INTRODUCTION

2 The COVID-19 pandemic has upended the nation, sickening over a million 3 people, killing tens of thousands, and sending most Americans into isolation to avoid 4 infection. People confined in the close quarters of jails, however, face a particularly 5 high risk of infection unless corrections officials take reasonable and available steps 6 to protect them. Orange County and its Sheriff have foregone critical measures 7 recommended by the CDC for correctional facilities, putting thousands of vulnerable 8 people in the Orange County Jail (“Jail”) at imminent risk of infection and death.
9 All of the named Plaintiffs fear that they will fall gravely ill and may die. In Mr.
10 Wagner’s words, “I don’t want to get a life sentence by catching the virus and 11 dying.”<sup>1</sup>

12 Defendants have put everyone in the Jail at risk—particularly the Medically-13 Vulnerable and Disability Subclasses—by failing to consistently or fully implement 14 necessary and feasible public health protections in the Jail. As of this filing, 259
15 people in the Jail have confirmed positive for COVID-19, out of 738 tests, and 159
16 results are still pending.<sup>2</sup> The number of positive tests has doubled in a week’s time.<sup>3</sup> 17 With nearly 3,000 detained people in the Jail, the true number of people infected is 18 likely much higher and will keep growing.<sup>4</sup> The growing infection creates an 19 enormous risk, not just to those within the jail, but also to the surrounding Orange 20 County community, by contributing to the rapid spread of COVID-19 and creating 21 a debilitating burden on its healthcare delivery system.<sup>5</sup>

26 <sup>4</sup> Exhibit C, Parker Decl. ¶ 23.

27 <sup>5</sup> Id. ¶ 24.

1 The confinement of people under these life-threatening conditions violates the 2 Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution, as well as the 3 Americans with Disabilities Act (“ADA”) and the Rehabilitation Act. Only urgent 4 action can remedy these serious violations that will lead to mass infection, 5 complications, and even death of people in the Jail. Plaintiffs thus respectfully ask 6 the Court to consider this Petition on an emergency basis, grant immediate releases 7 for members of the Medically-Vulnerable and Disability Subclasses, and order the 8 development of a plan to prevent further spread of COVID-19 within the Jail.

9 I. THE FACTS THAT NECESSITATE THIS PETITION

10 The Jail is the midst of a serious outbreak of COVID-19 with the number of 11 COVID cases increasing exponentially. Without immediate intervention, the 12 outbreak will continue to escalate, threatening the lives of detained persons within 13 the Jail, corrections and medical staff at the Jail, and the surrounding community.<sup>6</sup>

14 Once introduced into a jail, COVID-19 spreads quickly among those inside.
15 Jails are hotbeds for spread of COVID-19 because of: many people living in a 16 closed space; shared ventilation; common food preparation space; communal 17 living/bathing/toileting/eating; limited medical facilities; and limited ability to 18 leave the facility when symptomatic or after potential exposure to the virus.<sup>7</sup> 19 Moreover, jails are not closed environments; members of the community, 20 including both staff and incarcerated people, regularly move in and out of the 21 facility bringing illnesses with them into the jail or, after infection inside, out to 22

1 the community.<sup>8</sup> Numerous public health experts recommend that jails downsize 2 to reduce the risk of infection.<sup>9</sup> And courts around the country have responded to 3 the serious risk to people confined in jails with inadequate protections by ordering 4 their release and by requiring jails to implement measures to reduce the spread of 5 COVID-19 within the jails.<sup>10</sup>

16 Council issued an emergency order on April 6th that took several measures to reduce 17 jail populations, including adopting a statewide Emergency Bail Schedule that 18 reduced bail to $0 for certain offenses. See Judicial Council of Cal., Judicial Branch 19 Administration: Emergency Rules in Response to the COVID-19 Pandemic (April 20 6, 2020), available at

Additionally, it is imperative that Defendants take further action to reduce the Jail population given that Plaintiffs' court dates have been postponed for unspecified periods of time while the courts are operating on a limited basis during the ongoing pandemic.

