country to 11 adjudicate an application by a national of that country for a visa, admission, or other benefit under 12 the INA (adjudications) in order to determine that the individual is not a security or public-safety
13 threat.” In addition, the March 6 Order explicitly provides that the review need not be conducted 14 in a consistent matter between countries: “The Secretary of Homeland Security may conclude that 15 certain information is needed from particular countries even if it is not needed from every country.”
16 Again, the order provides for the submission of a report on this review within 30 days of the date
17 of the order, a period (50 days rather than 60) for countries to respond to the order, and a provision
18 for the President to thereafter issue a proclamation indefinitely banning travelers from a list of 19 countries deemed to be non-compliant.

20 120. The corresponding provisions of the January 27 Order were never suspended and 21 remain in effect.

22 121. The country-by-country report required by the January 27, 2017 Order was due on 23 February 26, 2017, eight days before the March 6 Order was issued. On information and belief, 24 this report was not produced.

1 122. The March 6 Order states that “Iraq presents a special case” because of the “close
2 cooperative relationship between the United States and the democratically elected Iraqi
3 government” and because the “Iraqi government has expressly undertaken steps to enhance travel
4 documentation, information sharing, and the return of Iraqi nationals subject to final orders of 5 removal” (Section 4). With this justification, the March 6 Order exempts foreign nationals of Iraq
6 from the categorical ban on entry applicable to other countries originally targeted by the January
7 27 Order. Instead, Iraqis are subject to “thorough review” and “consideration of whether the 8 applicant has connections with ISIS or other terrorist organizations.”

10 123. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order allows for waivers to this ban on a 11 discretionary case-by-case basis (Section 3(c)). In contrast to the January 27 Order, which simply 12 stated that visas and other immigration benefits may be issued “when in the national interest,” the 13 March 6 Order provides nine examples of situations in which a waiver would be appropriate, such 14 as when “the foreign national is an infant, a young child or adoptee” or “an individual needing 15 urgent medical care” (Sections 3(c)(i)-(ix)). These and other similar circumstances enumerated in 16 the March 6 Order reflect specific examples of individuals whose denial of entry pursuant to the 17 January 27 Order resulted in the filing of lawsuits and widespread public outcry.

19 124. The March 6 Order also contains exceptions to this ban for, among others, lawful 20 permanent residents and dual nationals traveling on passports issued by a non-designated country

23 125. Like the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order cuts the number of refugees admissible
24 to the United States for fiscal year 2017 from 110,000 to 50,000 and prohibits refugee admissions
25 for 120 days, with an exception for discretionary case-by-case admissions (Sections 6(a), 6(b)).
26 The March 6 Order also expressly suspends decisions on applications for refugee status for 120
27 days (Section 6(a)).

1 ~~102-126.~~ Defendant Department of State has informed Plaintiff HIAS that only refugees
2 who are already booked for travel to the United States arriving at their port of entry through the
3 end of March 15, 2017, i.e., before the March 6 Order's effective date of March 16, 2017 at 12:01
4 am, will be permitted to enter the United States, ~~or by other court orders~~. Defendant Department
5 of State has indicated that no further bookings may be made.

6 127. Defendant Department of State has informed Plaintiff HIAS that all DHS screening
7 interviews will continue to be suspended until further notice, unless exceptions are arranged on an 8 individual basis.

9 128. Defendant Department of State has informed Plaintiff HIAS that no new Interagency
10 Checks (IAC) and Security Advisory Opinion (SAO) security checks may be requested. Upon
11 information and belief, all refugees must undergo both IAC and SAO security checks before
12 traveling and being admitted to the US.

13 129. In addition to the provisions discussed above, the March 6 Order contains near-
14 verbatim reproductions of all the other substantive provisions of the January 27 Order, including:

- 15 • Former Section 4(a), now Section 5(a), which requires the Secretaries of State and 16 Homeland Security, the Attorney General, and the Director of National Intelligence to 17 implement uniform screening standards to identify individuals “who seek to enter the 18 United States on a fraudulent basis, who support terrorism, violent extremism, acts of 19 violence toward any group or class of people within the United States, or who present 20 a risk of causing harm subsequent to their entry.”
- 21 • Former Section 5(g), now Section 6(d), which seeks to expand the limited role State 22 and local governments have in the refugee resettlement process, potentially facilitating 23 the stated desire and intent of some states and localities in the United States to 24

1 discriminate against lawfully-admitted refugees on the basis of their nationality and/or
2 religion. See, e.g., Exodus Refugee Immigration, 838 F.3d 902.

- 3 • Former Section 6, now Section 7, which directs the Secretaries of State and Homeland
4 Security to consider rescinding certain waivers of terrorism-related inadmissibility
5 grounds (“TRIG waivers”) authorized by previous administrations. TRIG waivers have 6 historically been used to facilitate the admission to the United States of certain 7 individuals or groups of individuals—often refugees fleeing persecution—who have 8 been forced to give aid to terrorist organizations under duress.
- 9 • Former Section 8, now Section 9, which suspends the Visa Interview Waiver Program.
- 10 • Former Section 10, now Section 11, which requires the Secretary of Homeland Security 11 to periodically publish information about the number of “foreign nationals” involved 12 in, among other things, terrorism-related activities, radicalization, and “gender-based 13 violence against women, including so-called ‘honor killings.’”

16 130. The signing and implementation of the March 6 Order was reportedly delayed because 17 of the positive media reviews President Trump received after his address to a joint session of 18 Congress on February 28, 2017. Although the Trump Administration had previously intended on 19 releasing the revised executive order the following day, on March 1, 2017, White House officials
20 stated that they delayed the release of the revised Executive Order so that President Trump’s 21 speech could continue to receive positive press attention.

23 131. Upon information and belief, the delay following President Trump’s congressional 24 address marked the third time the administration put off the issuance of the revised Executive 25 Order.

26 132. Before signing the March 6 Order, President Trump ordered the Department of 27 Homeland Security and the Department of Justice to produce an intelligence report to demonstrate 28

1 that the seven Muslim-majority countries originally identified in the January 27 Order present a
2 substantial security threat and have exported terrorism to the United States.

3 133. Upon information and belief, such an attempt to reverse-engineer a national security
4 justification for an executive action is not common practice.

5 134. In response, analysts at the Department of Homeland Security prepared a draft report,
6 released to the press on February 24, 2017, indicating that there was insufficient evidence that the 7 nationals of the seven Muslim-majority countries included in in the January 27 Order pose a terror
8 threat to the United States.

10 135. The draft report found that citizenship is an “unlikely indicator” of terrorism threats to 11 the United States, and that few people from the countries identified in the January 27 Order have 12 carried out attacks or been involved in terrorism-related activities in the United States since Syria’s 13 civil war started in 2011.

15 136. A second Department of Homeland Security report, dated March 1, 2017, found that of 16 the limited number of the foreign-born, U.S.-based violent extremists, most become radicalized
17 after living in the U.S. for a number of years.

18 137. The Executive Order does not acknowledge or rely on either of these recent, specific
19 security appraisals from the Department of Homeland Security. Instead, it relies on the State
20 Department’s Country Reports on Terrorism 2015 (June 2016). In relying on those reports,
21 however, the Order disregards other countries that the State Department describes as safe havens
22 for terrorists, and that pose a similar if not larger threat. For example, the State Department noted
23 in its 2015 chapter on Terrorist Safe Havens that Venezuela has become a haven for terrorist 24 groups, explaining that the country’s “porous border with Colombia has made [it] attractive to the 25 Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia and the National Liberation Army.” Similarly, the State 26 Department concluded that “[t]here are ungoverned, under-governed, and ill-governed areas of

1 Mali that terrorist groups have used to organize, plan, raise funds, communicate, recruit, train and
2 operative in relative security.”

