JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

I. INTRODUCTION

1. Plaintiff Yonas Fikre, an American citizen, seeks redress for (i) the denial of his right to travel internationally, which denial prevented him from returning to the United States when he was expelled from the United Arab Emirates and prevents him from domestic and international air travel today (ii) the denial of his right to procedural due process leading to denial of his right to travel internationally, (iii) the violation of his right to counsel by FBI agents and others acting on their behalf, which violation resulted in his prosecution in the Federal District Court for the Southern District of California and other harms, (iv) violation of his First Amendment right of association, (v) suffering false arrest, false imprisonment, assault, and torture at the hands of a foreign power, which, on information and belief, was instigated by and facilitated by defendants, acting at times under the actual or apparent authority of said foreign power, (vi) violation of his right to be free from unconstitutional searches and seizures, and (vii) violation of his statutory protections against unlawful electronic surveillance.

2. Plaintiff's allegations in summary are (i) that defendants sometime prior to April 21, 2010, placed plaintiff's name on the "No-Fly List" in order to coerce plaintiff into becoming an informant/agent provocateur for the FBI, (ii) that on April 21, 2010, during an involuntary interview at the United States Embassy in Khartoum, Sudan, defendants denied plaintiff's request for legal counsel, (iii) that during the April 2010 involuntary interview plaintiff was urged to become an informant/agent provocateur for the FBI in order to, among other things, have his name removed from the No-Fly List, (iv) that when plaintiff refused to become an informant/agent provocateur, defendants retaliated by instigating and facilitating his false arrest, false imprisonment, assault, and torture at the hands of the UAE government during the summer of 2011, (v) that defendants denied plaintiff his constitutional right as a citizen to return home to the United States following the UAE government's releasing him without charge by keeping his name on the No-Fly List, thus effectively rendering him temporarily stateless, (vi) that in May 2012 defendants further retaliated against plaintiff for his publicly disclosing his ordeal by indicting him in the District Court for the Southern District of California using information gathered during his interrogation at the U.S. Embassy in Khartoum, during his interrogation and torture in the UAE, and by means of unlawful electronic surveillance, and (vii) that plaintiff was subject to warrantless electronic surveillance in violation of the Constitution and statutory law.

3. Through this action for declaratory and injunctive relief and for damages plaintiff seeks (i) a declaration that plaintiff's right to assistance of legal counsel has been violated, (ii) a declaration that plaintiff's fundamental right to return to the United States by air, and his right to travel by air, have been and are being infringed, (iii) a method whereby plaintiff can challenge the inclusion of his name on the No-Fly List in accordance with due process procedures, (iv) redress for the instigation and facilitation of the false arrest, false imprisonment, assault, and torture by the UAE government, (v) an injunction preventing the United States from violating the rights specified herein in the future, (vi) a declaration that the interception and/or acquisition of plaintiff's wire and electronic communications was unconstitutional and illegal, (vii) the retrieval, purging, destruction and prevention of further dissemination of all illegally intercepted and/or acquired voice and electronic communications and related data and information arising from such interceptions and/or acquisitions, and (viii) monetary damages for the events specified in this complaint.

Previously, however, on April 6, 2010, defendant Noordeloos held himself out as a special agent of the FBI in a meeting with Portland Police Bureau Chief Rosanne Sizer, and on April 22, 2010, defendant Noordeloos told plaintiff that defendant Noordeloos is in fact an employee of the FBI assigned to and/or reporting to the Portland office of the FBI. Defendant Noordeloos traveled to Khartoum, Sudan, in April 2010, in order to interrogate plaintiff at the United States Embassy in Khartoum, and on April 22, 2010, Defendant Noordeloos did so interrogate plaintiff for several hours. Moreover, on July 11, 2011, in an email to plaintiff's attorney, defendant Noordeloos once again held himself out as an employee of the State Department.

III. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

19. This is a complaint for injunctive and declaratory relief, and for damages, based upon defendants' violation of plaintiff's constitutional, statutory, and common law rights. The claims asserted arise under the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment (substantive and procedural), the Fifth Amendment's right to counsel and prohibition against self-incrimination, the First Amendment's right to freedom of association, the Fourth Amendment's prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures, 50 U.S.C. § 1810, 18 U.S.C. § 2707(a), 18 U.S.C. § 2712, 18 U.S.C. § 2520(a), the Torture Victim Protection Act, and the common law.

20. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331, 5 U.S.C. § 702, 18 U.S.C. § 2712, 28 U.S.C. § 1367, and Bivens v. Six Unknown Named Agents of Federal Bureau of Narcotics, 403 U.S. 388 (1971).

21. The Court has the authority to grant declaratory relief pursuant to the Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202.

22. Venue is proper in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391 because defendants include the United States and agencies of the United States, because this judicial district is where plaintiff resides and because a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claims occurred in this district. Venue is also proper in this Court because defendants David Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas) at all times relevant hereto either resided in, worked in, or were assigned to and/or reported to superiors located in this District.

IV. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

General Factual Allegations

23. Air travel is the only practical means of passenger transportation between the North American continent and Europe, Asia, Africa, the Middle East, and Australia.