3 Mar. 30, 2020). Defendants recognize that persons who are medically vulnerable 4 are at heightened risk, and adopted a policy of granting releases to some sentenced 5 persons with medical vulnerabilities. But Defendants have arbitrarily limited 6 those releases to only those individuals who are within 60 days of the end date of 7 their jail sentences, and then applied vague public safety criteria to whether to 8 release even that category of individuals. Defendants refuse to even consider 9 release of Medically Vulnerable individuals held on violations of probation or 10 parole (including technical violations). According to Defendants' list of all 11 persons in the jail who are medically vulnerable to a COVID infection, there are 12 488 medically vulnerable people currently held in the Jail.

13 Defendants must take further measures to stop the spread of the disease—14 not only to protect people in the Jail from harm, but also to prevent a major 15 outbreak that would overwhelm community medical resources.<sup>13</sup> The CDC has 16 announced several guidelines for prison and jails to limit the spread of COVID-17 19.<sup>14</sup> Quarantining is critical, for 14 days after intake and for symptomatic 18 individuals and their close contacts. Additionally, social distancing (requiring all 19 people to stay a minimum of six feet away from one another), frequent hand 20 washing with soap, and frequently cleaning and disinfecting shared surfaces are 21 essential to reducing the spread of the virus.<sup>15</sup> Testing is another important

1 component, enabling jail officials to know who is infected so they can be 2 quarantined from the general population.

3 Defendants have failed to appropriately implement these safeguards.
4 Defendants nonetheless assert that they are taking all necessary steps to protect 5 people in the jail from COVID-19, and have made a number of factual 6 representations to Plaintiffs about these alleged steps—some of which are 7 extremely recent, only after Plaintiffs filed the complaint.<sup>16</sup> However, the actual 8 practices in the jail continue to be dangerous:

- 9 • Failure to Quarantine: Defendants have not uniformly quarantined new 10 arrivals at the Jail<sup>17</sup>; and even when they do quarantine people, they place 11 many in unreasonably risky conditions. The Jail quarantines the close contacts 12 of confirmed COVID-19 cases in cohorts—a practice that is discouraged by 13 the CDC because it places uninfected individuals at risk.<sup>18</sup> The Jail also 14 defeats the purpose of quarantines by mixing cohorts with each other.<sup>19</sup> In the 15 case of at least one of these quarantines, the Jail’s ineffective quarantine 16 practices may have contributed to a major cluster of infections.<sup>20</sup>

18 19 <sup>16</sup> For example, on May 7, Defendants amended their list of screening questions for

- 1 • Lack of Social Distancing: In non-quarantined housing units at the Jail, 2 Defendants have not implemented procedures to allow Plaintiffs and putative 3 class members to socially distance from other people. Many people are in 4 cells with as many as eight people to a cell.<sup>21</sup> In some barracks, Defendants 5 have increased the density by adding several new individuals in recent days.<sup>22</sup> 6 Plaintiffs and putative class members have constant, forced contact with many 7 others who may have been exposed to COVID-19.<sup>23</sup> People are forced to eat 8 together, shower together, and to share common laundry and medicine 9 delivery. Defendants frequently move people around the jail, increasing their 10 potential exposures.<sup>24</sup>

- 1       • Inadequate Hygiene: The Jail fails to provide sufficient hygiene and 2 cleaning supplies at no cost to the detainees, providing 1-2 single use bars of 3 soap once a week that barely last one day. This is not enough soap to wash 4 their hands regularly and clean themselves. Although Defendants represent 5 they have posted signs throughout the jail stating that detainees could request 6 more hand soap (and Plaintiffs confirmed that these signs were newly posted 7 in multiple units at the end of last week), this has not translated to more soap 8 being provided in practice. When Plaintiffs requested the soap, deputies 9 refused to provide it.<sup>25</sup> Defendants also provide flimsy, improvised masks that 10 they must reuse for days and weeks without washing.<sup>26</sup> Defendants task 11 detainees with cleaning the cells vacated by other individuals who have 12 confirmed cases of COVID-19. Detainees are forced to carry out this high-13 risk cleaning task without protective equipment like gloves or gowns.<sup>27</sup>