3 138. The Secretary of Homeland Security also said in an interview that many other countries
4 not banned in the Executive Order raise similar security concerns. “There’s probably thirteen or
5 fourteen other countries—not all of them Muslim countries, not all of them in the Middle East—
6 that have very questionable vetting procedures that we can rely on.”

8 139. The Order also states that “more than 300 persons who entered the United States as 9 refugees are currently subjects of counterterrorism investigations by the Federal Bureau of 10 Investigation.” The Order does not note that very few F.B.I. initial assessments of terrorism threats
11 become intensive investigations: for example, in the four months from December 2008 to March 12 2009, the F.B.I. began 11,667 “assessments” related to terrorism, only 427 of which—less than 13 4%—led to more intensive investigations.

15 140. Over 970,000 individuals have been admitted to the United States as refugees between 16 2001 and the present.

17 141. The March 6 Order was motivated by the same anti-Muslim purpose that motivated the 18 January 27 Order. In replicating much of the substance of the January 27 Order, the March 6 Order
19 seeks to prevent the entry of Muslims into the United States and reinforces stereotypes about 20 Muslims by associating them with terrorism, violence, bigotry, and hatred. .

21 142. White House spokesperson Sean Spicer echoed these comments on March 6, 22 explaining, after President Trump signed the revised Order, “The principles of the executive order 23 remain the same.”

25
26 103-143. Implementation and enforcement of the January 27 Order has already caused 27 Plaintiffs and their clients substantial, concrete, and particularized injury, ~~and will continue to~~ 28

1 harm Plaintiffs. Implementation of the March 6 Order threatens them with continued irreparable
2 harm if not permanently enjoined.

3 ~~104.144.~~ The ~~Both~~ Executive ~~Order, which suspends~~ Orders suspend refugee resettlement
4 and intentionally ~~discriminates~~ discriminate against ~~Muslim immigrants, frustrates~~ Muslims. ~~Both~~
5 Executive Orders therefore frustrate IRAP's mission and ~~imposes~~ impose a significant burden on
6 IRAP's work. As a direct result of the imposition and enforcement of the ~~Executive~~ January 27
7 Order, IRAP and its clients have suffered substantial, concrete injuries. Because the March 6
8 Order is substantively the same, these injuries will continue once the March 6 Order takes effect.

10 ~~105.145.~~ IRAP serves refugees and displaced persons of all faiths, but the vast majority 11 of its ~~client base is~~ clients are Muslim. IRAP counsels persecuted individuals on various legal 12 avenues to safe countries and represents them throughout these processes, with a majority of its 13 clients resettling ~~to~~ in the United States.

14 ~~106.146.~~ The January 27 Order has already severely restricted IRAP's ability to carry out
15 its work and mission. In the ten days immediately following the issuance of the ~~Executive~~ January
16 27 Order, IRAP provided assistance to more than forty individuals from Iraq, Iran, Sudan, Libya,
17 Syria, Somalia, and Yemen who, despite being vetted and given permission to enter the United 18 States, had been prevented by the Order from doing so.

20 ~~107.147.~~ Of ~~its 583~~ IRAP's 599 open cases, ~~419~~ 402 families are from ~~Iraq,~~ Syria, Iran,
21 Sudan, Somalia, Libya, or Yemen or are refugees from other countries and therefore potentially 22 affected by ~~this~~ the new March 6 Order. IRAP has already used a significant portion of its financial 23 resources and time to represent these ~~419 clients~~ 402 families through legal adjudications and to 24 provide counseling through the demanding vetting process. Restricting ~~entry into the United States~~
25 has rendered issuance of visas wastes that investment of resources and time ~~a waste~~.

1 108.148. Furthermore, the Executive March 6 Order will create a significant backlog in 2 the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program, delaying the processing of many of IRAP's clients' cases.
3 This delay forces IRAP to exhaust more of its resources, as the average lifespan of a case now
4 grows significantly.

5 149. IRAP attorneys are not providing only limited representation in certain new cases,
6 which, prior to the Executive Order would have received full representation, as a result of the 7 exorbitant delays in USRAP processing that the Executive Order will cause.

8 150. IRAP relies on volunteers from its law school chapters and pro bono firms to meet the 9 needs of their vast client base. With the increased demands of their caseload resulting from the 10 Executive Order, IRAP now has very limited capacity to open new law school chapters or begin
11 new relationships with law firms to place cases for direct representation.

12 151. Under the Executive Order's freeze of the USRAP, IRAP may also be unable to place
13 new cases with existing chapters or law firms because there is no movement on any refugee cases.
14 IRAP risks losing hundreds of volunteers, and relationships with numerous law firms, because 15 they are unable to provide them with a way to partner with them on cases.

16 152. IRAP's law firm partners also provide financial support to IRAP. If IRAP no longer
17 has cases to place at law firms, and thus have to decrease our number of law firm partners, it will 18 significantly cut into the corporate funding IRAP receives.

19 153. As a result of the Executive Order, IRAP's Resettlement Deployment Scheme with 20 UNHCR, which allows IRAP resettlement experts since early 2016 to be deployed to UNHCR for 21 assisting with their resettlement operations, may be terminated due to the drastic decrease in
22 resettlement slots available in the United States and worldwide. This would lead to the termination
23 of three IRAP staff as well as a revenue loss of approximately $260,000.
26
27
28

1 ~~109.154.~~ The delay also ~~greatly~~ endangers the lives of IRAP's clients, because the longer
2 it takes for their cases to be decided, the longer they are in life-threatening environments. In 3 addition, some of the IRAP clients abroad have ~~familial~~family ties to IRAP clients already in the 4 United States, and those U.S. clients are suffering harm as a result of the ongoing delay in 5 reunification with their family members, as well as the risk that their family members may suffer
6 persecution or death in the meantime.

8 ~~110.155.~~ ~~The Executive~~Both the January 27 Order and the March 6 Order, moreover,
9 ~~marginalizes~~marginalize IRAP's Muslim clients ~~and subjects,~~ subject them to suspicion, scrutiny,
10 and social isolation on the basis of religion and national origin, and ~~inflicts stigmatic and dignitary~~
11 ~~injuries~~inflict stigmatic and dignitary injuries. IRAP clients who are already inside the U.S. are 12 afraid and fear they are not welcome. Some IRAP clients have been subjected to harassment by 13 law enforcement agencies allegedly conducting "new" security checks. Others have been detained
14 at airports, or rejected from flights multiple times even though they are presenting valid visas.

16 ~~111.156.~~ ~~The Executive~~Both the January 27 Order ~~has~~and the March 6 Order, 17 furthermore, have forced IRAP to devote substantial resources to addressing the order's effects on 18 IRAP's clients and those similarly situated. Following the signing of the ~~Executive~~January 27
19 Order on January 27, 2017 at 4:42 P.M. EST, two IRAP clients, Mr. Hameed Khalid Darweesh
20 and Mr. Haider Sameer Abdulkhaleq Alshawi, were detained at John F. Kennedy Airport ("JFK")
21 despite being the recipients of having valid visasentry documents. As a result, IRAP attorneys
22 were present at JFK from 2 am to 6:30 pm on January 28, 2017 attempting to secure their lawful 23 release. Furthermore, together with co-counsel, IRAP filed a habeas petition on behalf of those 24 two clients, together with a motion for class certification (Darweesh et al. v. Trump et al., No.
25 1:17-cv-480 (E.D.N.Y. filed Jan. 28, 2017)). That litigation is ongoing. These actions are not in
28

1 the scope of normal IRAP legal assistance, as previous IRAP clients were allowed to enter at U.S.
2 Ports of Entry after receiving final approval to travel.