24. Defendant FBI is responsible for selecting individuals for inclusion on, and maintaining, the "No-Fly List," which lists individuals whom the airlines flying within, into, or over the United States may not transport.

25. Information upon which a determination is made to place an individual on the No-Fly List is kept secret, and individuals on the No-Fly List are not informed when their names are placed on the List, when their names are removed from the No-Fly List, or what their current status is vis-à-vis the No-Fly List.

26. The criterion for placing an individual's name on the No-Fly List was developed in secret by the Terrorism Screening Center without congressional oversight or approval. Under the present criterion, a person may be "nominated" to be on the List if "there is a reasonable suspicion to believe that a person is a known or suspected terrorist."

27. Most individuals on the No-Fly List, and plaintiff in this action, are prohibited from flying on commercial aircraft into, out of, or over United States and Canadian airspace.

Plaintiff's Background, Travel, Imprisonment, Torture, and Release

28. Plaintiff is a naturalized American citizen of Eritrean descent. When he was a small boy, war broke out in Eritrea, and thus his family took him to Sudan, where he was when the State of Eritrea came into being in 1993. From Sudan the Fikre family emigrated to the United States.

29. Beginning in 2006, plaintiff resided in Portland, Oregon. In late December 2009, after working for an American cell phone company, plaintiff decided to attempt to distribute and to sell consumer electronic products on the retail market in East Africa. He began by returning to Sudan, where some of his extended family still reside. Upon arrival in Sudan, plaintiff, in compliance with a recommendation by the State Department, contacted the United States Consulate in Khartoum and informed a representative of the consulate of his interest in pursuing business opportunities in the country. The representative encouraged plaintiff to pursue business opportunities in Sudan. In reliance upon the representative's recommendation plaintiff began the process of obtaining a Sudanese business license.

30. On Tuesday, April 20, 2010, defendant Noordeloos sent an email to plaintiff, which stated: "Younas, I work at the embassy in Khartoum and need to meet up with you on wed 4/21. Can you email me back and let me know what time in the afternoon works for you? Best, David Noordeloos US Department of State".

31. On Wednesday, April 21, defendant Noordeloos sent an email to plaintiff, which stated: "Yonas, I hope this finds you well. I still need to meet with you as soon as possible, can you give me a call and let me know what time works for you to meet? You can email me back or try me at the Embassy or on my cell, but please contact me soonest. Regards, David Noordeloos, US Department of State" [telephone numbers redacted].

32. On April 21, at approximately 9 p.m. local time, plaintiff called the number given and spoke with defendant Noordeloos. Defendant Noordeloos stated that a number of Americans in Sudan had been invited to the Embassy for a luncheon the following day in order to discuss how Americans might stay safe during a period of political turmoil in Sudan. Plaintiff agreed to attend the luncheon on that basis, which turned out to be a false pretense.

33. The next day plaintiff appeared at the embassy. After going through security screening, plaintiff met defendant Noordeloos and another person, defendant John Doe I, who identified himself as Jason Dundas. Defendants Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas) escorted plaintiff to a small meeting room and shut the door; defendants positioning themselves between plaintiff and the door. At that point defendants Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas) produced badges and stated that they were FBI agents assigned to the Portland office.

34. Upon being informed that defendants Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas) were FBI agents from the Portland office, plaintiff stated that he wanted to be represented by his legal counsel (plaintiff was then represented by Oregon attorney Brandon Mayfield) during the interrogation. Defendant Noordeloos denied Mr. Fikre's request for such representation on the grounds that plaintiff had been placed on the No-Fly List and thus could not return to the United States to confer with his attorney.

35. Because defendants John Doe I (Jason Dundas) and Noordeloos were blocking the door, plaintiff, who had never before been detained or arrested, felt he could not leave. During the following interrogation, defendants Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas) questioned plaintiff extensively about the events, activities, and leadership at the as-Saber Mosque in Portland, which plaintiff had attended for prayer services. Defendant Noordeloos also questioned plaintiff about the source of his financial support for this business endeavors in Sudan, and told plaintiff that, because of the Sudan sanctions imposed by the Office of Foreign Assets Control, it was illegal for plaintiff to engage in business transactions in Sudan - a statement that is inconsistent with the advice and recommendation earlier given by the representative of the embassy as set forth in ¶ 29, supra.

36. Defendant Noordeloos next told plaintiff that the FBI desired plaintiff to become an FBI informant to work upon "a case" that was then developing. Defendant Noordeloos stated that, in return, plaintiff would be paid substantial compensation, be in a position to enjoy "the good life," and that the FBI would take steps to remove plaintiff from the No-Fly List. Defendant Noordeloos then asked, "Don't you love your wife?", which question plaintiff considered an implicit threat. Plaintiff responded that he did not wish to become an FBI informant. The interview lasted for several hours until the close of the business day. As the day wore on, defendant Noordeloos suggested that they resume the discussion on the following day; in order to escape the interrogation room and leave the embassy, plaintiff agreed.