- 1       • Failure to Disinfect: The Jail does not properly disinfect high touch surfaces 2       to prevent the spread of the virus. Incarcerated people themselves are 3       responsible for cleaning the pods, including the toilets and showers, but the 4       Jail does not provide sufficient cleaning supplies.<sup>28</sup> Multiple declarants have 5       testified that incarcerated workers are provided watered-down cleaning 6       supplies or “dirty mop water,” instead of disinfectant to clean the showers and 7       common rooms.<sup>29</sup> Defendants have not contested this except as to quarantine 8       and medical isolation units.
- 9       • Inadequate Testing and Isolation Practices: Despite California’s directive 10      prioritizing testing in jails, the Jail has failed to test or isolate detainees who 11      have COVID-19 symptoms, and until very recently, only a limited number 12      of detained individuals have been tested in the Jail.<sup>30</sup> These testing practices 13      are plainly inadequate as they expose presumptively healthy detainees to 14      others with illness.<sup>31</sup> Even when symptomatic individuals are tested, they 15      remain in the current housing units and are only moved to isolation after a 16      positive test result, contrary to public health guidance.<sup>32</sup>

1 unnecessarily exposed to and potentially dying from COVID-19. Plaintiffs meet all 2 the requirements for injunctive relief because they are (1) likely to succeed on the 3 merits, (2) will suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief, (3) the 4 balance of equities tips in their favor, and (4) an injunction is in the public interest.
5 Winter v. Natural Res. Def. Council, 555 U.S. 7, 20 (2008).

6 A. Plaintiffs Are Likely To Prevail On The Merits Of Their 7 Constitutional And ADA Claims.

8 Defendants' response to the dangerous conditions in the Jail is so deficient 9 that it violates Plaintiffs' rights under the Fourteenth Amendment, Eighth 10 Amendment, and the ADA and Rehabilitation Act. Each violation independently 11 satisfies a showing of likelihood of success on the merits. Here, Plaintiffs can 12 demonstrate that they will succeed under multiple theories.

13 1. Defendants Have Violated Plaintiffs' Constitutional Rights
14 To Protection From The Risks Of This Highly Contagious
15 Disease.

16 Due to the conditions in the Jail, Plaintiffs could become ill or die, and 17 defendants' failure to take appropriate precautions to protect both Plaintiffs who are 18 sentenced and pretrial detainees, violates their rights under the Eighth Amendment 19 and the Fourteenth Amendment. See Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 104 (1976)
20 (Eighth Amendment); Bell v. Wolfish, 441 U.S. 520, 535 & n.16 (1979) (pretrial 21 detainees retain greater protections than convicted counterparts).

22 The only defense Class Members have against this novel, deadly disease is for 23 the Jail to implement all CDC guidelines and reduce populations to the level that 24 will allow for social distancing. And Defendants have been unwilling or unable to 25 do so. Defendants' failure to release those members of the Medically Vulnerable 26 and Disability Subclasses whose release would not pose a danger to others creates 27 an untenable risk of serious injury and death. See Wilson v. Williams, 2020 WL

3 indifference, where despite some proactive measures by Defendants, the prisoners

6 COVID-19 is “a global crisis” that heightens the risk for those in jails, one of 7 “the most vulnerable groups among us.” Rose v. Baker, No. 17-15009, Dkt. 54 at 2