3 ~~112-157.~~ The Both the January 27 Order and the March 6 Order have further caused
4 IRAP to divert its resources as IRAP has become the focal point organization for volunteer
5 attorneys all across the country who have gone to airports to attempt to secure the release of 6 individuals detained pursuant to this Order, both Executive Orders. In addition to being the first
7 organization to put out a call to volunteer attorneys, IRAP created and maintains a unique hotline
8 email address (airport@refugeerights.org) to advise attorneys and affected individuals. Since the 9 creation of this email address on January 28, 2017, IRAP has received and responded to nearly 10 800 over a thousand email messages. IRAP has also developed templates and informational
11 materials for attorneys, affected family members in the United States, and individuals overseas
12 who have been denied travel pursuant to the Order. [HW1]

15 158. IRAP also provides safe housing for clients whose lives are in immediate danger while 16 they await the outcomes of USRAP. Clients in urgent situations who face additional four-month
17 delays on their applications (at a minimum) will require IRAP to expend significant funding to 18 ensure continued safe housing.

19 ~~113-159.~~ HIAS and its clients have likewise been significantly harmed by the 20 Executive Order, January 27 and March 6 Orders. HIAS's refugee resettlement work is grounded
21 in, and an expression of, the organization's sincere Jewish beliefs. The Torah, Judaism's central 22 and most holy text, commands followers to welcome, love, and protect the stranger. The Jewish 23 obligation to the stranger is repeated throughout the Torah, more than any other teaching or 24 commandment. HIAS believes that this religious commandment demands concern for and 25 protection of persecuted people of all faiths. The Torah also teaches that the Jewish people are to 26 welcome, protect, and love the stranger because "we were strangers in the land of Egypt"

1 (Leviticus 19:34). Throughout their history, violence and persecution have made the Jewish
2 people a refugee people. Thus, both history and values lead HIAS to welcome refugees in need of 3 protection. A refusal to aid persecuted people of any one faith, because of stigma attached to that 4 faith, violates HIAS's deeply held religious convictions.

5 ~~114.160. The Executive Like the January 27 Order, the March 6~~ Order severely impedes
6 HIAS's religious mission and work by intentionally discriminating against Muslims, and 7 prohibiting the entry of all refugees into the United States for 120 days, ~~indefinitely prohibiting~~
8 ~~Syrian refugees' entry into the United States, and disfavoring majority faith refugees generally.~~

10 ~~115.161. Before the January 27 and March 6 Orders were signed, arrangements had been~~
11 ~~made for many of HIAS's refugee clients to arrive in the United State in January, February, and~~
12 ~~the coming months.~~ Despite having been previously vetted and granted refugee status,
13 ~~HIAS~~ however, clients from ~~Iraq,~~ Iran, Sudan, Somalia, Ukraine, Bhutan, the Democratic Republic
14 of Congo, Afghanistan, Eritrea, Tanzania, Ethiopia, Uganda, Russia, Belarus, and Burma were 15 ~~delayed in or~~ prevented from entering the country because of the ~~Executive~~ January 27 Order ~~and~~.
16 If the Temporary Restraining Order barring enforcement of the January 27 Order is lifted, or if the 17 March 6 Order goes into effect, HIAS's clients will continue to face significant delays. ~~But for~~ 18 ~~the Temporary Restraining Order, HIAS clients would continue to or~~ be barred from entering the 19 country. ~~Before the Executive Order was signed, arrangements had been made for many of these~~
20 ~~clients to arrive in denied entry into~~ the United ~~State in January, February, and the coming~~
21 ~~months.~~ States altogether.

24 116. ~~Many of these clients are Muslim and hail from Muslim majority countries and would~~
25 ~~thus be precluded from using the preference for refugees of a minority faith, even if they have~~
26 ~~religious persecution claims. Others are not Muslim but follow faiths that are the majority faiths~~

1 ~~in their countries of origin and thus would similarly be ineligible for the “minority” faith preference~~
2 ~~even if they are able to assert religious persecution claims.~~

3 162. Some HIAS Specifically, HIAS has identified nearly 1,400 clients worldwide who were 4 allocated through the Department of State process, have been vetted, and have been approved for
5 refugee status. These refugees have already been allocated and assured to one of HIAS’s
6 resettlement sites. Of these clients, less than 60 have been scheduled for travel following the 7 signing of the March 6 Order. That means that any travel for the remaining approved refugees
8 will be significantly delayed, and many will be unable to come at all in this Fiscal Year.

10 163. Under the Executive Order, the earliest that refugee resettlement could resume would 11 be early July 2017. This would leave Resettlement Agencies, at most, with only two-and-a-half 12 months before the end of the fiscal year to resettle hundreds or thousands of refugees who were 13 supposed to be resettled over a much longer period of time. Refugee processing would be impacted 14 by the 120-day ban since security checks and processing would be suspended during that time.
15 Because security and medical clearances have expiration dates, it is likely that some refugees
16 would lose their readiness for travel during the suspension period and lengthy checks would need 17 to be repeated.

19 164. In addition, after the January 27 Order was issued, the U.S. Department of State notified
20 HIAS that its resettlement commitment will be cut by 39 percent for the remainder of FFY 2017
21 due to the Order’s drastic reduction in the planned level of refugee admission from 110,000 to 22 50,000. Thus, some of HIAS’s clients who have been vetted and approved as refugees will simply 23 not be able to enter the country in FFY 2017.

25 165. Of the nearly 1,400 HIAS clients worldwide who were allocated through the 26 Department of State process, have been vetted, and have been approved for refugee status, 500 are 27 nationals of one of the six banned countries. The overwhelmingly majority of these individuals
28

1 are Muslim. Because they are national of the six banned countries, they will likely be ineligible
2 for the case-by-case exception to the 120-day ban on for refugee applicants set forth in Section
3 6(c) of the March 6 Executive Order.

4 166. Every day that HIAS clients' entry is delayed, they remain in precarious situations.

5 167. Many of HIAS's clients abroad ~~have refugee referral,~~ whose refugee status has been
6 approved but have yet to be scheduled for travel, including clients from the six banned countries,
7 have family members in the United States, also HIAS clients, who will suffer as a result of the 8 delay in reuniting with their family members. Some of these U.S. ties are, in fact, individuals who 9 petitioned for refugee status (often through HIAS) for their family members.

10 ~~117-168.~~ In addition, more than 1,300 refugee applications initiated through HIAS by 11 family members residing in the United States remain pending ~~with the United States, and will~~
12 suffer significant delay in the ~~for~~ HIAS clients abroad. The adjudication of ~~thesethese~~ applications
13 has been or will be substantially delayed because of the ~~Executive Order. That~~ March 6 Order. In 14 fact, since the Orders were signed, consideration of most refugee applicant cases in need of security
15 checks have been suspended. This means that, for many refugees in the pipeline, security checks 16 that typically lasted 18-24 months will now be paused and restarted, potentially adding years to 17 their wait for stable resettlement. The delay ~~puts them at~~ in processing of these applications will 18 subject these clients to further risk of ~~the very~~ persecution and abuse ~~that they are fleeing.~~ Some 19 of these clients are from Syria; therefore, under the Executive Order, adjudication of their refugee
20 applications is suspended indefinitely. Some of these clients are Muslim and hail from Muslim
21 majority countries. They will be precluded, even once refugee resettlement resumes, from 22 benefiting from the preference for refugees of a minority faith. in their current situations, and their 23 family members who petitioned for them to come to the United States will remain in limbo as to 24 whether they will ever be reunited.