37. At approximately 8:45 a.m. on the following morning, plaintiff called defendant Noordeloos and stated that he did not wish to meet further with the FBI agents because he would be wasting their and his time; he reiterated that he did not wish to become an informant for the FBI. Defendant Noordeloos became agitated and, to the best of plaintiff's recollection, stated, "Wait a minute! Are you trying to tell me you don't want to work with us!" Defendant Noordeloos then stated, "Whenever you want to go home you come to the embassy." Plaintiff understood this to mean that plaintiff's name would not be removed from the No-Fly List and he could not travel to the United States unless he became an informant/agent provocateur for the FBI.

38. On May 4, 2010, defendant Noordeloos wrote an email to plaintiff which stated: "Yonas, Thanks for meeting with us last week in Sudan. While we hope to get your side of issues we keep hearing about, the choice is yours to make. The time to help yourself is now. Be safe in Sudan, Dave Noordeloos."

39. Plaintiff remained in Khartoum for almost two months following his meeting with defendants Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas). During that time he noticed that he was being followed by persons he assumed were affiliated with the Sudanese secret police, and he was told by merchants and other acquaintances in his neighborhood that similar individuals had been inquiring about him and his activities.

40. On or about June 15, 2010, plaintiff left Sudan, and on or about September 15, 2010, plaintiff arrived in the UAE to pursue similar business interests involving the distribution and retail sale of consumer electronics there. Plaintiff moved to the city of Al Ain in the emirate of Abu Dhabi, where he sought and obtained a residency permit from the UAE in order to conduct business; he invested substantial financial resources provided by family members in pursuing that course.

41. In the evening of June 1, 2011, persons unknown to plaintiff (who plaintiff later learned were UAE plainclothes secret police) invaded plaintiff's home in Al Ain, seized plaintiff's computer, phone, and other items, and compelled plaintiff to accompany them in a vehicle. Several of plaintiff's friends and neighbors witnessed plaintiff's apprehension. Plaintiff was blindfolded, placed in a confined space in the vehicle, and the air conditioner in the vehicle was turned on high and directed at him with the effect that he became quite chilled.

42. Plaintiff was taken to a then-unknown location approximately two hours' driving time from Al Ain. Still blindfolded, he was led into a building and into a long hall where, by peeking down through the bottom of his blindfold, he noticed that he was passing door after door. His guards stopped at one door and put him inside a windowless cell where he was lodged. Upon removal of his blindfold, he saw that his tiny cell lacked toilet facilities. His cell contained only a bed and some bedding. The cell was very cold because the air conditioning had been set on high.

43. The following morning the interrogations of plaintiff began. Except for the one instance noted below, during all of his interrogations plaintiff was blindfolded. Once blindfolded, he was taken to a room where, throughout his ordeal, plaintiff was questioned for hours in English. Periodically during the 106 days of his imprisonment and torture, plaintiff occasionally was able to peek beneath the blindfold and view shoes and the lower torsos of his interrogators.

44. The primary focus of the blindfolded interrogations was events at Portland's as-Saber Mosque, addressing in particular who plaintiff knew at the mosque who had a "jihadi mentality," what topics the mosque's leader, Sheikh Mohamed Kariye, speaks about both in public and in private, and how fundraising at the mosque occurs and who engages in fundraising there. The interrogators also questioned plaintiff about circumstances and events that plaintiff had disclosed to defendants Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas) during his interrogation at the embassy in Khartoum. Numerous times during the blindfolded interrogations plaintiff's interrogators urged him to cooperate with them and with the FBI by becoming an informant.

45. When plaintiff was returned to his cell at the end of the first day of interrogation he discovered that his bed and bedding had been removed. The air conditioning remained at a high level, which made the cell extremely cold. Because his bed and bedding had been removed, plaintiff was obliged to sleep almost naked on the cold cement floor.

46. During the initial period of his confinement plaintiff resisted answering some of the questions, insisting that he was an American citizen and needed to speak with his ambassador and with his attorney. In response, plaintiff's jailers struck him on his head and he fell to the ground. Throughout course of his confinement plaintiff was repeatedly beaten severely on his head, back, legs, and feet with batons and plastic pipes, required to assume stress positions for hours, and threatened with death by strangulation by use of a flexible plastic pipe. One particularly painful torture method his interrogators used was to force plaintiff to lie on his stomach with his sandals off, whereupon he was beaten severely on the soles of his feet; thereafter, he was required to stand on his feet, which standing caused him great pain.

47. On several occasions plaintiff told his interrogators that the questions he was being asked and the suggestions of cooperation with the FBI were the same questions and suggestion he had heard from defendants Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas); he thus inquired whether his confinement and mistreatment was at the request of the FBI. On each such occasion the interrogators responded by beating plaintiff severely.

48. As noted above, during his interrogations plaintiff was occasionally able to peek beneath his blindfold and view the lower torsos of his interrogators. On most occasions, based on their clothing and accents, plaintiff believes that his interrogators were Arabs. On other occasions, however, plaintiff was able to view the shoes and slacks of several individuals who wore Western dress. Plaintiff believes that in those instances some or all of the Individual defendants, acting as representatives of the United States, were present and witnessed the interrogations and that those Individual defendants participated in interrogating plaintiff.

49. All Individual defendants who attended and participated in the interrogation of plaintiff were present with the permission, and were under the physical and legal control, of UAE authorities who operated and maintained the secret prison.