14 <sup>36</sup> Plaintiffs have exhausted available administrative remedies under the Jail’s 15 official grievance process. See OCS D, Inmate/Detainee Grievance Procedure, § 16 1600.5.1 (undated). Plaintiffs filed emergency grievances requesting release or, 17 alternatively, provision of adequate sanitation supplies, personal protective 18 equipment, and space to be able to maintain at least 6 feet of distance from other 19 people. Several of the Plaintiffs received verbal denials of their grievances which 20 deputies informed them were not logged as grievances in the Jail’s system and were 21 not assigned a Jail Incident Number; because the grievance procedure instructs that 22 appeals can only be processed if they include the original grievance’s Jail Incident 23 Number, these Plaintiffs have no other remedies available to them. See Exhibit CC, 24 Ortiz Grievance Decl.; Exhibit DD, Seif Grievance Decl.; Exhibit EE Esparza
25 Grievance Decl.; Exhibit FF, Bonilla Grievance Decl.; Exhibit GG, Wagner
26 Grievance Decl.; see also Exhibit HH, Herrera Grievance Decl. One Plaintiff 27 submitted a grievance that did not receive any response before his mental health received a response. See Exhibit JJ, Trace May 4, 2020 Grievance Decl.; Exhibit KK, Trace May 5, 2020 Grievance Decl.; Exhibit LL Campbell Appeal Decl.;

Plaintiffs have exhausted the available administrative remedies. *See Andres v.
Marshall*, 867 F.3d 1076, 1078 (9th Cir. 2017) (holding that where prison officials improperly failed to process timely filed grievance, plaintiff exhausted available remedies).

4 Defendants are well aware of the risks posed by COVID-19 infections. Those 5 risks are “obvious” to anyone living in California, which has been under a state of 6 emergency since March 4, 2020 and under shelter-in-place orders since March 19, 7 2020.<sup>37</sup> Sheriff Barnes has repeatedly been warned of these risks, including by his 8 own deputies.<sup>38</sup> Despite these warnings, Defendants have not taken sufficient steps 9 to curb the spread of disease, such as providing adequate amounts of soap, 10 decreasing contact between detainees, and adopting effective practices to disinfect 11 shared surfaces.<sup>39</sup>

12 The Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments require that Defendants take action 13 to protect people in their custody from communicable diseases. Putting confined 14 persons at risk of disease is a sufficiently cruel and “unsafe, life-threatening 15 condition” such that it can constitute “cruel and unusual punishment” under the 28 that “defendants are ignoring or approving the alleged lapses in enforcement of social-distancing policies,” plaintiffs did not satisfy the subjective prong of deliberate indifference. See Swain v. Junior, No. 20-11622-C, 2020 WL 2161317, at *5 (11th Cir. May 5, 2020). The Swain decision conflicts with controlling Ninth Circuit case law. For pre-trial detainees, subjective knowledge or intent is not required. Gordon, 888 F.3d at 1124-25. For sentenced prisoners, the subjective prong of deliberate indifference requires two parts: (1) that prison officials were 18 equally if not more likely to succeed under the Fourteenth Amendment. See id. at 20           Defendants’ actions fall far short of the constitutional requirements by failing 21 to protect detainees from unnecessary exposure to this potentially deadly virus.

22 Defendants’ duty requires that they protect the detainees in the Jail from the risk of 24 either subjectively aware of the risk to people in custody or it was “obvious” to them, 25 and (2) the officials lacked a reasonable justification for exposing the people to that 26 risk. Lemire, 726 F.3d at 1078. In this case, Defendants are clearly aware of the risks 27 of harm, and—whatever their personal beliefs may be—failed to take reasonable 28 action to abate those risks.

1 contracting this highly communicable disease. Yet Defendants have ignored this 2 duty to Plaintiffs and the Class they seek to represent, who are at serious risk of 3 severe illness or death from COVID-19. Plaintiffs are able to show a strong 4 likelihood of success on the merits on this basis alone.

5 2. Defendants Are Unconstitutionally Punishing Members Of 6 The Pretrial Class.

7 In addition to violating the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendment deliberate 8 indifference standard for all Plaintiffs, Defendants' failure to secure safe conditions 9 constitutes an impermissible punishment for the Pretrial Class. See, e.g., Bell v.
10 Wolfish, 441 U.S. 520, 535 (“[U]nder the Due Process Clause, a detainee may not 11 be punished prior to an adjudication of guilt in accordance with due process of 12 law.”); id. at n.16 (people detained pretrial retain greater protections than convicted 13 counterparts). A jailer's conduct constitutes punishment if it is either not rationally 14 related to a legitimate, nonpunitive government purpose or is excessive in relation 15 to that purpose. Bell, 441 U.S. at 561; Kingsley, 135 S. Ct. at 2473–74; Demery v.
16 Arpaio, 378 F.3d 1020, 1030–33 (9th Cir. 2004).