1 ~~118. Some HIAS clients in the United States have relatives abroad who are eligible for~~
2 ~~resettlement or other immigration applicants. Some HIAS clients abroad have family ties in the~~
3 ~~United States. Those U.S. clients and family members in the United States are suffering harm as~~
4 ~~a result of the ongoing delay in reunification with their family members, as well as the risk that~~
5 ~~their family members may suffer persecution or death in the meantime.~~

6 119-169. The Executive Orders convey an official message of disapproval and hostility
7 toward HIAS's Muslim clients, making clear that the government deems them outsiders, not full 8 members of the political community. HIAS's Muslim clients in the United States have been 9 marginalized as a result of ~~the~~this anti-Muslim message ~~conveyed by the Executive Order and,~~
10 ~~have been~~ subjected to baseless suspicion, scrutiny, and social and political isolation on the basis
11 of religion and national origin, and have suffered other dignitary and stigmatic injuries.

12 120-170. Additionally, as a result of the ExecutiveJanuary 27 Order, at least one of 13 HIAS's Muslim clients in the United States ~~has been~~was detained at an airport for an extended 14 period, handcuffed and separated from his family, and many other clients have otherwise had their 15 travel significantly delayed.

16 121-171. Because HIAS is a non-profit resettlement organization that has a cooperative 17 agreement with the federal government on a per-capita basis for each refugee served, and because 18 the Department of State asked HIAS to increase its capacity from the 3,884 refugees resettled in 19 federal fiscal year ("FFY") 2016 to 4,794 refugees in FFY 2017, HIAS would be denied crucial
20 funding as a result of the ExecutiveMarch 6 Order, which bans all refugees for 120 days, bars all
21 entry for the sevensix Muslim-majority countries for 90 days, ~~indefinitely bars refugees from~~
22 ~~Syria,~~ and capslimits the number of refugees to be admitted in the current fiscal year at 50,000,
23 which is less than half the number the Department of State told the resettlement agencies to 24 collectively plan to resettle.
26
27
28

1 172. The Executive Order After the January 27 Order was issued, the U.S. State Department
2 notified HIAS that its resettlement obligation for FFY 2017 would be slashed from nearly 4,800
3 to just over 2900 refugees. The financial losses to HIAS and its affiliate network—up to $2.2
4 million—will be crippling, especially for many of HIAS’s affiliates, which are heavily dependent
5 on funding that flows through HIAS. These losses will translate to irreparable harm to HIAS, its 6 affiliates, and its clients because they will cause (and have already caused) a substantial reduction
7 in program services and closure of resettlement sites. When this happens, the local expertise,
8 relationships, and good will—developed by affiliate staff, often over years and years—are lost
9 entirely or substantially diminished. Building a new resettlement site can take months or years of 10 relationship-building, including cooperation with local government and elected officials,
11 businesses who would be potential employers, landlords, volunteers, and the refugee communities
12 themselves. In addition, fewer resettlement sites may limit the type of specialized assistance and 13 services (e.g., for LGBT refugees) that clients can receive.

16 122.173. The January 27 and March 6 Orders would also result in the waste of HIAS
17 resources. For example, in the past year, HIAS has devoted substantial private resources to 18 developing a program with several congregations in Westchester, New York, to welcome Syrian
19 refugee families. Because of the ~~indefinite ban on Syrian refugees and~~ 90-day and 120-day bans, 20 as well as the unexpected and dramatic lowering of the refugee admissions ~~ceiling,~~ level, both the 21 ~~Executive~~ January 27 Order and the March 6 Order would put those resources to waste.
22 Congregations and family members of HIAS clients have extended resources to prepare for 23 anticipated refugees, by renting apartments and purchasing furnishings. In addition, some refugees
24 who were anticipating resettlement through HIAS left jobs or travelled through other countries and 25 now face precarious situations as a direct result of ~~this Executive~~ the January 27 Order and March 26 6 Order.
28

1 ~~123.174.~~ In the weeks and months prior to the order, HIAS concluded a formal plan with
2 the Department of State to increase HIAS's national resettlement capacity by 23.4% from 3,884
3 refugees in federal fiscal year 2016 to 4,794 refugees in federal fiscal year 2017. This plan caused
4 HIAS to invest substantial resources into expanding existing resettlement sites and opening new 5 refugee resettlement sites in Wisconsin, Delaware, New York, Illinois, and Massachusetts, as 6 approved by the Department of State. These resources will be wasted, at least in part, because of 7 the ~~Executive~~January 27 Order and the March 6 Order.

9 ~~124.175.~~ In addition, HIAS ~~will be~~has been forced to divert substantial resources, and will 10 continue to do so, to dealing with the fallout from ~~the Executive Order~~both executive orders and 11 ~~its~~their effect on HIAS's clients, including devoting staff time to working with clients, and their 12 families in the United States, who were denied entry and face precarious situations overseas.

13 ~~125.~~ Plaintiff Hakky, a U.S. citizen, ~~has suffered and will continue to suffer harm because~~
14 ~~of the Executive Order. Mr. Hakky has six sisters in law, one of whom lives in the United States~~
15 ~~and is a lawful permanent resident. Another sister in law lives in London, United Kingdom. His~~
16 ~~parents in law and four other sisters in law are all Iraqi nationals who have valid visitor visas to~~
17 ~~the United States. One sister in law was born in Kuwait and the other three were born in Jordan.~~
18 ~~Like their parents, all four are considered to be Iraqi nationals and subject to the executive order~~
19 ~~travel ban. Mr. Hakky's parents in law and sisters in law are all Muslim.~~

21 ~~176.~~ Plaintiff Hakky's parents in law and sisters in law were coming to the United States to 22 ~~visit~~ Plaintiff MESA and its members will also be harmed by the March 6 Order. MESA has 23 ~~members from the six designated countries who are outside the United States and lack~~
24 ~~U.S. visas. Because of the March 6 Order, these members will not be able to travel to the United~~
25 ~~States to attend academic conferences, including an annual meeting sponsored by~~ 26 ~~MESA. Participation in academic conferences is crucial to the professional success of both~~
28

1 graduate students and professors, and to their ability to fully engage with the ideas and scholarship
2 of the broader Middle Eastern studies community. Many important conferences, including the
3 MESA annual meeting, take place in the United States

4 177. Graduate students who are MESA members or are studying under MESA members in 5 the United States often leave the country to complete field work for advanced degrees. Because 6 of the Executive Order, many such students from the six designated countries fear exclusion from 7 the United States if they leave the country. The inability to leave the United States with an 8 assurance they will be permitted to reenter will impair their ability to engage in research and 9 participate in academic conferences. Such students will also lose their ability to visit family and 10 friends abroad with an assurance they will be permitted to reenter. For example, Iranian students
11 affiliated with MESA have cancelled plans to return home for Persian New Year, an important
12 holiday that will occur on March 21, because of the Executive Order.

14 178. MESA members who are U.S.-based faculty will be impacted by the Executive Order
15 because potential students from the designated countries will be unable to obtain visas to study
16 with them in the United States. Similarly, their current U.S.-based students from the designated 17 countries will not be able to travel abroad for field work with an assurance they will be permitted
18 to reenter, impacting faculty members' ability to facilitate quality research and educational 19 opportunities. Likewise, U.S.-based MESA faculty members will forego opportunities to travel 20 abroad for research and academic conferences for fear that they will not be readmitted, or will be
21 subjected to harassment or discrimination upon application for reentry to the United States. MESA
22 members will also be precluded from traveling to the designated countries for research or academic 23 conferences when those countries institute reciprocal actions in response to the Executive Order,
24 as Iran has done.
26
27
28

1 179. A large number of MESA members are Muslim or are institutional members whose
2 officers, employees, or members are Muslim. The Executive Orders convey an official message
3 of disapproval and hostility toward these Muslim members, making clear that the government
4 deems them outsiders, not full members of the political community. This marginalizes them,
5 subjects them to suspicion, scrutiny, and social and political isolation on the basis of religion and 6 national origin, and inflicts other stigmatic and dignitary injuries.