50. On or about June 14, 2011, plaintiff was informed that he had to take a lie detector test. During the test, for the only time during his confinement, plaintiff was questioned without a blindfold in place. The questioning during the test focused not upon events at Portland's as-Saber Mosque but, rather, upon whether plaintiff's financial arrangements involved soliciting funds for al-Qaeda. Following the lie detector test plaintiff's bed and bedding were returned to his cell.

51. The interrogations, including beatings and stress positions, as well as being subjected to temperature extremes, sleep deprivation, and humiliation when not being interrogated, continued daily from June 14 through July 27.

52. On June 20, 2011, immediately after learning from plaintiff's family that plaintiff had been apprehended in the UAE (the family had learned of plaintiff's apprehension from witnesses who observed the event), Oregon counsel Thomas Nelson telephoned and then e-mailed the United States Consulate in Abu Dhabi to inform them that plaintiff, a United States citizen, had gone missing and that witnesses in Al Ain had viewed him being placed in a SUV of the type that is commonly used by the UAE secret police. The consulate officials indicated that they would look into the matter.

53. On July 21, 2011, plaintiff's Oregon counsel Thomas Nelson on behalf of plaintiff contacted Representative Earl Blumenauer's office to request assistance in locating plaintiff and made contact with staff member Emily Barrett. Ms. Barrett stated that Congressman Blumenauer would look into the situation.

54. On July 28, 2011, plaintiff was informed that a woman from the American consulate had arrived to see him. He was told that he was to meet with the American consul and that he should not disclose to the consular officer that he had been mistreated during his detention lest he be beaten still more severely.

55. On July 28, 2011, plaintiff, accompanied by two guards, was taken to a meeting room where he met “Marwa,” a consular employee of the State Department who, on information and belief, is of Egyptian extraction. The two guards positioned themselves close to plaintiff, one on each side. Marwa was dressed in Islamic attire (a “hijab,” or covering of her hair). By that time plaintiff had lost approximately 30 pounds of body weight.

56. The meeting with Marwa was short and superficial. Although by that time plaintiff had lost approximately 30 pounds, Marwa stated that plaintiff appeared to be in good shape. During the interview plaintiff attempted by facial contortions and winks to indicate that he was under duress, but Marwa either did not notice or disregarded these signals.

57. Marwa questioned plaintiff regarding what offense he had been charged with, whereupon plaintiff asked the two guards what he had been charged with. The guards stated that plaintiff was being held without charge and that the authorities were merely conducting an investigation.

58. Following the meeting with Marwa, plaintiff was returned to his cell and the interrogations and torture resumed. Marwa’s visit was the only United States consular visit during plaintiff’s 106 days of detention and torture; the consulate did not visit or make any contact with plaintiff during his remaining 49 days of his confinement and torture, nor did it provide any assistance to plaintiff when he was deported from the UAE.

59. Following the meeting with Marwa, plaintiff became despondent. Because the consul's office had sent a Muslim woman wearing a hijab to interact with the prison authorities and the two guards, plaintiff came to believe that, because of his black skin, the United States had "thrown [him] away." He consequently began to consider refusing food in an attempt at suicide, but was told that he would be force-fed if necessary.

60. Toward the end of his interrogation plaintiff again inquired of his interrogator whether the FBI had requested that he be detained and interrogated. This time, instead of being beaten, the interrogator stated that indeed the FBI had made such a request and that the American and Emirati authorities work closely on a number of such matters.

61. On September 14, 2011, plaintiff was told that he would be released that day but would have to leave the UAE and stay out for at least a year. His belongings were returned to him and money from his wallet was taken to buy him a plane ticket back to the United States while plaintiff remained in custody. Such a ticket was purchased from a travel agency; however, when the jailer took the ticket to the airport to obtain a boarding pass, the boarding pass was refused on the grounds that plaintiff was on the No-Fly List.

62. Plaintiff's custodian was visibly upset because he could not board the flight out of the UAE, and asked plaintiff, "What kind of country would refuse a citizen's return to his own country?" or words to that effect. The custodian then reiterated that plaintiff could not stay in the UAE, and therefore would have to go somewhere else, and asked where plaintiff wished to be sent. Because plaintiff had a relative in Sweden, plaintiff indicated that he should be sent there. Therefore, the custodian took more money from plaintiff's wallet and arranged the purchase of a ticket to Stockholm, Sweden. This time a boarding pass was issued for plaintiff.

63. The United States consulate in the UAE knew or should have known that plaintiff would be deported upon his release from prison, but the consulate took no action to provide assistance to plaintiff upon his release.

64. Plaintiff arrived in Sweden traumatized, with few financial and other resources, and clothing entirely inappropriate for the Scandinavian weather and climate.

65. Shortly after arriving in Stockholm plaintiff contacted the airline that had refused to issue him a boarding pass in the UAE and discussed his situation with them. The representative he spoke with confirmed that he had been denied boarding on the flight from the UAE to the United States but stated that she could not provide any reasons for such refusal. Plaintiff then requested a refund of the ticket price, but the representative stated that because the ticket had been purchased through a travel agency in the UAE he would have to get the refund (if any) from that travel agency.