17 Defendants have no legitimate, nonpunitive purpose to keep pretrial Plaintiffs 18 and the other members of the Pretrial Class under these conditions. Choosing to 19 violate public health guidelines during a global pandemic is not rationally related to 20 goals of health, safety, or even cost efficiency. Because it arbitrarily inflicts harm, 21 courts may infer it is punitive. See Demery, 378 F.3d at 1032 (live webcams in jail 22 are punitive because they are not rationally related to legitimate goals of security or 23 public education).

24 Even if the Jail's failure to follow accepted practices for preventing the spread 25 of COVID-19 had a legitimate, nonpunitive purpose, exposing pretrial detainees to 26 lethal risks is excessive for that purpose. For this reason, the California Judicial 27 Council issued advisories encouraging state courts to increase releases from jails, 28

1 and the California Attorney General has clarified that county sheriffs have full 2 statutory authority to release people from custody in response to the COVID-19 3 emergency.<sup>42</sup>

4 3. Defendants Have Violated The ADA and Rehabilitation Act
5 By Discriminating against the Disability Subclasses.

6 Defendants' actions also violate the ADA and Rehabilitation Act. Title II of 7 the ADA requires that public entities refrain from discriminating against qualified 8 individuals on the basis of a disability. 42 U.S.C. § 12132. Section 504 of the 9 Rehabilitation Act imposes parallel requirements on entities that receive federal 10 financial assistance. See Duvall v. Cty. of Kitsap, 260 F.3d 1124, 1135 (9th Cir.
11 2001). In order to avoid disability discrimination in Jail in this public health 12 emergency, the only reasonable modification and nondiscriminatory method of 13 administration is release of the Disability Subclasses.

14 Plaintiffs and class members in the disability subclasses are protected people 15 with disabilities under the ADA and Section 504. 42 U.S.C. § 12102(1)(A), (2)(B), 16 28 C.F.R. § 35.108(d)(2)(iii). Plaintiffs and class members are "qualified" for 17 Defendants' programs, services, and activities, including adjudication of their cases; 18 safe, constitutional living conditions during confinement; and medical care and 19 rehabilitative services to prepare for reentry after release. 42 U.S.C. § 12131(2); 28

1 entity does”). The Jail is a “public entity” for purposes of the ADA, and is bound to 2 comply with Title II. 42 U.S.C. § 12131(B).

3 Public entities must take affirmative steps to ensure that people with 4 disabilities can participate in all of the entity’s programs, benefits, and services on 5 an equal and equally safe basis as people without disabilities. 28 C.F.R.
6 §§ 35.102(a), 35.130(a), (b); Fraihat, 2020 WL 1932570, at *26-27 (C.D. Ca. Apr.
7 20, 2020); Pierce v. District of Columbia, 128 F. Supp. 3d 250, 266, 269 (D.D.C.
8 2015). These affirmative obligations include making reasonable modifications to 9 their policies, practices, or procedures where necessary to avoid disability 10 discrimination. 28 C.F.R. § 35.130(b)(7)(i). The ADA also prohibits public entities 11 from “utiliz[ing] criteria or methods of administration ... [t]hat have the effect of 12 subjecting qualified individuals with disabilities to discrimination on the basis of 13 disability” or “[t]hat have the purpose or effect of defeating or substantially 14 impairing accomplishment of the objectives of the public entity’s program with 15 respect to individuals with disabilities.” 28 C.F.R. § 35.130(b)(3)(i)-(ii).