8 180. MESA itself will also be harmed by the Executive Order. As part of its goal to advance
9 learning, facilitate communication, and promote cooperation, MESA sponsors an annual meeting
10 that is a leading international forum for scholarship, intellectual exchange, and pedagogical
11 innovation. Approximately thirty percent of MESA members are based outside of the United
12 States and must travel to the United States to attend MESA's annual conference. At least 46
13 citizens of the six designated countries traveled to the United States to attend the last annual 14 meeting. MESA expects that a substantial number of scholars will be unable to attend this year's 15 meeting because of the restrictions imposed by the Executive Order. Moreover, in part because of 16 the stigmatic message of the Executive Order, many members based in Europe and the Middle 17 East are likely to heed international calls to boycott academic conferences in the United States in 18 protest of the Executive Order, including the MESA annual conference. The absence of these 19 scholars, attributable to the Executive Order, will have a substantial negative effect on the meeting.
20 These and other impacts of the Executive Order will negatively impact MESA's mission of 21 fostering the study and public understanding of the Middle East.

24 181. In addition, the Executive Order will cause serious financial harms to MESA. A large
25 portion of MESA's annual budget is funded through annual membership dues and registration fees
26 to attend the annual meeting. For each individual who cannot or will not attend the annual meeting,
27 MESA will lose $90-250 in registration fees. MESA will also suffer other financial injuries related 28

1 to its annual meeting as a result of the executive order. Some individuals who cannot or will not
2 attend the meeting will allow their MESA membership to lapse as a result. For each such lapsed
3 membership, MESA will lose $25-300 in membership dues.

4 ~~126. Mr. Hakky's sister-in-law, a lawful permanent resident who gave birth prematurely to~~
5 ~~a baby in January, 2017. Her parents and sisters planned to visit the United States to provide~~
6 ~~support and assistance and to meet the baby, who is still in the neonatal intensive care unit. They~~
7 ~~had planned to travel to the United States in late January but were barred from doing so because~~
8 ~~of the Executive Order.~~

10 ~~127. Plaintiffs Jane Doe and John Doe #4, U.S. citizens, have suffered and will continue to~~
11 ~~suffer harm because of the Executive Order. Jane Doe is pregnant, and she is scheduled for a~~
12 ~~Caesarean section in mid-February, 2017. She filed a family based visa petition for her two~~ 13 ~~parents, who live in Baghdad, in 2016. That visa petition was approved, and her parents were~~
14 ~~issued visas, which are facially valid until May 2017.~~

16 ~~128. Jane Doe's mother, who is a Shiite Muslim, and her father, who is a Sunni Muslim,~~
17 ~~plan to travel to the United States before the date of the Caesarean section and will be unable to~~
18 ~~do so under the terms of the executive order. If the executive order banning entry from Iraq is in~~
19 ~~effect, Jane Doe's parents will not be able to travel to the United States to be present for the birth~~
20 ~~of their grandchild.~~

22 ~~129. Plaintiff Takaloo, a U.S. citizen, has suffered and will continue to suffer harm because~~
23 ~~of the Executive Order. Ms. Takaloo's parents are Muslim and live in Iran. They received~~
24 ~~temporary family based visas, permitting them to become lawful permanent residents upon arrival~~
25 ~~in the United States. These visas expire on April 13, 2017.~~

1 ~~130. Ms. Takaloo and her parents have expended substantial amounts of money in obtaining~~
2 ~~visas for her parents, including fees payable to the U.S. government, costs of travel outside of Iran~~
3 ~~for a visa interview because there is no U.S. embassy in Iran, and required medical examinations.~~

4 ~~131. Ms. Takaloo's parents bought plane tickets on Qatar Airlines to travel to the United~~
5 ~~States on March 7, 2017. On January 27, 2017, Ms. Takaloo's parents learned through news~~
6 ~~reports that under President Trump's executive order, Iranian nationals would no longer be~~
7 ~~permitted to travel to the United States.~~

9 132-182. Plaintiff John Doe #1, a lawful permanent resident, has suffered and will
10 continue to suffer harm because of the Executive Order. In August 2016, while John Doe #1's
11 application to become a lawful permanent resident was pending, he married an Iranian national 12 who lives in Iran. She applied for a visa as John Doe #1's dependent and her application was 13 approved on November 3, 2016. As of January 9, 2017 John Doe #1 and his wife had submitted 14 all of the requisite documentation and paid immigrant visa processing fees, and were waiting for 15 notification that an interview was scheduled. At the time the Executive Order went into effect,
16 John Doe #1 expected his wife's interview to be scheduled within no more than six weeks based 17 on information published by the National Visa Center. Under the Executive Order, John Doe #1's
18 wife will not be interviewed or granted a visa.

20 133-183. The ~~executive order's~~ Executive Order's travel ban on Iranian nationals has 21 created significant fear, anxiety and insecurity for John Doe #1 and his wife regarding their future.
22 After her mother's unexpected death in 2013, John Doe #1's wife has been alone in Tehran. The 23 Executive Order's ban forces John Doe to choose between his career and being together with his

26 ~~134. Plaintiff John Doe #2, a U.S. citizen, has suffered and will continue to suffer harm~~
27 ~~because of the Executive Order. In 2006, John Doe #2's uncle and cousin were killed in Iraq, after~~ 28

1 ~~which he also received threats. Three days after his uncle and cousin were killed, John Doe #2~~
2 ~~fled to Syria, where he lived for three years. Because he continued to feel threatened in Syria,~~
3 ~~John Doe #2 applied for refugee status in 2007, was approved in 2009, and arrived in the United~~
4 ~~States in August 2009.~~

5 135. ~~In March 2015, Plaintiff John Doe #2 filed a petition for family based immigration~~
6 ~~visas for his parents, still in Iraq, so they could join him and his family in the United States.~~
7 ~~Plaintiff John Doe #2's parents are Iraqi nationals and retired teachers who worked in the United~~
8 ~~States in the 1980s. Plaintiff John Doe #2's parents had an immigration interview at the U.S.~~
9 ~~Embassy in Baghdad in September 2016, and their visas were subsequently approved, although~~ 10 ~~the visas have not yet been issued. As of December 2016, the embassy told John Doe #2 that his~~
11 ~~parents' applications were still being processed.~~

12 136. ~~Expecting to be allowed to join Plaintiff John Doe #2 in the United States in early 2017,~~
13 ~~John Doe #2's parents sold their furniture and prepared for their move. When they learned about~~
14 ~~the Executive Order, they realized that the travel ban would prevent them from joining their son~~
15 ~~and his family in the United States.~~

16 137. ~~Plaintiff John Doe #2's parents continue to face threats and harassment in Iraq. His~~ 17 ~~parents are moving between the houses of various friends and relatives to ensure they are not~~
18 ~~targeted. John Doe #2 is unable to return to Iraq to see his parents for fear of putting himself, his~~
19 ~~family in Iraq, or his wife and children in danger. Leaving the United States also puts John Doe~~
20 ~~#2 in danger of not being able to return because of the Executive Order.~~

21 138.184. Plaintiff John Doe #3, a lawful permanent resident, has suffered and will 22 continue to suffer harm because of the Executive Order. John Doe #3 recently applied to become
23 a naturalized citizen, and that petition remains pending with USCIS. ~~Should the Executive Order~~
26
27
28

1 ~~be fully implemented, the processing of that petition, and therefore John Doe #3's naturalization,~~
2 ~~will be delayed.~~

3 ~~139.185.~~ In the summer of 2014, John Doe #3 married a national of Iran. In October
4 2014, John Doe #3 applied for an immigration visa on her behalf. Approximately 19 months later,
5 in May 2016, she had her interview at the U.S. Embassy. At that time, she was informed that her 6 documentation was complete and she needed to wait for administrative processing, but that she
7 should be able to join her husband in two to three months. She therefore resigned from her job
8 and began preparing to join her husband in the United States. The Executive Order, however, puts 9 the couple's plans in peril, as it has at least delayed, and could prevent, John Doe #3's wife from 10 obtaining her visa and joining her husband in United States.