66. To date plaintiff has been unable to obtain a refund for the unused ticket from the UAE to the United States.

67. In addition to being stranded with few resources in a foreign country, being placed on the No-Fly List resulted in plaintiff's losing virtually all of his rights as a citizen of the United States - he could not return home to enjoy the rights, privileges and immunities of citizenship. Moreover, his experience with State Department officials in Khartoum and Abu Dhabi demonstrated to him that the State Department would neither protect nor assist him while overseas; rather, it would actively work to his detriment.

68. Nationals of one country are allowed to visit foreign countries for only limited periods of time before they have to leave the country they are visiting; in the case of Sweden and other Schengen Agreement countries the maximum stay is for 90 days for holders of United States passports unless special arrangements are made, such as requesting asylum.

69. Upon arriving in Sweden and being unable to return home, plaintiff contacted a Swedish attorney, Advokat Hans Bredberg, who suggested that plaintiff seek protective asylum in that country. Believing that the United States, through the FBI, was responsible for his detention and torture in Abu Dhabi and that he may still be in danger of abuse in countries that condone torture (including the United States), plaintiff submitted an application for asylum to the authorities in Sweden.

70. On April 18, 2012, a press conference was held in Advokat Bredberg's office in Stockholm during which plaintiff's ordeal was disclosed publicly. Less than two weeks later, on May 1, 2012, plaintiff and two other individuals were indicted in the United States District Court for the Southern District of California, Docket No. 3:12-cr-06189-JAH, for "conspiracy to structure" monetary transfers from his family to him in the UAE between April 14, 2010, and April 19, 2010, which funds plaintiff used to attempt to start his business. On information and belief, this indictment was in retaliation for plaintiff's publicizing of his ordeal through the April 18, 2012 press conference in Stockholm, and based at least in part upon information the United States obtained from the interview at the United States Embassy in Khartoum, from plaintiff's 106 days of interrogation and torture in the UAE, and from the electronic surveillance of plaintiff.

71. Sometime in the fall of 2013 counsel for defendants contacted counsel for plaintiff and suggested that if plaintiff wished to return to the United States he should visit the United States embassy in Stockholm to make necessary arrangements. After conferring with plaintiff in Stockholm, plaintiff's representatives informed defendants' counsel that plaintiff was apprehensive about entering the embassy grounds and that plaintiff would, under the present circumstances, consider returning if the United States (1) guaranteed plaintiff's safety from extra-judicial actions, and (2) provided adequate assurances that plaintiff could leave the United States once he returned. Counsel for defendants indicated that the United States would not provide such guarantees and assurances.

72. In early November 2013 plaintiff filed with the Department of Homeland Security ("DHS") a Traveler Redress Inquiry Program ("TRIP") request and was assigned a redress number. By letter dated January 23, 2014, DHS informed plaintiff that "It has been determined that no changes or corrections are warranted at this time" and suggesting that plaintiff might wish to take an administrative appeal from this decision. Because it was unclear from the DHS letter whether plaintiff was then on the No-Fly List, and thus it was unclear whether plaintiff was aggrieved by this decision, by letter dated February 24, 2014, plaintiff requested clarification and a stay pending resolution of this issue and the resolution of the current litigation. By letter dated March 11, 2014, DHS replied that an extension to take an appeal would be granted to April 22, 2014. Plaintiff then abandoned his efforts with DHS.

73. Because of the separation occasioned by plaintiff's inability to return to the United States and because of the stigma attaching to plaintiff occasioned by the United States' putting him on the No-Fly List, plaintiff's wife sought and received a divorce from plaintiff.

74. Early in 2015 plaintiff's application for asylum in Sweden was denied.

75. On February 12, 2015, the DHS by letter informed plaintiff that DHS had on its own motion "reevaluated" plaintiff's prior TRIP inquiry and informed plaintiff that he was on the No-Fly List because he had been "identified as an individual who 'may be a threat to civil aviation or national security.'" The DHS provided no factual bases to support this conclusion, and requested plaintiff's response. By a letter dated February 19, 2015, plaintiff categorically denied that he was or is a threat and stated that the bare conclusion contained in the DHS letter of February 12, 2015, prevented plaintiff from providing a meaningful response; consequently, plaintiff asserted that the February 12, 2015, letter violated plaintiff's due process rights. By a "Decision and Order" dated March 9, 2015, the DHS indicated that plaintiff's name would remain on the No-Fly List.

76. On February 14, 2015, the Swedish government transported plaintiff to Portland, Oregon, by private jet.

Plaintiff's Surveillance, Indictment, and Dismissal

77. In 2010, while he was inside the United States, plaintiff and his brother Dawit Woldehawariat - both US citizens - worked together to set up a lawful business venture abroad. In furtherance of this objective, plaintiff and his brother discussed the parameters of the business venture they envisioned and the financial resources necessary to execute their plan. These discussions occurred by telephone, email, and text message.

78. Unbeknownst at the time to either plaintiff or his brother, defendants were intercepting and/or acquiring the content of plaintiff's telephone calls, his text messages, and his emails. Plaintiff now knows this because the United States has confirmed, through Department of Justice filings submitted in a since-dismissed prosecution against plaintiff in the United States District Court for the Southern District of California, that it intercepted the contents of plaintiff's telephone calls, emails, and text messages. See U.S. District Court for the Southern District of California, Docket No. 3:12-cr-06189-JAH, Doc. # 10.