16 The Disability Subclasses are entitled to reasonable modifications to ensure 17 they can participate equally and with equal safety in all activities, including the safe 18 adjudication of pretrial detainees’ pending criminal cases, constitutionally-adequate 19 care, medical treatment, and rehabilitative support during confinement. Disability 20 Subclass members cannot access these services if they are severely ill, unconscious, 21 or dead. See Fraihat, 2020 WL 1932570, at *26 (C.D. Ca. Apr. 20, 2020) (disabled 22 people in ICE detention entitled to reasonable accommodations in order to 23 participate in the “programmatic ‘benefit’” of the removal process). Given the fast-24 moving, life-threatening nature of the COVID-19 pandemic, and its disproportionate 25 effect on the Disability Subclasses, immediate release is the only reasonable 26 modification. Defendants’ failure to release the Disability Subclasses violates the 27 ADA and the Rehabilitation Act.

1 Release of the disability subclasses is a reasonable modification and is not a 2 fundamental alteration. Indeed, Defendant Barnes is already engaging in early 3 releases as a result of COVID-19, but his actions have been insufficient to protect 4 all medically vulnerable, disabled people for whom release is especially critical.<sup>43</sup> 5 Cf. Henrietta D. v. Bloomberg, 331 F.3d 261, 281 (2d Cir. 2003). Release is also 6 consistent with the Jail’s purposes, including administratively ensuring pretrial 7 detainees show up for court, and preparing post-conviction detainees for safe, 8 healthy release into their communities.

9 B. Plaintiffs Are Likely To Suffer Irreparable Harm, Including Death, 10 If This Court Does Not Issue The Requested Relief.

11 Plaintiffs are likely to suffer irreparable harm, including death, if they remain 12 incarcerated and Defendants maintain their existing policies and practices. Courts 13 “evaluate these factors via a ‘sliding scale approach,’ such that ‘serious questions 14 going to the merits’ and a balance of hardships that tips sharply towards the plaintiff 15 can support issuance of a preliminary injunction, so long as the plaintiff also shows 16 that there is a likelihood of irreparable injury and that the injunction is in the public 17 interest.” Arc of California v. Douglas, 757 F.3d 975, 983 (9th Cir. 2014) (citations 18 omitted). The nature of the potential risk to Plaintiffs--death--weighs heavily in 19 favor of granting emergency injunctive relief.<sup>44</sup> Further, if Defendants maintain 20 their current practices, COVID-19 will spread further into the Orange County 21 community and possibly more broadly.

22
23

24 <sup>44</sup> Further, courts find that a constitutional violation in itself amounts to an 25 irreparable injury. See Northworthy v. Beard, 87 F.Supp.3d 1164, 1193 (N.D. Cal.
26 2015) (finding the deprivation of a prison inmate’s Eighth Amendment right 27 “sufficient to establish irreparable harm”) (citing Elrod v. Burns, 427 U.S. 347 28 (1976)).

1 Plaintiffs are locked inside an environment that the Defendants have failed to 2 ensure is safe. Defendants have not fully complied with the CDC Guidelines. More 3 detainees test positive each day, and infection rates are increasing exponentially.
4 COVID-19 is highly contagious and potentially deadly; it can also cause severe 5 health effects, including organ failure, even if the patient survives the infection.<sup>45</sup> 6 Accordingly, courts have found that detained or incarcerated persons, especially 7 those falling into higher risk categories, are able to show likelihood of irreparable 8 harm. See, e.g., Bent v. Barr, No. 19-cv-06123-DMR, 2020 WL 1812850, at *6 9 (N.D. Cal. April 9, 2020) (citing Coronel v. Decker, 2020 WL 1487274, at *3) (“Due 10 to their serious underlying medical conditions, all Petitioners face a risk of severe, 11 irreparable harm if they contract COVID-19.”); Kaur v. U.S. Dep’t of Homeland

16 the pandemic, and with few exceptions, courts did not hesitate to find irreparable 17 harm as a result of potential COVID-19 exposure in prison and detention, including 18 in facilities where there had not been a confirmed case. At this stage of the pandemic, 19 the threat is even clearer.”).

20 Plaintiffs who are Medically Vulnerable are at especially grave and highly 21 probable risk of irreparable harm.<sup>46</sup> Dr. Parker concluded that it is his professional 24 <sup>46</sup> Vazquez Barrera v. Wolf, No. 4:20-CV-1241, 2020 WL 1904497, at *6 (S.D. Tex.