12 ~~140.186.~~ Since moving to the United States, John Doe #3 has returned to Iran on several
13 occasions to visit his wife, but is now fearful of leaving the United States. He had planned to visit
14 her in February 2017, but put his plans on hold in light of the Executive Order. John Doe #3 is 15 afraid that if he leaves the United States to see his wife, he will not be permitted to reenter the 16 United States or could be detained by immigration officials at the airport upon his return. As a
17 result, if John Doe #3 must leave the United States to visit Iran for an urgent family member, he 18 feels he must make plans for his apartment, car, savings account, and other aspects of his personal 19 life in the United States in order to prepare for the possibility that he may not be allowed to return.

21 ~~187.~~ ~~The~~ Their continued separation has placed extraordinary stress on John Doe #3 and his 22 wife, and their relationship. John Doe #3 and his wife are young and feel as though they've been 23 unable to start their lives together because of the delays and uncertainty caused by the Executive
24 Order ~~marginalizes the Individual.~~

26 ~~188.~~ Plaintiff Jane Doe #2, a U.S. citizen, has suffered and will continue to suffer harm
27 because of the Executive Order. She is enrolled in a local college where she is studying to become 28

1 a healthcare technician. She filed a family-based visa petition for her sister who is a Syrian refugee
2 currently living in Saudi Arabia on the border with Yemen. The petition is currently pending a
3 decision. Approval of the petition would allow Jane Doe #2's sister to access the U.S. Refugee 4 Admissions Program (USRAP).

5 189. Jane Doe #2's sister, who is Muslim, was born in Damascus, Syria, where she grew up
6 and spent most of her life. She worked as a French teacher and her husband was a sales manager
7 at a local business. They have two young children. In 2012, continuous bombing of her
8 neighborhood forced her and her family to move to her parent-in-laws with nothing more than 9 their passports and the clothes on their backs. The bombing of her neighborhood continued and 10 she was never able to re-enter her home.

11
12 190. While internally displaced in Syria, Jane Doe #2's sister and husband learned that the 13 Syrian government's selective service might be expanded to include men over the age of 30, which 14 would include her husband. After some of her husband's friends were conscripted for the selective
15 service, they determined that he should flee immediately to Yemen. Because Jane Doe #2's sister
16 was a government employee, she was required to apply for government approval before stopping
17 work and could not flee with him immediately. As a result, she and her oldest child remained in 18 Syria—at the time she was pregnant with their youngest child. When, in 2013, she finally received
19 government approval to discontinue work, she and her child fled to join her husband in Yemen. In 20 Yemen, she registered with the U.N High Commissioner for Refugees, which provided her with a 21 temporary protection certificate explaining that she should be protected from forcible return to

24
25 191. As a result of the war in Yemen, Jane Doe #2's sister and her family had to flee again,
26 this time to Saudi Arabia, where they now live in a refugee hotel close to the border of Yemen.
27 They remain under constant threat from nearby rocket fire and military conflict. The shelling
28

1 where they currently live is so constant that the local school is only open one to two days per week,
2 if at all. Jane Doe #2's children are unable to go to school and are receiving no formal education.

3 192. The building where Jane Doe #2's family is living is infested with bugs and human
4 refuse from the bathroom in the unit above theirs leaks into their room. Jane Doe #2 and her family,
5 are constantly sick and her children regularly vomit. The Saudi Arabian government is also
6 regularly turning off the power to the building there they live with other refugees in order to make
7 life so intolerable that they will leave.

9 193. Jane Doe #2's sister and her family also face sever discrimination in Saudi Arabia on 10 account of their status as Syrian refugees. Her husband has had a very difficult time finding work
11 and even when he can work, he is often cheated out of his wages and otherwise exploited. Jane
12 Doe #2's sister is unable to leave the apartment where they are staying in the daytime because 13 without being accompanied by her husband, the risk that she would be abducted as a Syrian refugee
14 woman is too high. As a result, her children did not believe that the sun rose and set in Saudi 15 Arabia because the room that they are staying in does not have any windows and they only left the 16 room at night when Jane Doe #2's husband could accompany them.

18 194. As Syrian refugees, Jane Doe #2's sister and her family are eligible and qualify for the 19 Priority-2 Direct Access Program for Iraqi and Syrian Beneficiaries of Form I-130 Petition for 20 Alien Relatives. If the Executive Order remains in effect, Jane Doe #2's sister will not be 21 interviewed or granted a visa. Moreover, she will have little chance of traveling to the United 22 States as a refugee given the suspension of USRAP, the high likelihood that Syrian refugees will 23 continued to be barred from entry to the United States, and the lowered refugee admissions cap of 24 50,000.

26 195. Plaintiff Meteab, a lawful permanent resident, has also suffered and will continue to 27 suffer harm because of the Executive Order. After the U.S. invasion of Iraq in 2003, Mr. Meteab
28

1 and his four brothers all cooperated with the U.S. military in helping to establish the transitional
2 government, in the wake of the conflict in Najaf, Iraq. Because of their cooperation with the U.S.
3 government, they were targeted and threatened by armed militia groups in Iraq.

4 196. Mr. Meteab is a Sunni Muslim, as are his brothers. In Iraq, they lived together in a Shi'a
5 neighborhood. In 2013, Mr. Meteab and his family were warned by neighbors and community
6 members that if they failed to leave the area, their family would be killed. In 2013, Mr. Meteab's
7 nephew Mosad was shot in the leg. After this, on December 25, 2013, Plaintiff Meteab's older
8 brother fled to Jordan with his children and two of his nephews, including Mosad. Plaintiff Meteab
9 and his wife and children joined them in Jordan on January 5, 2014. Plaintiff Meteab's three other
10 brothers also fled to Jordan in 2014. All of them applied for and received recognition as refugees
11 from the United Nations High Commission for Refugees.

13 197. In August 2015, after being approved as a refugee, Plaintiff Meteab came to the United 14 States with his wife and children. His three other brothers, Ali, Abdulateef, and Ahmed, have been 15 approved as refugees but remain in Jordan awaiting resettlement,. Abdulateef was approved for 16 resettlement in Canada but is awaiting final clearance. Mr. Meteab's brothers Ali and Ahmed, were 17 approved for resettlement in the United States.

19 198. In November 2016, Plaintiff Meteab's brothers Ali and Ahmed were told by the 20 International Organization for Migration that while their refugee applications had been approved,
21 they still did not have travel documents to come to the United States. Jewish Family Services
22 notified Plaintiff Meteab's family of this update at the same time. When Mr. Meteab's brothers
23 learned about the Executive Order from the news in January 2017, they realized the travel ban
24 would prevent them from joining him in the United States.