79. These interceptions and/or acquisitions of plaintiff's telephone calls, emails, and text messages were not conducted pursuant to a warrant and were not supported by probable cause or reasonable suspicion.

80. On information and belief, the information upon which defendants caused plaintiff to meet with defendant FBI agents Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas) in Khartoum and upon which defendants caused the UAE to imprison and torture plaintiff was derived from illegal surveillance and searches.

81. On information and belief, information derived from the electronic surveillance of plaintiff was willfully, knowingly, and/or recklessly disseminated for the unlawful purpose of interrogating plaintiff without counsel and coercing plaintiff to become an informant and then to cause his torture by proxy in the UAE.

82. On information and belief, the information derived from the electronic surveillance of plaintiff was disseminated to several agencies and foreign governments including but not limited to the Central Intelligence Agency, the National Security Council, the Department of Defense, the Department of Homeland Security, the Department of Justice/Federal Bureau of Investigation, the US Attorney's Office for the District of Oregon, the Department of the Treasury and the National Security Agency, and the United Arab Emirates.

83. More than six months before the filing of the additional claims set forth in plaintiff's Third Amended Complaint, plaintiff filed a federal tort claim notice with the Department of Justice, NSA, FBI, and other agencies for violating the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, the Wiretap Act, and the Stored Communications Act, and related claims. The named agencies have failed to make a final disposition of the claims at this time, and therefore plaintiff deems such failure to be a denial thereof.

84. Plaintiff has suffered mistreatment at the hands of defendants including, but not limited to, being placed on the No-Fly List without notice of the factual bases therefor or the opportunity to be heard, denial of legal counsel, false arrest and false imprisonment, assault and battery, torture, violation of his right to freedom of association, illegal surveillance, violation of his right to privacy, and violation of his substantive and procedural due process rights. Plaintiff intends to continue to attempt to exercise his rights, including the right to legal counsel, to travel by air, to be free from false arrest and false imprisonment, assault and battery, and torture, to freedom of association, and his substantive and procedural due process rights, but based upon defendants' past misconduct plaintiff has a reasonable fear of further future mistreatment by defendants and other agents of the United States.

Claim One
Fifth Amendment Substantive Due Process - Right to International Travel
Declaratory, Injunctive, and Other Equitable Relief
(Against All Defendants)

85. Plaintiff realleges paragraphs 1 through 84.

86. Plaintiff has a liberty right to international travel under the Fifth Amendment. By placing plaintiff's name on the No-Fly List, defendants have violated and are continuing to violate this right, preventing plaintiff from departing, flying over, or returning to the United States, all in violation of plaintiff's Fifth Amendment substantive due process right to travel internationally.

87. By these actions, defendants are irreparably harming plaintiff. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for defendants' continuing unlawful conduct, and defendants will continue to violate plaintiff's legal rights unless enjoined and restrained by this Court.

Claim Two
Fifth Amendment – Violation of Right to Counsel and Right Against Self-Incrimination
Damages
(Against Defendants Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas))

88. Plaintiff realleges paragraphs 1 through 84.

89. Defendants Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas) refused plaintiff's demand to be represented by counsel in Khartoum, Sudan, on April 22, 2010. Instead, those defendants continued to interrogate plaintiff notwithstanding such demand and then turned over such information to United States law enforcement defendants, which used information gleaned from plaintiff in securing his indictment in the District Court for the Southern District of California.

90. The actions, orders, authorizations, and other conduct of individual defendants Noordeloos and John Doe I (Jason Dundas) which deprived plaintiff of his right to counsel give rise to a cause of action for damages directly under the Fifth Amendment pursuant to Bivens v. Six Unknown Named Agents of Federal Bureau of Narcotics, 403 U.S. 388 (1971).

Claim Three
Fifth Amendment Procedural Due Process -
Placement and Retention on the No-Fly List
Declaratory, Injunctive, and Other Equitable Relief
(Against All Defendants)

91. Plaintiff realleges paragraphs 1 through 84.

92. Plaintiff has a protected liberty interest in international travel. Plaintiff also has a protected liberty interest in his reputation and in freedom from government-assigned stigmas that restrict or prevent him from engaging in activities in which he could otherwise engage and in which others not stigmatized are free to engage.

93. Defendants' actions in placing and keeping plaintiff on the FBI-maintained, secret No-Fly List substantially interferes with and deprives plaintiff of his liberty interest in international travel. Defendants' actions in placing and keeping plaintiff on the FBI-maintained, secret No-Fly List also injures plaintiff's liberty interest in his reputation by, first, stigmatizing him as a known or suspected terrorist and as an individual who represents a threat of engaging in or conducting a violent act of terrorism and who is operationally capable of doing so and, second, on the basis of that stigma, depriving him of the ability to travel by air domestically and internationally as others are permitted to do and as plaintiff would be permitted to do absent the stigma.

94. Defendants' actions in placing and keeping plaintiff on the FBI-maintained, secret No-Fly List without informing him of such placement, of the basis for his inclusion on the No-Fly List, of the means of removing his name from the No-Fly List, and without providing an independent forum in which plaintiff might secure the removal of his name from the No-Fly List, all violated and are continuing to violate plaintiff's right to procedural due process under the Fifth Amendment. Such procedures as do exist for challenging inclusion on the No-Fly List are inadequate to satisfy the notice and hearing requirements of procedural due process.