25 Apr. 17, 2020) (“Plaintiffs’ alleged harm is both imminent and irreparable. The 26 COVID-19 pandemic has reached every state in our nation, and the numbers of 27 infected and dead increase daily. According to the CDC, those with particular 28 medical vulnerabilities, including Plaintiffs, are particularly susceptible to serious illness and death. There is currently no vaccine or cure for COVID-19.”)

1 judgment that Medically Vulnerable individuals “are at greater risk of serious health 2 consequences” and “face an imminent threat of death unless they are released.”<sup>47</sup> 3 COVID-19 can cause severe health effects, including organ failure, even if the 4 patient survives the infection.<sup>48</sup>

5 Immediate release of the Medically Vulnerable and Disability Subclasses is 6 the only way to effectively mitigate the grave and imminent risk of harm to these 7 Class Members from this highly contagious, lethal disease with no treatment and no 8 cure.<sup>49</sup> Without significant reductions in the jail population (as well as other 9 mitigation measures), the disease will continue to spread in the jail.<sup>50</sup> Thus, 10 continued detention will expose the Medically-Vulnerable and Disability Subclasses 11 to unacceptably high levels of lethal risk.<sup>51</sup> There is, in other words, no set of 12 conditions of confinement at the Orange County Jail that, given the current infection 13 prevalence and community spread of COVID-19, would be able to comply with the 14 Constitution or the ADA or Rehabilitation Act for the Medically-Vulnerable and 15 Disability Subclasses.

16 For the other Class Members, the Sheriff’s refusal to undertake population 17 reduction measures of sufficient speed and scope is causing an interacting set of 18 failures that make it impossible for the Jail to meet the CDC Guidance. As one 19 example, the Jail cannot effectively quarantine people it incarcerates. Given the 20 current number and growth of cases, it is already unlikely that there are sufficient 21 numbers of single cells to carry out necessary isolation and quarantine procedures.<sup>52</sup>

26 <sup>51</sup> Ex. C, Parker Decl. ¶ 33.

27 <sup>52</sup> Ex. D, Goldenson Decl. ¶¶ 43-44.

1 In the absence of adequate isolation and quarantine bedspace, the Jail will be forced 2 to use more cohort quarantines, thus exposing more people to infection risks.<sup>53</sup>

3 The increasing need for quarantine bedspace in turn puts additional pressure 4 on available bedspace in other parts of the Jail, leading to greater movement and 5 mixing that increases exposure risks.<sup>54</sup> Because the Jail must reserve so much space 6 for quarantines, officials have been consolidating increasingly large groups of 7 people in dorms, making it even harder for non-quarantined individuals to socially 8 distance.<sup>55</sup> As the number of confirmed and suspected cases grows and such 9 crowding worsens, the only way to instantly create more available bedspace is to 10 reduce the jail population.

11 The only way to relieve pressure on the system and meet the simultaneous 12 needs for adequate quarantine beds, adequate social distancing, and adequate 13 hygiene, PPE, and testing is to reduce the number of people in the Jail.<sup>56</sup>

14 The likelihood of irreparable harm factor tips the scale in favor of emergency 15 injunctive relief. Without judicial intervention, some Plaintiffs, especially the 16 Medically Vulnerable and Disabled, may die or suffer serious illness. For some, 17 incarceration in the Orange County Jail will be a death sentence, without any of the 18 due process associated with that most final of punishments.

1           C. The Potential Harms To Plaintiffs Are Much Greater Than Any 2           Speculative Harm Defendants May Assert, and the Public's 3           Interest Favors the Requested Injunction.

4           The threatened injury to Plaintiffs and putative Class Members—sickness up 5           to and including organ failure and death—outweighs any theoretical injury posed by 6           the requested Injunction to Defendants.