26 199. Since the January 27th Executive Order was released, Mr. Meteab and his wife have 27 experienced anti-Muslim sentiment and felt very uncomfortable and insecure in their community,
28

1 causing them acute mental stress. They have experienced hostility in public, with people staring at 2 Mr. Meteab's wife, who wears a hijab, and refusing to stop for them at crosswalks. Their nieces,
3 who also came to the United States as refugees, have been harassed in school.

4 200. Plaintiff Harrison has suffered and will continue to suffer harm as a result of the 5 Executive Order. Mr. Harrison is a citizen of the United States and lives in Euless, Texas. His 6 fiancé is a citizen and resident of Iran and is Muslim. They have been together since November 7 2015.

9 201. In March 2016, Plaintiff Harrison petitioned for a K-1 (fiancé) visa for his partner
10 (now-fiancé) . After the petition was approved, Plaintiff Harrison's partner was interviewed at the 11 U.S. Embassy in Ankara, Turkey on November 7, 2016. His K-1 visa application was approved
12 and administrative processing completed on January 17, 2017. The U.S. Embassy in Ankara
13 informed Mr. Harrison's partner that he needed to submit his passport for the visa to be issued.

14 202. On January 30, 2017, after the January 27 Order was signed, the U.S. Embassy in 15 Turkey emailed Plaintiff Harrison's fiancé and explained that his visa process was on hold and 16 that he should contact them again when the travel ban had been lifted to continue the processing 17 of his visa.

19 203. Subsequently on on February 7, 2017, the U.S. Embassy in Turkey sent a follow-up
20 email to Plaintiff Harrison's fiancé, stating that the embassy had been informed of the ruling in 21 Washington v. Trump and that he should send in his passport to the U.S. Embassy in Ankara, 22 Turkey.

24 204. On March 3, 2017, Plaintiff Harrison and his fiancé traveled again to Turkey to submit 25 the passport and to see one another. On March 6, 2017, the new executive order was announced.
26 As the embassy has not provided additional information or told Plaintiff Harrison's fiancé that 27 they are no longer processing visas, they submitted his passport on March 8, 2017. They fear the 28

1 U.S. Embassy in Ankara will not issue the visa before March 16. Even if there is a waiver process
2 might apply to his fiancé, Mr. Harrison is concerned he may not receive the waiver and/or that his 3 fiancé may be required to start the entire process over, resulting in prolonged separation and 4 anxiety for both of them.

5 205. If the Executive Order remains in effect, Plaintiff Harrison and his partner will remain
6 separated. Mr. Harrison cannot currently travel to Iran, which has put in place a reciprocal ban on 7 U.S. citizen visitors, and the travel to Turkey to see one another is a significant financial burden
8 for Mr. Harrison. Moreover, Plaintiff Harrison's partner has had some negative interactions with 9 the morality police in Iran, leading to harassment and, in one instance, an assault on Mr. Harrison's 10 partner.

11 206. Plaintiff Ibrahim Ahmed Mohomed has suffered and will continue to suffer harm as a
12 result of the Executive Order. Mr. Mohomed is a United States citizen of Somali origin who lives
13 in Columbus, Ohio. He came to the United States as a refugee in 2009. He is Muslim.

14 207. Mr. Mohomed's wife and nine children have been approved to come to the United 15 States as refugees. They are all in Ethiopia waiting for authorization to travel to the United States.

16 208. Plaintiff Mohomed is a member of a minority clan in Somalia. When he and his family
17 were living in Mogadishu, Mr. Mohomed was targeted and threatened by members of the majority
18 clans in Mogadishu, who knew he did not have protection. He came to the United States as a
19 refugee in March 2009.

20 209. With the rise of insurgents from al-Shabaab and increased fighting in Mogadishu, after 21 Mr. Mohomed's departure, his wife and children fled first to Yemen and then, in 2011, to Ethiopia,
22 where Mr. Mohomed was able to visit them. He applied for them to join him in the United States,
23 and in 2013, they were approved for resettlement in the United States. However, they were still 24 waiting for travel documents when the January 27 order was issued.

1 210. After the January 27 order was signed, Mr. Mohamed and his family learned from the
2 news that under the new Executive Order, his family would not be able to come to the United
3 States. They remain in Ethiopia waiting to join Mr. Mohamed.

4 141:211. The Executive Orders conveys an official message of disapproval and hostility
5 toward the individual Muslim Plaintiffs and their families, and making clear that the government
6 deems them outsiders or second-class citizens who are not full members of the political 7 community. This marginalizes them, subjects them to ~~baseless~~ suspicion, scrutiny, and social and 8 political isolation on the basis of religion and national origin, and inflicts other stigmatic and 9 dignitary injuries.
10

11 Class Allegations

12 142:212. Individual Plaintiffs bring this action as a class action pursuant to Federal Rule
13 of Civil Procedure 23(b) (1) and (b) (2), on behalf of themselves and all other persons in the United 14 States for whom the Executive Order either interferes with family reunification or the ability to
16

- 17 a. Individuals in the United States who currently have an approved or pending petition to 18 the United States government to be reunited with family members who are nationals of 19 Iran, ~~Iraq~~, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria or Yemen (the “Designated Countries”), or 20 who will soon file such petition;
- 21 b. Refugees in the United States who have currently pending, or will soon file, a petition 22 to the United States government to be reunited with family members; and
- 23 c. Nationals of the Designated Countries who reside in the United States and who wish to 24 travel abroad and return to United States or who, prior to issuance of the Executive 25 Order, did travel abroad with the intent to return and are currently abroad.
26
28

1 ~~143.213.~~ The Plaintiff Class is so numerous that joinder is impracticable. According to
2 the Annual Report of the Visa Office, in 2015, the last year for which data are available, the United
3 States issued approximately ~~8570~~,000 immigrant and non-immigrant visas to nationals from the 4 ~~sevensix~~ Designated Countries. The U.S. government ~~has~~previously estimated that between 5 60,000 and 100,000 people ~~are~~were affected by Section ~~53(c)~~ of the ~~Executive~~January 27 Order.

6 ~~144.214.~~ The claims of the Plaintiff Class members share common issues of law,
7 including but not limited to whether the Executive Order violates their associational, religious
8 exercise and due process rights under the First and Fifth Amendments, the Religious Freedom
9 Restoration Act, the Immigration and Nationality Act and the Administrative Procedure Act.

10 ~~145.215.~~ The claims of the Plaintiff Class members share common issues of fact,
11 including but not limited to whether the Executive Order is being or will be enforced so as to 12 prevent them or their family members from entering the United States from abroad or from re-
13 entering the United States should they choose to leave the United States briefly, even though they 14 would otherwise be admissible.

15 ~~146.216.~~ The claims or defenses of the named Plaintiffs are typical of the claims or 16 defenses of members of the Plaintiff Class.

17 ~~147.217.~~ The named Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the 18 Plaintiff class. The named Plaintiffs have no interest that is now or may be potentially antagonistic
19 to the interests of the Plaintiff class. The attorneys representing the named Plaintiffs include
20 experienced civil rights attorneys who are considered able practitioners in federal constitutional
21 litigation. These attorneys should be appointed as class counsel.

22 ~~148.218.~~ Defendants have acted, have threatened to act, and will act on grounds generally
23 applicable to the Plaintiff Class, thereby making final injunctive and declaratory relief appropriate
24

1 to the class as a whole. The Plaintiff Class may therefore be properly certified under ~~Fed. R. Civ.~~
2 ~~P.Federal Rule of Civil Procedure~~ 23(b) (2).