95. By these actions, defendants are irreparably harming plaintiff. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for defendants' continuing unlawful conduct, and defendants will continue to violate plaintiff's legal rights unless enjoined and restrained by this Court.

Claim Four
First Amendment - Violation of Right to Freedom of Association
Injunctive, and Other Equitable Relief
(Against All Defendants)

96. Plaintiff realleges paragraphs 1 through 84.

97. It is a policy, custom, and practice of defendants to place individuals on the No-Fly List in order to coerce them into becoming informants/agents provocateur for the FBI. Plaintiff has a right under the First Amendment to associate, and not to associate, with whom he pleases. Defendants placed plaintiff on the No-Fly List in order both to coerce plaintiff into associating with the FBI, and to coerce plaintiff into harming his associations with others with whom he associates, by becoming an informant/agent provocateur in a case then under investigation in Portland. Moreover, when plaintiff declined to become an informant and agent provocateur, defendants maintained plaintiff's name on the No-Fly List in retaliation, which ultimately led to plaintiff's being forced to seek protection and asylum in Sweden, all in violation of plaintiff's First Amendment right of freedom of association.

98. By these actions, defendants are irreparably harming plaintiff. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for defendants' continuing unlawful conduct, and defendants will continue to violate plaintiff's legal rights unless enjoined and restrained by this Court.

Damages
(Against Defendants Noordeloos, John Doe I (Jason Dundas), and John/Jane Does II-X)

The foreign intermediaries did so arrest plaintiff and imprisoned him without charge for 106 days, from June 1, 2011, through September 15, 2011.

101. On information and belief, some or all of individual defendants Noordeloos, John Doe I (Jason Dundas), and John/Jane Does II-X have directly performed or aided, abetted, counseled, commanded, induced, procured, encouraged, promoted, instigated, advised, willfully caused, participated in, enabled, contributed to, facilitated, directed, controlled, assisted in, acted in concert with, or conspired in the commission of the above-described acts of false arrest and imprisonment.

102. On information and belief, at all relevant times, some or all of individual defendants Noordeloos, John Doe I (Jason Dundas), and John/Jane Does II-X committed, knew of and/or acquiesced in all of the above-described acts. Defendants' conduct was done intentionally, with deliberate indifference, and/or with reckless disregard, of plaintiff's rights. By the acts alleged herein, defendants' conduct has proximately caused harm to plaintiff.

103. On information and belief, the actions, orders, authorizations, and other conduct of some or all of individual defendants Noordeloos, John Doe I (Jason Dundas), and John/Jane Does II-X deprived plaintiff of his right to be free from unlawful arrest and imprisonment without probable cause and give rise to a cause of action for damages directly under the Fifth Amendment pursuant to Bivens v. Six Unknown Named Agents of Federal Bureau of Narcotics, 403 U.S. 388 (1971). Plaintiff has been damaged in the amount of $10 million.

111. On information and belief, some or all of individual defendants Noordeloos, John Doe I (Jason Dundas), and John/Jane Does II-X, present during some of the acts complained of herein, said presence having been authorized by UAE

Claim Eleven
Fourth Amendment Violation
Damages
(Against Defendants Noordeloos, John Doe I (Jason Dundas), and John/Jane Does XI-XX)

129. Plaintiff realleges paragraphs 1 through 84.

130. The Fourth Amendment provides: "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

131. Plaintiff's telephone communications, emails, text messages, and other communications are protected from interception, search, and seizure by the Fourth Amendment. Plaintiff has a reasonable expectation of privacy in his telephone communications, emails, text messages, and other communications.

132. Plaintiff's Fourth Amendment rights were violated by defendants' interception, search, and seizure of plaintiff's telephone calls, emails, and text messages. Defendants' actions were not authorized by a warrant satisfying the Fourth Amendment, were not supported by probable cause or reasonable suspicion, and were unreasonable.

133. Provisions of the Patriot Act and FISA authorize defendants to acquire the constitutionally protected communications of U.S. citizens and residents (i) without identifying the people to be surveilled, (ii) without specifying the facilities, places, premises, or property to be monitored, (iii) without observing meaningful limitations on the retention, analysis, and dissemination of acquired information, (iv) without obtaining individualized warrants based on criminal or foreign intelligence probable cause, and (v) without making prior administrative determinations that the targets of surveillance are foreign agents or connected in any way, however tenuously, to terrorism.

134. On information and belief, the actions, orders, authorizations, and other conduct of defendants Noordeloos, John Doe I (Jason Dundas), and John/Jane Does XI-XX deprived plaintiff of his Fourth Amendment right to be free from unconstitutional searches and seizures and give rise to a cause of action for damages directly under the Fourth Amendment pursuant to Bivens v. Six Unknown Named Agents of Federal Bureau of Narcotics, 403 U.S. 388 (1971). Plaintiff has been damaged in the amount of $10 million.