7           Although Defendants may argue that releasing Plaintiffs somehow will impact 8           public safety, any such impact pales in comparison to the potential human cost and, 9           anyway, is purely speculative. Over a month ago, the California Judicial Council 10          recommended early releases for more categories of people than Defendants are 11          currently considering for early release. Sheriff Barnes also has broad authority to 12          move or release people in his custody in order to protect them from the COVID-19 13          pandemic. See California Government Code § 8658. That statutory authority 14          permits him to go well beyond what he has done thus far to protect those entrusted 15          to his care under § 8658, many of whom are still afforded the presumption of 16          innocence. The speculative risk that a person could commit a crime if released must 17          be weighed against the clear evidence that the longer Sheriff Barnes holds people in 18          the jail—particularly those in the Medically Vulnerable and Disability Subclasses—19          the greater the risk that they will become infected and die.

20          Not only do detained people risk becoming sick themselves, but allowing 21          COVID-19 to spread in the Jail endangers the health of deputies, healthcare workers, 22          other staff, and attorneys visiting clients, as well as the health of their families.
23          Further, a continued outbreak in the Jail would strain hospital resources in the 24          Orange County community, potentially creating a humanitarian disaster. These

1 hospital resources are limited and are not equipped to handle the kind of outbreak
2 that is likely to occur in the Orange County Jail without immediate intervention.<sup>57</sup>

3 The public interest thus leans heavily in favor of the requested injunction.

4 D. Plaintiffs' Requested Relief

5 Because Plaintiffs are likely to succeed on the merits, face risk of immediate 6 harm, and the balance of harms weighs decidedly in their favor, Plaintiffs request:

7 1. Release of Medically-Vulnerable and Disability Subclass Members

8 The members of the Medically-Vulnerable and Disability Subclasses all have 9 health conditions, disabilities, or characteristics that cause them to be exceptionally 10 vulnerable to death or serious harm to their health if they contract COVID-19. The 11 Orange County Jail has identified, but not released, approximately 488 detainees 12 who are medically vulnerable and at heightened risk of serious infection and death.
13 All people on this list are in the Medically-Vulnerable Subclass. Most of the people 14 on this list are also in the Disability Subclasses, including people of any age who 15 have certain underlying medical conditions also have an elevated risk.<sup>58</sup> The 16 structure of the Jail makes it impossible to detain Medically-Vulnerable and 17 Disability subclass members in a constitutional manner during this pandemic.<sup>59</sup> 18 Given this, the Jail cannot consistently enforce social distancing and 20 second 19 handwashing by all incarcerated people (and all those who work at the Jail) in a 20 manner that would ensure the Medically-Vulnerable and Disability subclass 21

22 <sup>57</sup> Ex. C, Parker Decl. ¶¶ 28-30; see Fraihat, 2020 WL 1932570, at *28 (“Plaintiffs 23 also attach evidence suggesting that a failure to protect the most vulnerable detainees 24 could quickly overwhelm local hospitals with insufficient ICU beds or respirators, entered, however, survival is maximized . . .”) (internal citations omitted).

1 members would not be at risk of being infected with the virus.<sup>60</sup> Put simply,
2 Defendants cannot ensure their health and safety within the Jail. Recognizing this 3 grave risk to life, courts across the country have granted emergency habeas petitions 4 ordering the release of medically-vulnerable and disabled people from confinement.
5 The Defendants should establish release procedures to identify and release within 24 6 hours all Medically-Vulnerability and Disability Subclass members unless there is 7 proof of judicially-recorded findings by clear and convincing evidence that the 8 individual poses such a risk of flight or danger to others that no other condition can 9 mitigate that risk.

10 2. A Mandatory Plan To Address The Jail's COVID-19 Crisis

11 The Court also should order Defendants to submit a plan to the Court in three 12 (3) days and appoint a qualified public health expert under Fed. R. Evid. 706, as 13 further described in the Complaint.

14 3. Implementing Constitutionally Sufficient Conditions at the Orange 15 County Jail.

16 Finally, the Court should order Defendants to take further steps to mitigate the 17 risk to Class Members who remain in the jail, including any additional releases that 18 are needed to prevent the further spread of COVID-19 in the jail.

19 CONCLUSION

20 For the foregoing reasons, this Court should grant this request for a 21 temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction.