3 ~~149.219.~~ Prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Plaintiff Class
4 would create the risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications and would establish incompatible
5 standards of conduct for individual members of the Plaintiff Class. The Plaintiff Class may 6 therefore be properly certified under ~~Fed. R. Civ. P.Federal Rule of Civil Procedure~~ 23(b)(1).

8 FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF 9 (Establishment Clause, First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution)

10 ~~150.220.~~ The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth
11 herein.

12 ~~151.221.~~ The Executive Order violates the Establishment Clause by singling out Muslims
13 for disfavored treatment ~~and granting special preferences to non-Muslims. It. It has the purpose~~
14 ~~and effect of inhibiting religion, and it~~ is neither justified by, nor closely fitted to, any compelling
15 governmental interest.

16 ~~152. In addition, Sections 5(b) and 5(e) of the Executive Order discriminate between~~ 17 ~~“minority religions” and majority religions, explicitly granting official preference to foreign~~
18 ~~adherents of minority faiths in the refugee application process. This express preference is neither~~
19 ~~justified by, nor closely fitted to, any compelling governmental interest.~~

20 SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF 21 (Equal Protection, Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution)

22 ~~153.222.~~ The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth
23 herein.

1 ~~154.223.~~ The Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution
2 provides that “No person shall . . . be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of 3 law.” The Clause contains an equal protection component.

4 ~~155.224.~~ The Executive Order discriminates on the basis of religion and national origin,
5 each a suspect classification, and is not narrowly tailored to serve a compelling governmental
6 interest, and thereby violates the equal protection component of the Due Process Clause.

7 ~~156.225.~~ Additionally, the Executive Order was substantially motivated by an intent to 8 discriminate against Muslims, on whom it has a disparate effect, in further violation of the equal
9 protection component of the Due Process Clause.

12 THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF
13 (Immigration and Nationality Act & Administrative Procedure Act)

14 ~~157.226.~~ The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth
15 herein.

16 ~~158.227.~~ The Immigration and Nationality Act provides, with certain exceptions not 17 applicable here, that “no person shall receive any preference or priority or be discriminated against 18 in the issuance of an immigrant visa because of the person’s race, sex, nationality, place of birth, 19 or place of residence.” 8 U.S.C. § 1152(a)(1)(A).

20 ~~159.228.~~ Several clients of IRAP are otherwise eligible and approved for refugee status,
21 but pursuant to the Executive Order, their entry to the United States will be denied or delayed. The 22 Executive Order on its face purports to deny entry to these clients of IRAP because of their 23 nationality, place of birth, and/or place of residence, in violation of § 1152(a)(1)(A).

24 ~~160.229.~~ Plaintiffs ~~Fakaloo, Harrison, Mohamed, Jane Doe #2~~ and John Does #1 ~~through~~ 25 ~~#4,~~ and ~~Jane Doe #1#3~~ have filed petitions for immigrant visas for members of their families, some 26 of whom have subsequently received visas. Plaintiff Mohamed’s wife and nine children’s refugee 27

1 visa applications have been approved, but they have not received travel documents or had their
2 travel scheduled. Plaintiff Harrison's fiancé's visa has been approved and the processing complete
3 but he still does not have a visa issued. Pursuant to the Executive Order, the processing of those
4 petitions and/or the subsequent issuance of visas and travel documents will be delayed or denied,
5 and/or their family members with facially valid visas will be denied entry. The Executive Order
6 on its face purports to deny or delay these applications because Plaintiffs' petitions for their family
7 members to receive immigrant visas and/or to use previously issued, facially valid immigrant visas
8 because of their members' nationality, place of birth, and/or place of residence, in violation of § 9 1152(a)(1)(A).

11 161.230. The Executive Order on its face mandates discrimination against those who
12 apply for and/or hold immigrant visas on the basis of their nationality, place of birth, and/or place
13 of residence, in violation of § 1152(a)(1)(A).

14 162.231. The actions of Defendants, as set forth above, constitute final agency action and 15 are arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law; contrary
16 to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity; in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, 17 or limitations, or short of statutory right; and without observance of procedure required by law, in 18 violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. §§ 706(2)(A)-(D).

20 FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
21 (Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb et seq.)

22 163.232. The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth
23 herein.

24 164.233. The Executive Order will have the effect of imposing a special disability on the 25 basis of religious views or religious status, by denying or impeding Muslim Plaintiffs, on account
26 of their religion, from accessing benefits relating to their own or their family members'
27 immigration status. In doing so, the Executive Order places a substantial burden on Muslims'
28

1 exercise of religion in a way that is not the least restrictive means of furthering a compelling
2 governmental interest.

3 ~~165.234.~~ This substantial burden is not imposed in furtherance of a compelling
4 governmental interest, and is not the least restrictive means of furthering a compelling
5 governmental interest, in violation of the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb 6 et seq.

9 (Refugee Act & Administrative Procedure Act)

10 ~~166.235.~~ The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth
11 herein.

12 ~~167.236. Pursuant to the President's congressionally delegated authority under 8~~
13 ~~U.S.C. § 1182(f), the~~ Executive Order purports to limit the number of refugees who may be
14 admitted in fiscal year 2017 to 50,000, despite an earlier proclamation setting a limit of 110,000,
15 in violation of the Refugee Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1157(a)(2).

16 ~~168. The Executive Order purports to alter the prior allocation of refugee admissions for~~
17 ~~fiscal year 2017 by indefinitely prohibiting "the entry of nationals of Syria as refugees," in~~
18 ~~violation of the Refugee Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1157(a)(3).~~

19 ~~169.237.~~ President Trump did not engage in "appropriate consultation" prior to altering
20 the number and allocation of refugee admissions for fiscal year 2017, in violation of the Refugee 21 Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1157(a)(3).

22 ~~170. The Executive Order's preference for Christian refugees in the resettlement process,~~
23 ~~and the disfavoring of Muslim and Syrian refugees, violate the congressional mandate that refugee~~
24 ~~resettlement services "shall be provided to refugees without regard to race, religion, nationality,~~
25 ~~sex, or political opinion." 8 U.S.C. § 1522(a)(5).~~
26
28

1 171:238. The Executive Order makes other alterations to the refugee admission process
2 that are not authorized by the Refugee Act and are in violation of the Refugee Act.

3 172:239. The actions of Defendants that ~~are required or permitted by~~ have been
4 undertaken pursuant to Section 56 of the ~~EO~~ Executive Order, as set forth above, constitute final 5 agency action and are arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance 6 with law; contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity; in excess of statutory 7 jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right; and without observance of 8 procedure required by law, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. §§
9 706(2)(A)-(D).

12 (Administrative Procedure Act)

13 173:240. The foregoing allegations are repeated and incorporated as though fully set forth
14 herein.

15 174:241. The actions of Defendants that are required or permitted by the Executive Order, 16 as set forth above, are arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance 17 with law, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A).

18 175:242. The actions of Defendants that are required or permitted by the Executive Order,
19 as set forth above, are contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity, including 20 rights protected by the First and Fifth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution, in violation of the 21 Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(B).

23 176:243. The actions of Defendants that are required or permitted by the Executive Order,
24 as set forth above, are in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of 25 statutory right, in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(C).
26

2 as set forth above, were without observance of procedure required by law, in violation of the 3 Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(D).

4 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

5 WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for the following relief:

10 B. A declaration pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2201 that the entire Executive Order is unlawful 11 and invalid;

12 C. An order awarding Plaintiffs costs of suit, and reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses
13 pursuant to any applicable law;

14 D. Such other and further relief as the Court deems equitable, just, and proper.