Claim Twelve
Fourth Amendment Violation
Declaratory, Injunctive, and Other Equitable Relief
(Against All Defendants)

135. Plaintiff realleges paragraphs 1 through 84.

136. The Fourth Amendment provides: “The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.”

137. Plaintiff’s telephone communications, emails, text messages, and other communications are protected from interception, search, and seizure by the Fourth Amendment. Plaintiff has a reasonable expectation of privacy in his telephone communications, emails, text messages, and other communications.

138. Plaintiff’s Fourth Amendment rights were violated by defendants’ interception, search, and seizure of plaintiff’s telephone calls, emails, and text messages. Defendants’ actions were not authorized by a warrant satisfying the Fourth Amendment, were not supported by probable cause or reasonable suspicion, and were unreasonable.

139. Provisions of the Patriot Act and FISA authorize defendants to acquire the constitutionally protected communications of U.S. citizens and residents (i) without identifying the people to be surveilled, (ii) without specifying the facilities, places, premises, or property to be monitored, (iii) without observing meaningful limitations on the retention, analysis, and dissemination of acquired information, (iv) without obtaining individualized warrants based on criminal or foreign intelligence probable cause, and (v) without making prior administrative determinations that the targets of surveillance are foreign agents or connected in any way, however tenuously, to terrorism.

140. On information and belief, defendants continue to collect, retain, use, and disclose plaintiff's telephone calls, emails, and text messages, and information derived therefrom, that defendants unconstitutionally seized. By these actions, defendants are irreparably harming plaintiff. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for defendants' continuing unlawful conduct, and defendants will continue to violate plaintiff's legal rights unless enjoined and restrained by this Court. Plaintiff seeks an injunction requiring defendants to return or destroy any of plaintiff's unconstitutionally seized telephone calls, emails, or text messages, or information derived therefrom, that defendants continue to retain, and prohibiting any use or disclosure of those communications and information.

141. It is a policy, custom, and practice of defendants routinely to intercept, search, and seize telephone calls, emails, and text messages of Muslim Americans without probable cause that they have committed a crime or are agents of a foreign power. To prevent him from continuing to be targeted now and in the future, plaintiff seeks a declaration that the provisions of the Patriot Act and FISA which permit the federal government secretly to collect, disseminate, and retain information from a person and which allow one to perform electronic surveillance and wiretaps of a person without first demonstrating to a court the existence of probable cause that the person has committed a crime are unconstitutional.

Claim Thirteen

144. The electronic surveillance was done under purported FISA authority.

145. On information and belief, the information derived from the electronic surveillance of plaintiff was willfully, knowingly, and recklessly disseminated for the unlawful purpose of interrogating plaintiff without counsel and coercing plaintiff to turn informant and then to cause his torture by proxy in the UAE.

146. Plaintiff and his brother are not foreign powers or agents of foreign powers, and there has never been any probable cause to believe so. The information obtained from defendants' electronic surveillance of their communications is not foreign intelligence information. Obtaining foreign intelligence was not the primary purpose and was not a significant purpose of defendants' electronic surveillance of plaintiff's communications. The information defendants obtained from their electronic surveillance of plaintiff's communications could have been obtained by normal investigative techniques, e.g., normal criminal wiretap warrants conforming to the Fourth Amendment's warrant requirement.

147. The electronic surveillance was not authorized or conducted pursuant to the strict FISA procedural requirements, certifications, and privacy protections for U.S. persons, and/or the minimization procedures that apply only to foreign intelligence and not open-ended domestic intelligence activities.

Plaintiff was first interrogated in Sudan in April 2010, during which interrogation defendants used illegally obtained electronic communications. At least some of these communications were clearly in electronic storage for fewer than 180 days. Even if the illegally acquired communications had been in storage for more than 180 days, those communications were not obtained in compliance with 18 U.S.C. § 2703(b).

152. Defendant United States is liable in damages to plaintiff pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2712. Defendants John/Jane Does XI-XX are liable in damages pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2707(a), as required by 18 U.S.C. § 2703(a).

Claim Fifteen
Violation of the Wiretap Act
Damages
(Against Defendants United States of America and John/Jane Does XI-XX)

153. Plaintiff re-alleges paragraphs 1 through 84.

158. Defendants have unlawfully searched, seized, used, and disclosed plaintiff's telephone calls, emails, and text messages, and information derived therefrom. Plaintiff is aggrieved by defendants' unlawful search, seizure, use, and disclosure of these communications and information.

159. Plaintiff seeks an order directing the return or destruction of plaintiff's unconstitutionally seized telephone calls, emails, or text messages, or information derived therefrom, in the possession, custody, or control of defendants, their agents, successors, and assigns, and all those in active concert and participation with them.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, plaintiff respectfully requests the following relief:

1. Declaratory Judgment. A declaratory judgment that –
 - a. the provisions of the Patriot Act and FISA and the FISA Amendment Act of 2008 which permit the federal government to perform electronic surveillance and wiretaps of a person without first requiring the government to demonstrate to a court the existence of probable cause that the person has committed a crime, or alternatively that the primary purpose is to gather foreign intelligence are unconstitutional;
 - b. The interception and/or acquisition, retention and dissemination of plaintiff's voice and other electronic communications was illegal and in violation of the Fourth Amendment, FISA, the Stored Communications Act, and the Wiretap Act;
